HUSBAND ARRESTED: Gregory Prince, right, has been arrested on an open charge of murder in connection with the death of his wife Linda, left. He had reported her missing in June, 1974, and her decomposed body was found in chimney of Lincoln township home in September, 1974.

Berrien Prosecutor John Smetanka and Sheriff Forrest (Nick) Jewell today announced the arrest of Gregory Prince on a charge of murdering his wife, Linda, whose body was found Sept. 10, 1974, stuffed inside the chimney at the Lincoln township home of Emil Tosi, famed restaurateur. Smetanka said Gregory Prince, 27, was arrested Friday after he appeared voluntarily at the sheriff's department to talk with Capt. Ronald Irons.

A warrant was issued this morning by District Judge Lee Cook and Prince was arraigned on an open charge of murder. He demanded examination and was jailed without bond, Smetanka said.

Smetanka said the warrant alleges that "on or about June 23, 1974, Gregory Prince did murder Linda Prince."

An autopsy failed to establish the cause of death of Mrs. Prince, Smetanka said.

Gregory Prince reported to police June 23, 1974, that his wife, 27, had disappeared from their home, 4328 Ridge road, Lincoln township.

Mrs. Prince's body was found more than two months later after Tosi called a furnace repairman because the basement of his home started filling with smoke when the furnace was turned on.

The repairman removed a pipe felt inside the chimney and felt what was determined later as the decomposed body of Mrs. Prince.

The body had apparently slid feet first from the top of the chimney at the two-story home to the basement.

Tosi told police that two months previously there was an odor in the basement and black insects were observed near the chimney. An exterminator was called but the odor persisted.

Police said access to the Tosi chimney at about the time of Mrs. Prince's disappearance could have been gained by a scaffold which had been erected for second floor remodeling.

Tosi is the former owner of the Ridge road restaurant that bears his name.

After Mrs. Prince was reported missing, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Finch of Fairplain, offered a reward for her return and ran an advertisement a week before the body was found. The parents said Linda was in need of medical attention and had been seen in the Stevensville-Lincoln township area since she was reported missing.

Smetanka described Gregory Prince as unemployed and having moved from the Ridge road address where he lived at the time of his wife's disappearance.

BODY FOUND HERE: The body of Mrs. Linda Prince was found Sept. 10, 1974, stuffed inside the chimney at the home of Emil Tosi, 4452 Ridge road, Lincoln township. Mrs. Prince had been reported missing since June 23, 1974. She lived a block away from the Tosi home. Berrien Sheriff Forrest (Nick) Jewell today announced Mrs. Prince's husband, Gregory, has been charged with murdering her.

One Surrenders; Dragnet Out For Two In Kidnaping

CHOWCHILLA, Calif. (AP) — The FBI today joined a nationwide dragnet for two men wanted in the kidnaping of 26 schoolchildren and their bus driver, after a third man sought in the bizarre mass abduction case surrendered.

Richard Allen Schoenfeld, 22, walked into the Oakland office of the Alameda County district attorney Friday and surrendered. He was accompanied by his father, who is a prominent podiatrist and a lawyer.

A few hours later, federal and local arrest warrants were issued for Schoenfeld, his brother, James L., 24, and Frederick N. Woods IV, 24, son of the owner of the rock quarry where the kidnap victims were imprisoned for 18 hours last week.

The local warrants include 27 counts of kidnaping and 16 of armed robbery.

The federal warrants charge James Schoenfeld and Woods — both described as "armed and dangerous" — with unlawful flight to avoid prosecution.

Chowchilla Justice Court Judge Howard C. Green signed the local arrest warrants, which set bail for the three at $1 million apiece. The affidavit supporting the warrants was ordered sealed for 10 days.

Charles W. Bates, special agent in charge of the FBI's San Francisco office, said, "Investigations conducted by the local authorities indicate that Woods and Schoenfeld had fled the state."

Madera County Sheriff Ed Bates said Richard Schoenfeld will be transferred to Madera from Oakland by Thursday and formal charges will be filed there.

Schoenfeld, dressed in a blue tee-shirt and khaki pants, arrived at the courthouse with his father and lawyer Edward Merrill.

"I just thought it would be better for everybody if I surrendered him now," said Merrill, who defended Symphonie Liberation Army member Joseph Remiro in a 1975 murder trial.

"They were saying he was armed and dangerous, and I didn't want anything to happen," Merrill said.

Schoenfeld's father, who practices in Atherton, south of San Francisco, had no comment.

In Oakland, Dist. Atty. Lowell Jensen said the armed robbery charges involved trinkets and clothing taken from the children during the kidnaping.

Jensen said Schoenfeld was to be charged under a section of the state Penal Code which covers kidnap for ransom or robbery.

The children and their driver were kidnaped July 15 from a school bus taking them home after summer school classes. They were imprisoned in a moving van buried in the Alameda County rock quarry before they clawed their way out.

No ransom demand was received, but reports published in two newspapers Friday said investigators had found a rough draft of a ransom note demanding $5 million.

The Oakland Tribune and The Fresno Bee said the note was found at the Portola Valley estate of quarry owner Frederick N. Woods III, and the newspapers said officials believed the note was written by the younger Woods.

"They may as well have asked for $50 million as $5 million," said Chowchilla Mayor Jim Dumas. "There isn't anybody here who could come up with $5

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal investigators may ask Atty. Gen. Edward Levi for permission to subpoena the two reporters who wrote the Wayne Hays-Elizabeth Ray sex scandal story, according to the Washington Post.

The Post has resisted efforts by the investigators to meet informally with its two reporters, Marion Clark and Rudy Maxa.

But the newspaper said today the federal investigators looking into allegations that Rep. Wayne Hays, D-Ohio, hired Elizabeth Ray solely for sexual purposes are considering asking Levi for permission to subpoena the reporters.

Miss Ray claims the two reporters would add credibility to her claim that Hays hired her solely for sexual purposes because the reporters overheard conversations between Miss Ray and Hays in which their relationship was discussed, the Post said.

Henderson Names Niles Chairman

Charles F. Henderson, Democratic candidate for state representative from the 44th district, has announced the appointment of Atty. Mowitt Drew of Niles as his campaign chairman.

Henderson of Benton Harbor, a teacher at Benton Harbor high school, faces a primary battle against Lawrence C. Sherman of Benton township, for his party's nomination. The Democratic primary winner will face incumbent Republican Ray Mittan of Niles in the November general election.

Atty. Drew, former Berrien county Democratic chairman, has practiced law in Niles for the past 25 years. He was mayor of Niles for eight years and also a delegate to state Democratic conventions.

Drew said he believes Henderson has the qualifications to represent the people of the 44th district and will ably fulfill his obligation as a public servant.

Put His Ear To Ground To Look For Old Cliches

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — To bear Lawrence Paros tell it, the idea was a blessing in disguise that came to him like a bolt from the blue. So he took the bull by the horns, got out of the rat race and set out to find the cream of the crop and scrape the bottom of the barrel. What he came up with is $50,000 cliches.

"I became aware of certain phrases that are repeated over and over and over again," said Paros. "So I put my ear to the ground and began paying close attention to what people were saying."

Paros said he began his listening adventure three years ago and finished this May with a collection of cliches published in a book called "The Great American Cliche."

The book was started after Paros, who moved here five years ago to direct a federal learning program for high school students, decided he was tired of "working within the system" and quit.

Though he isn't sure the finished product is "selling like hotcakes," Paros, 42, believes he has proven a point.

"It shows that a really true book can be exciting," he said. "There's nothing wrong with cliches," Paros added with a grin. "They're as American as apple pie. But some of them have been used so often that they are losing their meaning."

Like a man for all seasons, Paros believes he has cliches for all occasions.

For example, a politician who is asked a tough question can use this ready-made Paros rescliches, although he'd like to see them used "in much more exciting ways."

"Thanks to the cliché we have captains of industry, all legends in their own time, and a free enterprise system, ever burgeoning and second to none," Paros continued.

"Long relegated to the closet, spoken in only hushed whispers, the cliché now proudly emerges into the light of day to receive its just rewards."

Kalkaska Tornado Hurts 5

KALKASKA, Mich. (AP) — Five persons were injured, two of whom remained hospitalized today, following a tornado that touched down Friday night in Kalkaska County.

State Police troopers said two homes were damaged and four mobile homes destroyed by the twister, which hit about 8:30 p.m.

Troopers said Michigan 96 was closed to traffic for a time by fallen trees, and power was knocked out by the tornado which left a path of devastation three miles long.

Five-year-old John Gondall and his sister, Carey, 3, both were taken to Munson Medical Center in Traverse City after their family's trailer home near M-66 was demolished. Their father, 31-year-old Simon Gondall, was treated at the medical center and released.

Two others, John Ingersoll, 21, and his 2-year-old son, John Jr., were treated and released at Kalkaska Medical Center.

Boothby Wants Full Scale Debate

Atty. Lee Boothby, GOP candidate for Fourth district congressman, said late Friday his response to an invitation to appear on a television program with other candidates in the same primary race, was misinterpreted in this newspaper. He said he plans to participate in the half-hour program over WSBT-TV, South Bend, but that he does not consider the program will constitute a debate. However, Boothby said, four candidates and an announcer taking up the 25 or 30 minutes, there can be no serious debate of the issues. Boothby, of Berrien Springs, said he wants a full scale debate, and proposed that while candidates are together for the TV program, that they then remain for a full scale debate to be taped at the studio and aired later. The television program is scheduled for July 29.

Even The Host Is Politicking The Olympics

While their governments' staged retrieval of all but one of the Arab and African athletic delegations to the 1976 Olympics captured the headlines recently, Canada, the host nation, is playing a game more significant than a protest against apartheid policies in Rhodesia and South Africa.

The African countries demanded the International Olympic Committee expel the New Zealand delegation because after the Montreal competition concludes a New Zealand rugby team will visit Rhodesia and South Africa which are red flags to most of the African states.

They pulled the walkout when the IOF refused to accede.

Imbalance Grows Worse And Worse

Continuing inflation has its heavy hand in many facets of life, not the least of which is the Social Security program. In addition to imbalances already occurring because of a higher rate of payout over income, payouts are further accelerated by the cost-of-living guarantees made necessary by inflation.

The administration has asked Congress to take a good look at Social Security, especially its funding, and has proposed several changes of its own — including another boost in the tax rates. So far Congress has shown little enthusiasm for taking any action. If not corrected, the funding imbalance will be greatly aggravated in coming years. That is especially troublesome at a time when the population shift is producing an older population with more people approaching retirement age or already drawing Social Security benefits.

Some Farm Land Still In Reserve

As more is heard about the difficulties of world food production — and more is likely to be heard on the subject in the future — it is important to realize that the United States still possesses ample land for agricultural expansion, if the need arises.

Record agricultural production of recent years has tended to dim the fact that much idle land still exists in the U.S. which could be converted to production if the demand arises. The U.S. Soil Conservation Service estimates that an additional 111 million acres could be added to crop lands in the Middle West and South. That would increase current crop lands by one-third.

Not all of the land which could be turned into production is prime farm land, but all of it could be made productive with good soil and water management. It is a nice reserve to have, especially in view of the singular lack of room for expansion in much of Europe and Asia.

PEANUT FARMERS ARE PROTECTED

Editor,
It sure isn't peanuts, the money the nations taxpayers will have to shell out this year for more than a billion pounds of unwanted peanuts, produced in Georgia, Texas, Oklahoma and other states.
The federal price support program, for peanut growers, is estimated at $155 million this year and $175 million next year. Democratic presidential nominee, Jimmy Carter and family own a 3,107-acre farm, authorized to produce peanuts on 243.9 acres, but they grow seed peanuts for other farmers. When that program began, in 1941, the legislation required that federal subsidies be paid to farmers producing peanuts on a nationwide maximum of 1.6 million acres. That base figure remains unchanged today, but per-acre yield has tripled and the government's per-acre cost escalates annually.
For instance, the 1975 crop,

1.9 million tons of peanuts, included 800,000 surplus tons government was forced to purchase at $394.50 a ton.
Currently in storage are more than a billion pounds of peanuts. "We're holding 200 million pounds of peanut oil."
"We've invested 70 cents a pound in the product, and it's selling on the open market at 45 cents a pound," says one agricultural department official. Mr. Frick says "the peanut farmer is so heavily supported that there's no way he could do as well on his own. He knows he has the benefits of political protection, and a clever written law". Although Carter received no cash subsidy for his peanut interests, he is in favor of continuing the program.
Millions might not mean much to Mr. Carter, but let him talk to some constituency and ask how they would like to have millions of dollars strapped on the taxpayer for a product which is not that essential to the public. For the past three years, that "political protection", has frustrated agriculture department efforts to get peanut subsidies to manageable size. At least three powerful members of Congress have given growers virtual immunity. They are: Senator Herman E. Talmadge, Ga. Democrat; Rep. Dawson Mathis, Ga. Democrat; Rep. Carl Albert, Okla. Democrat.

CLAIMS STIFFER LITTER LAW NEEDED

Senator Charles O. Zoller

Lansing, Michigan

Dear Charlie,
I attended the hearing in Grand Rapids concerning House Bill No. 4926. About six of the seven intelligent people were allowed to testify who had honest facts about the detrimental effect on business and the State of Michigan if this bill were to become a law. These concerned business people were treated rudely by the audience and in most cases by the committee.

Then I sat in stunned amazement and listened to about forty kids testify for passage of this bill with facts and figures that were either grossly misquoted or completely dreamed up.

Then I perceived from the questions asked by the committee that the members of the House of Representatives on this committee are definitely for the passage of HB 4926.

That's when I really got scared!

People litter — not bottles or cans.

Pass a litter law with a stiff fine and put some teeth in it.

I'm sending a copy of a letter that you received from me in 1971 when several other similar bills were in the hopper.

The letter still explains the total situation except the prices on equipment and labor has gone up and the consideration of fuel cost make a much stronger case for non passage of this type of legislation.

Labor is rapidly organizing in the twin cities. A few years ago a union was an unknown thing in either town. The cigar makers started the first union and recently the brick layers and masons followed the example. Now a strong movement is on foot to admit the 400 woodworkers in Benton Harbor and St. Joseph into the Amalgamated woodworkers international union of America. "The woodworkers in Benton Harbor and St. Joseph will undoubtedly join the union in a body," said a local woodworker this morning. "It is a fact that the Michigan woodworker is the poorest skilled laborer in the United States. We will not attempt to boost the scale of wages now but we hope by forming together to keep it from going down."

Can Carter Stay On Tightrope?

NEW YORK — Jimmy Carter's strategy is clear:

To convince labor leaders he would be willing to see a destruction of right-to-work laws and simultaneously to reassure non-union working men and employers he would not work to abolish those laws where they exist.

To convince the anti-abortion groups he personally is against abortion and to reassure the pro-abortion advocates he would not stand in the way of more liberal abortion laws.

To convince women's groups he is in favor of equal representation in government, in employment, at Democratic party conventions while standing four-square against quotas.

To convince liberals he is heart and soul with them by the selection of Walter Mondale, Hubert Humphrey's protégé from Minnesota as his vice-presidential running mate and by repeated assertions he sees eye to eye with Mondale on every important issue the two have discussed, while reassuring Southerners in particular and conservatives generally with repeated reminders that he grew up in one of the most conservative communities in the South and by insistent references to the importance of private industry, financial conservatism, budget balancing and efficiency.

To convince those in favor of expanded welfare, unemployment and health care programs he is one of them by outlining his concept of what needs to be done, while assuring those concerned with rising government expenditures that he will make certain overall spending will not be allowed to rise. There would, he says, be cuts elsewhere to match the increases.

To convince those concerned with military spending that he will make impressive cuts in the defense budget, while assuring those worried about the rise in Soviet nuclear power he would work for stronger defense — specifically that he would favor a firm increase in naval power.

To convince black groups and other minorities their people would be given positions of influence and power in any Carter administration, while assuring all other groups they would be well represented.

To convince those disillusioned with government inefficiency that bureaucratic waste will be curbed while promising the bureaucracy that its economic needs would be met and its political power increased.

The Carter-party unity and harmony at the Democratic National Convention was held in place at a cost of submerging a good many of the issues and differences with hard fisted rulings against floor debate on a series of emotional issues, decisions made by the Rules Committee at the insistence of Carter's representatives. These differences, however, will not disappear into thin air. What remains to be seen is whether Carter can keep them under control in the hard campaign that lies ahead.

The question in the end is whether Carter is a moderate who can convince those on opposite sides of important questions that he honestly understands and sympathizes with each, without offending and alienating the other side — or both — in each case. Thus far he has been remarkably successful in this attempt. But as each sector of the public asks increasingly pointed and precise questions — demanding less philosophy and more details on exact programs — Carter the candidate will face his most difficult moments.

From now on, whatever Carter says to one group will be televised for all groups to see and hear — including those with diametrically opposite views.

Jerry Brown

Tending Flames

NEW YORK — California's Jerry Brown showed up in New York with nothing much in mind, hung around the Alpin Hotel, and asked reporters whether they could suggest a strategy to him since he was out of ideas.

When Brown finally appeared at the convention on Wednesday night, however, his future role was clear. He is the beneficiary of all present and future Democratic discontents with Carter.

Carter now rides very high, but a sizable number of Democrats exist who will vote for him while holding their noses. Nothing about Carter reminds anyone of the 1960s, when, in the opinion of such Democrats, the party burned with the purest of ideological flames. Carter's early maturity belongs to the 1950s. Today he fits in nicely with the national mood of self-celebration.

During the intervening period of the 1960s, like Cicero, on his farm, Carter was busy in Georgia. He now steps forward — all but explicitly — to rescue the Democrats from the militant and frosty '70s.

The Jerry Brown operation, however, now displays all the symbols evocative of 1960s emotion. Dozens of banners bearing the black eagle of Cesar Chavez's United Farm Workers waved amid the Brown supporters at the Garden. Chavez himself strode to the podium and made a dull speech for Brown's candidacy. As a speech it was a real whiff of nerve gas, but, dull or not, Chavez is a potent symbol. "Carter's blacks look like state legislators and community college history teachers," but Chavez is Third Worldy and has Chicano chic.

The Brown speakers and demonstrators come down hard on all the 1960s themes: civil rights militancy, lettuce, grapes, Vietnam, funky religiosity, hatred for Nixon. The sacred flame of the old Gene McCarthy and "movement" constituency has passed to Brown. To vary the metaphor, Brown represents old wine in a new bottle.

Brownites at the convention displayed a large banner about the size of a bed sheet, which at first glance appeared to be a sort of Japanese naval ensign, with broad, red, radiating Rising Sun-style stripes. Upon closer inspection, however, it turned out to be nothing less than the flag of the Universe, including a circular blue field containing the stars of the heavens. Planetary consciousness, Brown calls it.

If Carter does make it to the White House, Brown, sulking in Sacramento, is going to be a big pain in the neck to him. Unlike Udall's, Brown's brief remarks from the floor seemed sulky and grudging. He reminded you of the first part of a Jacobean melodrama, you knew that the dark and mysterious young man in the Court scene intends nothing very good to the Duke.

In his brief floor statement, Brown assured his admirers that this was "only the beginning." He was not referring to the presidential career of Jimmy Carter.

Brown, moreover, has already shown himself to be a potent focus of anti-Carterism in six out of six primary battles with the Baptist.

If Carter does win the presidency, he should give serious consideration to making the cosmic Brown our first man on Mars.

Were it left to me to decide whether we should have government without newspapers or newspapers without government, I should not hesitate to prefer the latter. — Thomas Jefferson.

Even The Host Is Politicking The Olympics

While their governments' staged retrieval of all but one of the Arab and African athletic delegations to the 1976 Olympics captured the headlines recently, Canada, the host nation, is playing a game more significant than a protest against apartheid policies in Rhodesia and South Africa.

The African countries demanded the International Olympic Committee expel the New Zealand delegation because after the Montreal competition concludes a New Zealand rugby team will visit Rhodesia and South Africa which are red flags to most of the African states.

They pulled the walkout when the IOF refused to accede.

The Arab group followed suit in a demonstration of political unity.

The refusal by the Canadian segment of the IOF to allow Taiwan's athletes to compete as the official representatives of the Republic of China runs much deeper, certainly so far as the U.S. is concerned.

The first explanation given for barring Taiwan's entrants was that recently the Canadian government had recognized Red China as the official government of all China, mainland and islands as well; that to allow the Taiwan athletes to wear the ROC uniform would run counter the Dominion's recently amended foreign policy. Until a few years ago Canada accorded ROC official recognition as an independent government.

Left unsaid, until some reporters examined the Ottawa-Portland exchange of greetings, was a trade arrangement most favorable to the Dominion's western wheat raising provinces.

Their crops normally are in surplus and if they can not move at a favorable price to foreign markets, things slow down noticeably in those areas.

The political effect at home is crucial to Ottawa. In their own way the people in the western provinces are as skeptical of Ottawa as are the French Canadians in Quebec province.

Underneath the Red China pact is the Dominion's determination to pull Canada's entire economy away from its heavy dependence on the U.S.

The dependence is two-pronged, exports to south of the border and American ownership in Canadian natural resources and production facilities.

Following World War II, Canada actively courted American investment.

The war had seriously curtailed Canada's markets in England and the British Commonwealth of Nations, and the Dominion itself lacked the capital to develop Canadian industry.

This U.S. commitment more than filled the void left by the war.

Today, however, a very strong, vocal feeling prevails that the void has been overfilled, that Canada is dangerously close to becoming a financial satrapy of the U.S.

Though there is some question if this is a messianic conviction of the man of the street who harbors some thoughts of his own about Canadian businessmen, influential voices are forcing Ottawa and the provincial governments to turn this investment influence.

Special taxation, investment ratios between Americans and Canadians, nationalization of resources such as the U.S. owned potash mines in Saskatchewan are the tools being used.

A more indirect attack addresses itself to natural resources.

In November, 1974, during the height of the Arab created petroleum crisis, Canada jolted Washington in announcing a phased reduction of oil shipments to the U.S. looking to a total cutoff by 1984.

Since Canada had been our country's main source of imported oil, the impression was widespread our northern neighbor had limitless resources.

Ottawa itself felt the same way until its Department of Energy, Mines and Resources sharply reduced its estimate of proven reserves. A 1973 report re-evaluated its opinion downward by 36 per cent in natural gas and 38 per cent in petroleum.

Though estimates of underground riches frequently have a way of being proven wrong, the Ottawa decision can not be faulted when national considerations are placed in the balance.

This rising Canada for Canadians spirit lay behind a response to President Ford's thinly veiled remark that ejecting the Taiwan athletes was bullying a small country for political reasons.

Quickly and testily Allan J. MacEachen, Secretary of state for External Affairs, retorted, "The position we have taken does not affect American interests in any way whatever. Our position is a reflection of foreign policy and I believe it ought to be respected as such."

The Hon. MacEachen was not implying the time is near when a Canadian or American tourist will need a visa to visit across the world's longest, unarmed border.

He was saying nonetheless that Canada intends to go it alone more than she has in the past.

PEANUT FARMERS ARE PROTECTED

Editor, It sure isn't peanuts, the money the nations taxpayers will have to shell out this year for more than a billion pounds of unwanted peanuts, produced in Georgia, Texas, Oklahoma and other states.

The federal price support program, for peanut growers, is estimated at $155 million this year and $175 million next year. Democratic presidential nominee, Jimmy Carter and family own a 3,107 acre farm, authorized to produce peanuts on 243.9 acres, but they grow seed peanuts for other farmers. When that program began in 1941, the legislation required that federal subsidies be paid to farmers producing peanuts on a nationwide maximum of 1.6 million acres. That base figure remains unchanged today, but per-acre yield has tripled and the government's per-acre cost escalates annually.

For instance, the 1975 crop,

1.9 million tons of peanuts, included 600,000 surplus tons government was forced to purchase at $394.50 a ton.

Currently in storage are more than a billion pounds of peanuts. "We're holding 200 million pounds of peanut oil."

"We've invested 70 cents a pound in the product, and it's selling on the open market at 45 cents a pound," says one agricultural department official. Mr. Frick says "the peanut farmer is so heavily supported that there's no way he could do as well on his own. He knows he has the benefits of political protection, and a clever written law". Although Carter received no cash subsidy for his peanut interests, he is in favor of continuing the program.

Millions might not mean much to Mr. Carter, but let him talk to some constituency and ask how they would like to have millions of dollars slapped on the taxpayer for a product which is not that essential to the public. For the past three years, that "political protection", has frustrated agriculture department efforts to cut peanut subsidies to manageable size. At least three powerful members of Congress have given growers virtual immunity. They are: Senator Herman E. Talmadge, Ga. Democrat; Rep. Dawson Mathis, Ga. Democrat; Rep. Carl Albert, Okla. Democrat.

CLAIMS STIFFER LITTER LAW NEEDED

Senator Charles O. Zoller State Appropriations Office State Capitol Building Lansing, Michigan

Dear Charlie, I attended the hearing in Grand Rapids concerning House Bill No. 4926. About six of the seven intelligent people were allowed to testify who had honest facts about the detrimental effect on business and the State of Michigan if this bill were to become a law. These concerned business people were treated rudely by the audience and in most cases by the committee.

Then I sat in stunned amazement and listened to about forty kids testify for passage of this bill with facts and figures that were either grossly misquoted or completely dreamed up.

Then I perceived from the questions asked by the committee that the members of the House of Representatives on this committee are definitely for the passage of HB 4926.

That's when I really got scared! People litter — not bottles or cans.

Pass a litter law with a stiff fine and put some teeth in it.

I'm sending a copy of a letter that you received from me in 1971 when several other similar bills were in the hopper.

The letter still explains the total situation except the prices on equipment and labor has gone up and the consideration of fuel cost make a much stronger case for non passage of this type of legislation.

HELPS GUARD IN KALAMAZOO MALL

Stevensville Housewife Collars Suspect

By MARK BOBIN
Staff Writer

Mrs. Florence V. Kirby of Stevensville respects the law so much she even enforces it. Security officials at Briarwood Mall, Ann Arbor, credited Mrs. Kirby with apprehending a fleeing shoplifting suspect last Tuesday. She stopped the suspect's flight and held him against a storefront for 20 seconds — long enough for a security guard to apprehend him.

The man was wanted for questioning in the Sears Roebuck & Co. store according to Jim Damron, the head security officer for the store.

Mrs. Kirby lives at 6461 Jericho road with her husband, Dr. David Kirby, a chemical engineer for Whirlpool Corp., and their two children. She is 38, 5 feet, 4 inches tall.

Damron described the man she helped collar as 5 feet, 11 inches tall, weighing about 170 pounds and either 24 or 25.

Damron said the man allegedly stole a drill bit with a value under $2 from a set worth $13.90.

Neither Damron nor the Ann Arbor police would release his name to The Herald-Palladium. Lt. Donald Carnham of the police department's detective division said the suspect was released because no formal charges were filed.

Mrs. Kirby said she had no training in methods of warding off an attack or capturing an assailant.

She explained she caught the man by moving into his path to intercept him. William Sopsich, a security guard for Sears was about 20 yards behind in pursuit.

Mrs. Kirby said she extended her arms straight out in front of her body, clenching her fists to absorb the impact of a collision. The suspect couldn't avoid hitting her and was thrown against a storefront.

Mrs. Kirby then pinned the man against the wall by placing her hands against his collarbone until Sopsich could handcuff him, she related.

"That seemed the easiest way to stop him," she said.

The incident occurred between 5 and 6 p.m. Mrs. Kirby had gone to Ann Arbor with two women to attend a breast cancer detection clinic.

Accompanying her were Mrs. Josephine Garrison, 432 Upton drive, St. Joseph, and Mrs. Mildred Palleschi, 2700 Willa drive, St. Joseph.

"We get only the kind of law enforcement we earn, and if we aren't going to help the police, who will," Mrs. Kirby commented.

"It was obvious to me if someone didn't stop this person the security guard wasn't going to catch him."

Mrs. Kirby said her parents taught respect for obeying laws. Her father, she added, was one person "who would not take a paper clip which didn't belong to him."

Gun Lobby Group Backs Sherman

The Sportsmen's Alliance of Michigan, a lobby group opposing gun control, has backed Lawrence C. Sherman of Benton township in his campaign for the Democratic nomination for 44th District state representative. The alliance has endorsed about 100 candidates in the state. Norman Mayne, chairman of the Detroit-based organization's political action committee, said the board of directors voted to endorse Sherman after reviewing his position on gun control. "His feelings are in compliance with ours," Mayne told The Herald-Palladium. "He feels more restrictive gun control legislation is unnecessary to combat the crime situation." Asked if the organization reviewed the gun control position of Sherman's opponent, Charles Henderson, Mayne said "We sent questionnaires to all candidates for state and federal congressional and senate seats and Henderson didn't respond to the questionnaire, so there was no way we could assess his position." Mayne said the Sportsmen's Alliance sent questionnaires to 450 candidates.

Dial-A-Ride Bus Damaged In Crash

A Twin Cities Dial-A-Ride bus was damaged extensively when it rammed a utility pole in Benton Harbor Friday morning, but the driver who was alone on the bus escaped with apparently minor injuries, according to city police. The bus broke the pole at the southeast corner of Highland avenue and Nowlen street about 8:20 a.m.

Police said the driver, Michael L. Moore, 25, of 855 East High street, Benton Harbor, was treated for a leg injury at Mercy hospital. Moore was released from the hospital after also undergoing tests to determine if he suffers from a medical problem.

Police said Moore reported he may have fallen asleep or fainted. Dial-A-Ride Manager Wilbert Brown told police Moore would not be allowed to drive a bus again, until it can be determined that he has no serious medical problem. No tickets were issued, police indicated.

Police said Moore was east-bound on Highland when the accident occurred. The bus carried no passengers, but Moore was enroute to pick up a passenger, police said. Dial-A-Ride patrons phone for transportation and are picked up at the place they phone from.

Police said the right front of the bus was damaged extensively and the vehicle had to be towed away. Power lines fell with the pole, police said. It wasn't reported if there were power outages.

Berrien sheriff's deputies said John Frost, 36, of 6499 Angling road, Coloma township, escaped with apparently minor injuries at 4:35 p.m. Friday, when an older model small truck he was driving went out of control and rolled over. Frost was reportedly thrown through the windshield in the accident on Mountain road near Friday road, Coloma township.

Deputies reported that it appeared a stabilizer broke and the rear axle came loose, causing the truck to go out of control. Frost said he would seek his own treatment. No tickets were issued, deputies reported.

Mrs. Canfield and other members of Women for the Survival of Agriculture in Michigan (WSAM) hosted Mrs. Brocchini, a member of California Women for Agriculture (CWA), at lunch. Mrs. Brocchini credits WSAM and other Midwestern farm-wife groups for inspiring California women. CWA was founded last January. It already has 2,500 members, she said. Mrs. Brocchini was born in Stevensville where her grandfather, Einer Jorgensen, still resides. (Staff photo)

State Police Pay Checks Get Lost

Because of an apparent mixup in mail service, state police from 44 posts including five in the Paw Paw-headquartered Fifth District received paychecks this morning — hand delivered by a patrol car express.

Sgt. Richard Zimmerman of the Benton Harbor post said checks were mailed last week from East Lansing state police headquarters to individual posts as usual. The checks didn't arrive, Zimmerman said.

Zimmerman said a second series of paychecks was prepared and driven from East Lansing to various district headquarters, including Paw

Paw. Patrol cars from individual posts relayed the checks from district headquarters to the local posts.

Zimmerman said the state police department is conferring with postal authorities, but the cause of the missing checks hasn't been determined yet.

The patrol car express brought paychecks to officers at posts at Benton Harbor, South Haven, New Buffalo, White Pigeon and Paw Paw, all in the Fifth District.

Zimmerman said a communique from East Lansing stated that when the missing checks are found, they must be returned to East Lansing state police headquarters. The communique listed 44 posts over the state. Zimmerman said the relay to the Benton Harbor post arrived shortly after 4 a.m.

Zimmerman said he doesn't know how many officers were affected or how much the paychecks totaled. The Wayland post, also in the Fifth District, was not listed among posts that didn't receive checks.

Jewell Says CanAmer Games Deter Crime

Berrien county Sheriff Forrest (Nick) Jewell says he believes the CanAmer Games are a deterrent to juvenile delinquency and crime and an asset to the entire community. In a letter to Marvin Hayes, president of the Berrien County

Olympian and CanAmer Games, Inc., Jewell said:

"In reply to your recent letter, it is our feeling that the CanAmer Games are indeed a deterrent to juvenile delinquency and crime. The long summer vacation is often boring for youngsters and the boredom and lack of supervision are the root of many juvenile delinquency problems.

"The CanAmer Games not only keep these young people occupied but also teaches them sportsmanship. An often overlooked benefit of the CanAmer Games is that it offers students an opportunity to develop sports skills for the coming year.

"On the whole, we believe the CanAmer Games are an asset to the entire community."

The annual competition between Berrien county youths and youths of Brant county, Ontario, Canada, will be held on Aug. 6, 7, and 8 in various sites in Berrien county.

This year marks the eighth year of the event.

WILD RIDE: Driver and passenger of pickup truck (left photo) were injured, then arrested, after vehicle went out of control resulting in series of crashes in downtown Eau Claire, according to Eau Claire police. Incident began about 1:30 p.m. Friday. Police said booked and lodged at county jail after being treated

jumped out. Truck then struck parked auto, forced truck off road, crashed into three guard posts, went into ditch and finally came to rest in parking lot of Klug's Farm Equipment, M-62. (Nancy Hathcoat photos)

Mrs. Florence V. Kirby of Stevensville respects the law so much she often enforces it. Security officials at Briarwood Mall, Ann Arbor, credited Mrs. Kirby with apprehending a fleeing shoplifting suspect last Tuesday. She stopped the suspect's flight and held him against a storefront for 20 seconds — long enough for a security guard to apprehend him.

The man was wanted for questioning in the Sears Roebuck & Co. store according to Jim Damron, the head security officer for the store.

She is 39, 5 feet, 4 inches tall.

Damron described the man she helped collar as 5 feet, 11 inches tall, weighing about 170 pounds and either 24 or 25.

Damron said the man allegedly stole a drill bit with a value under $2 from a set worth $13.99.

Neither Damron nor the Ann Arbor police would release his name to The Herald-Palladium. Lt. Donald Carnham of the police department's detective division said the suspect was released because no formal charges were filed.

Mrs. Kirby said she had no training on methods of warding off an attack or capturing an assailant.

She explained she caught the man by moving into his path to intercept him. William Sopsich, a security guard for Sears was about 20 yards behind in pursuit.

Mrs. Kirby said she extended her arms straight out in front of her body, clenching her fists to absorb the impact of a collision. The suspect couldn't avoid hitting her and was thrown against a storefront.

Mrs. Kirby then pinned the man against the wall by placing her hands against his collarbone until Sopsich could handcuff him, she related.

"That seemed the easiest way to stop him," she said.

The incident occurred between 5 and 6 p.m. Mrs. Kirby had gone to Ann Arbor with two women to attend a breast cancer detection clinic.

Accompanying her were Mrs. Josephine Garrison, 432 Upton drive, St. Joseph, and Mrs. Mildred Palleschi, 2700 Willa drive, St. Joseph.

"We get only the kind of law enforcement we earn, and if we aren't going to help the police, who will," Mrs. Kirby commented.

"It was obvious to me if someone didn't stop this person the security guard wasn't going to catch him."

Gun Lobby Group Backs Sherman

The Sportsmen's Alliance of Michigan, a lobby group opposing gun control, has backed Lawrence C. Sherman of Benton township in his campaign for the Democratic nomination for 44th District state representative. The alliance has endorsed about 180 candidates in the state. Norman Mayne, chairman of the Detroit-based organization's political action committee, said the board of directors voted to endorse Sherman after reviewing his position on gun control. "His feelings are in compliance with ours," Mayne told The Herald-Palladium. "He feels more restrictive gun control legislation is unnecessary to combat the crime situation." Asked if the organization reviewed the gun control position of Sherman's opponent, Charles Henderson, Mayne said "We sent questionnaires to all candidates for state and federal congressional and senate seats and Henderson didn't respond to the questionnaire, so there was no way we could assess his position." Mayne said the Sportsman's Alliance sent questionnaires to 450 candidates.

Dial-A-Ride Bus Damaged In Crash

A Twin Cities Dial-A-Ride bus was damaged extensively when it rammed a utility pole in Benton Harbor Friday morning, but the driver who was alone on the bus escaped with apparently minor injuries, according to city police.

College Meeting Canceled In July

The July meeting of the Lake Michigan college board of trustees, scheduled for Monday, has been canceled because there is no pressing business or decisions to be made, according to the office of President James Lehman.

Police said the driver, Michael L. Moore, 25, of 855 East High Street, Benton Harbor, was treated for a leg injury at Mercy hospital. Moore was released from the hospital after also undergoing tests to determine if he suffers from a medical problem.

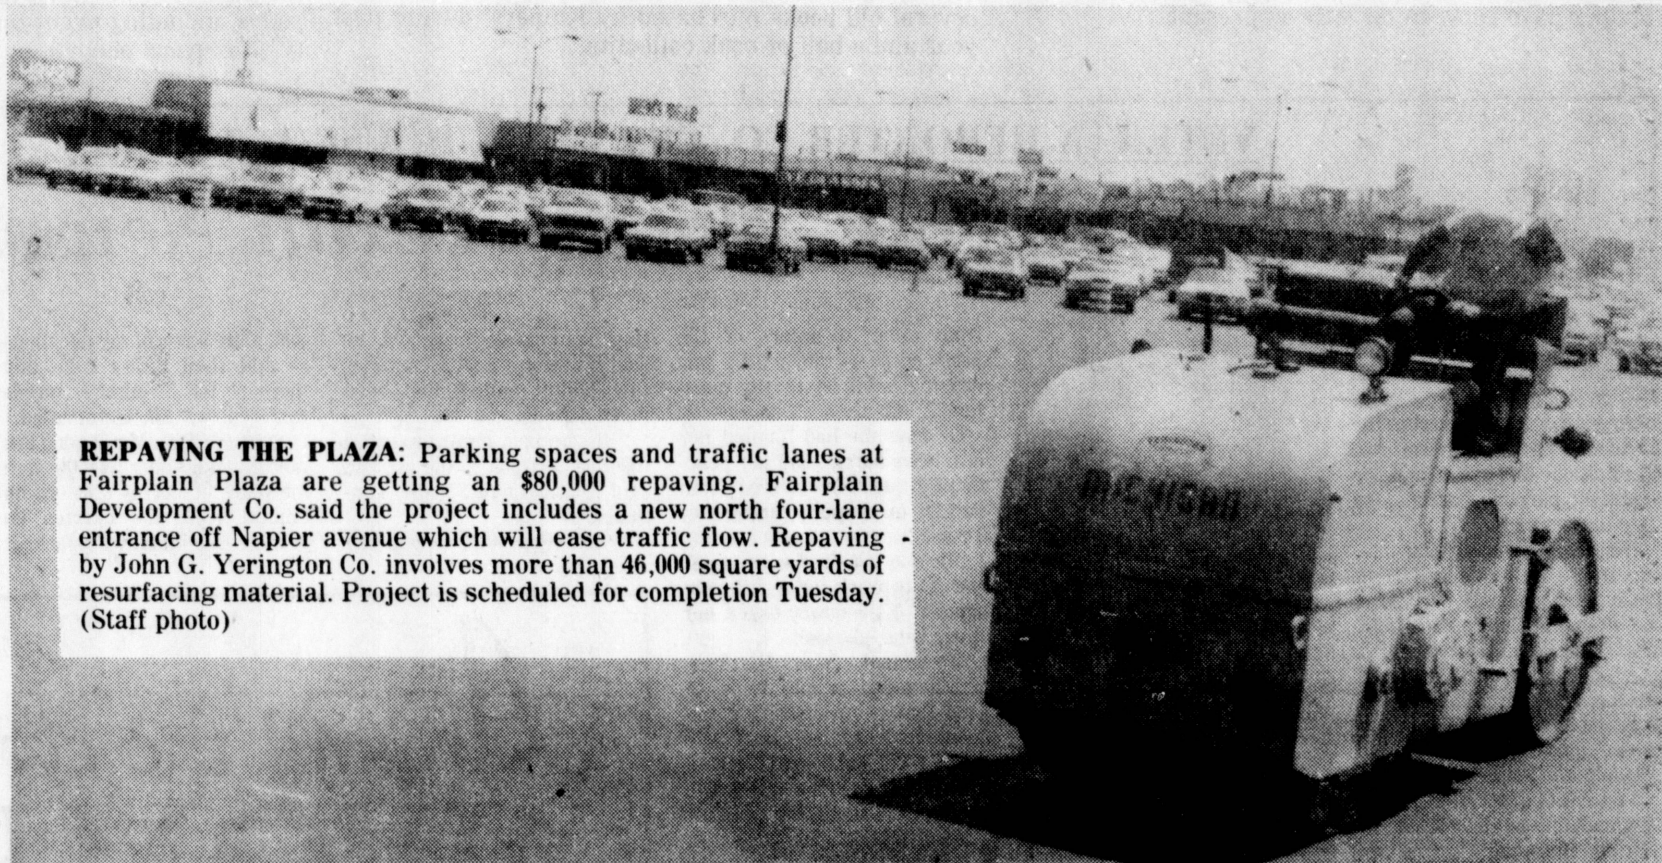

Police said Moore reported he may have fallen asleep or fainted. Dial-A-Ride Manager Wilbert Brown told police Moore would not be allowed to drive a bus again, until it can be determined that he has no serious medical problem. No tickets were issued, police indicated.

Police said Moore was east-bound on Highland when the accident occurred. The bus carried no passengers, but Moore was enroute to pick up a passenger, police said. Dial-A-Ride patrons phone for transportation and are picked up at the place they phone from.

Police said the right front of the bus was damaged extensively and the vehicle had to be towed away. Power lines fell with the pole, police said. It wasn't reported if there were power outages.

Berrien sheriff's deputies said John Frost, 36, of 6499 Angling road, Coloma township, escaped with apparently minor injuries at 4:45 p.m. Friday, when an older model small truck he was driving went out of control and rolled over. Frost was reportedly thrown through the windshield in the accident on Mountain road near Friday road, Coloma township.

Deputies reported that it appeared a stabilizer broke and the rear axle came loose, causing the truck to go out of control. Frost said he would seek his own treatment. No tickets were issued, deputies reported.

REPAVING THE PLAZA: Parking spaces and traffic lanes at Fairplain Plaza are getting an $80,000 repaving. Fairplain Development Co. said the project includes a new north four-lane entrance off Napier avenue which will ease traffic flow. Repaving by John G. Yerington Co. involves more than 46,000 square yards of resurfacing material. Project is scheduled for completion Tuesday. (Staff photo)

State Police Pay Checks Get Lost

Because of an apparent mixup in mail service, state police from 44 posts including five in the Paw Paw-headquartered Fifth District received paychecks this morning — hand delivered by a patrol car express.

Sgt. Richard Zimmerman said the Benton Harbor post said checks were mailed last week from East Lansing state police headquarters to individual posts as usual. The checks didn't arrive, Zimmerman said.

Zimmerman said a second series of paychecks was prepared and driven from East Lansing to various district headquarters, including Paw

Paw. Patrol cars from individual posts relayed the checks from district headquarters to the local posts.

Zimmerman said the state police department is conferring with postal authorities, but the cause of the missing checks hasn't been determined yet.

The patrol car express

brought paychecks to officers at posts at Benton Harbor, South Haven, New Buffalo, White Pigeon and Paw Paw, all in the Fifth District.

Zimmerman said a communique from East Lansing stated that when the missing checks are found, they must be returned to East Lansing state police headquarters. The communique listed 44 posts over the state. Zimmerman said the relay to the Benton Harbor post arrived shortly after 4 a.m.

Zimmerman said he doesn't know how many officers were affected or how much the paychecks totaled. The Wayland post, also in the Fifth District, wasn't listed among posts that didn't receive checks.

Jewell Says CanAmer Games Deter Crime

Berrien county Sheriff Forrest (Nick) Jewell says he believes the CanAmer Games are a deterrent to juvenile delinquency and crime and an asset to the entire community.

In a letter to Marvin Hayes, president of the Berrien County

Olympian and CanAmer Games, Inc., Jewell said:

"In reply to your recent letter, it is our feeling that the CanAmer Games are indeed a deterrent to juvenile delinquency and crime. The long summer vacation is often boring for youngsters and the boredom and lack of supervision are the root of many juvenile delinquency problems.

"The CanAmer Games not only keep these young people occupied but also teaches them sportsmanship. An often overlooked benefit of the CanAmer Games is that it offers students an opportunity to develop sports skills for the coming year.

"On the whole, we believe the CanAmer Games are an asset to the entire community."

The annual competition between Berrien county youths and youths of Brant county, Ontario, Canada, will be held on Aug. 6, 7, and 8 in various sites in Berrien county.

This year marks the eighth year of the event.

WILD RIDE: Driver and passenger of pickup truck (left photo) were injured, then arrested, after vehicle went out of control resulting in series of crashes in downtown Eau Claire, according to Eau Claire police. Incident began about 1:30 p.m. Friday. Police said booked and lodged at county jail after being treated

jumped out. Truck then struck parked auto, forced truck off road, crashed into three guard posts, went into ditch and finally came to rest in parking lot of Klug's Farm Equipment, M-62. (Nancy Hathcoat photos)

Unbalanced View Of U.S.

NEW YORK (AP) — Pupils in Israel's high schools get a "skippy and unbalanced view" of the history and accomplishments of American Jews, a new study finds.

It says the gap is due primarily to inadequate material in history texts used in Israel.

The two-year study was financed by the American Jewish Committee's Jacob Blaustein Institute for the Advancement of Human Rights and conducted by Reuven Surkis, director of Israel's historical society.

The study, based on examination of Israeli textbooks and interviews with 212 Israeli teachers, found that the poor information Israeli pupils have about U.S. Jews adversely affects understanding of the U.S. Jewish community by Israeli Jews.

Fringe Religious Cults

CHICAGO (AP) — Twenty million Americans are involved in "fringe religious cults" such as spiritualism, Hare Krishna and Scientology, says a University of Chicago anthropologist.

Irving Zaretsky, after a 10-year study of the fringe religious phenomenon, says the number may be larger, since participation often is an "occasional 'one-shot' experience." He says the cults often are effective in getting people off drugs, and helping those who have gotten too far out to fit back into traditional social patterns.

Joint Communion Service

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Bishops and priests of the Episcopal and Polish Catholic churches are planning a joint holy communion service in October to mark the 30th anniversary of the intercommunion concordat between the two denominations.

Enrollment Smaller Decline

WASHINGTON, D.C. (AP) — Enrollment in Roman Catholic elementary and secondary schools dropped 47,042 in 1975 to 3,372,791, but the year's decline was less than 1 per cent, as it has been for three years.

Officials say the smaller decline indicates a leveling off trend in a 10-year drop since 1965, a decade in which enrollment in church elementary and secondary schools fell 2,169,653.

Condemn TM Spread

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (AP) — Conservative Baptists condemn the spreading practice of Transcendental Meditation — TM — saying it "replaces a personal God with an abstract god called cosmic consciousness" and "uses the vain repetition of a mantra to replace prayer."

At their annual meeting at King of Prussia, Pa., near here, the denomination called TM a "religious cult" and protested use of public funds for its "propagation and practice."

Area Students At Music Camp

Three Berrien county students are among more than 300 high school students attending Seminar '76, Western Michigan university's 25th annual summer music camp.

Area students attending are Brenda Leedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Leedy, 191 Washington street, Coloma; Carolyn Burke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Burke, 1086 Wedgewood road, St. Joseph; and Val Hohnstein, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Hohnstein, 1285 Pontiac, Benton Harbor.

Many of the two-week students will perform in large and small ensembles in a series of three final concerts to be held in Miller auditorium. Concerts will be presented at 7:30 p.m. Friday, July 30, and at 10:30 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. Saturday, July 31.

ATTENTION! Future Brides

Brides-to-be planning engagement announcements and wedding stories in this newspaper are asked to observe the following rules:

Engagement and wedding forms are available in the women's department at The Herald-Palladium offices in Benton Harbor or St. Joseph. The pertinent information should be typed or plainly printed in filling out these forms to prevent errors.

Wedding forms should be picked up at least two weeks and turned in one week before the wedding is to take place.

When wedding information is sent within two months of the engagement announcement date, only ONE picture will be run. The bride-to-be may have her choice.

Use proper names — not nicknames. In wedding information, use husband's names for married attendants.

Only pictures of the bride in her wedding dress will be used. Formal glossy black and white portraits are preferred.

Engagement and wedding pictures are usually available at this newspaper office after publication for a short time.

VETERAN REPORTER COVERS WHITE HOUSE ACTIVITIES

'Get The News Out' Aim Of Texan Newswoman

By WILLIAM WEDDON
Women's News Bureau

Sarah McClendon, veteran Washington newspaper woman, is among reporters covering the National Political Conventions. Her first one was in 1946 and her steadfast purpose has been to "get the news out."

"She has been watching... and irritating... officials in Washington since she arrived at the nation's Capital in 1943. Seven presidents have shied away from her questions and she has been threatened more than once during her long career as a member of the Washington Press Corps.

A native of Tyler, Tex., Mrs. McClendon began her career by writing for her hometown newspaper and after eight years organized her own news service. In Beaumont, when World War II started, she volunteered as a private in the United States Army.

SARAH MCCLENDON

"I auctioned off my clothes, paid my debts and went into the service with $21," she recalled in a personal interview. "I went to Officer's Candidate school and was sent 'by name' to Washington, because they needed someone experienced in public relations."

Here she married, was released from the service when she became pregnant, and her husband deserted her.

"I managed to work until the from other members of the press corps — they said I was causing publicity by my questions."

By now she had formed her own news bureau and her penetrating questions ranged from paper to paper throughout Texas.

"Do you get fired every week and go to work for a different paper?" Eisenhower asked her at one time, she said.

"President John F. Kennedy's press people tried to keep him from answering my questions on television," she said. "But he'd take them because he said he wanted to know what I was going to ask."

Nevertheless, when she asked him about security risks in the State Department they cut his reply short and went off the air.

"The State Department wouldn't let me get to a telephone and indicated there would be a press conference around the corner — it was on me," she laughed. "I've had several on me."

"Bobby Kennedy said he was having an inquiry made as to what questions a reporter could ask the President," she said. "And a congressman from Pennsylvania refused to help me anymore because Kennedy was so powerful and I'd offended him."

Referring to current sex scandals in Washington, Mrs. McClendon recalled that the wife of a CIA man had been killed on a path near the White House at this time and although an arrest was made, charges were later dropped and no one ever heard any more about the case.

"Johnson (former resident Lyndon B.) and I had been good friends, but he didn't want me to ask questions. He liked to do all the talking all the time."

"I got the first story out across the nation about the Bobby Baker Case," she said. "If that investigation had been carried out as it should have been, it would have been a bigger story than Watergate."

"Johnson had been in the White House about two days when he sent word to Texas editors to take me off the job," she said. "I was removed from my job and given another with equal pay."

"Nixon (former President Richard M.) took my questions but sometimes he didn't know what I was talking about," she said. "When I asked why 20 million veterans were not getting their checks in school, he said it was only a small number that hadn't and it had been taken care of."

"He checked, however, and a month later took to the air and said I was right," she continued.

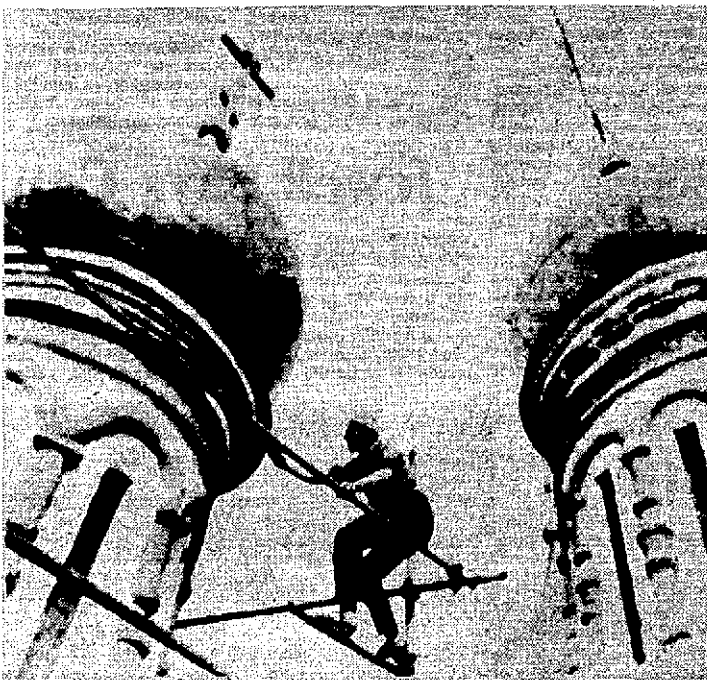

"Ford (President Gerald R.) took quite a few of my questions — and then didn't take any more for eight press conferences," she commented.

Although Mrs. McClendon has literally fought her way through the years in stormy sessions on Capitol Hill, she carries no grudges. Her blue eyes sparkled as she confided that after Secretary of State Henry Kissinger recently gave a "rather dull speech" to a group at the Shoreham Hotel, comedian Mark Russell asked later in his show, "Sarah McClendon, where are you when we need you?"

She obtained her White House pass in 1944 and has been covering activities there since. "I went to FDR's and Truman's press conferences," she said and told about former President Dwight D. No. 249. The Pot of Boiling Water

Once the Lord had designated Jeremiah His spokesman, the young prophet was asked what he saw. He replied that he saw a whip made from the branch of an almond tree. The Lord informed him that this was a sign that His threats of punishment would surely be carried out.

Jeremiah was then given a second vision: "And the word of the Lord came unto me the second time, saying, What seest thou? And I said, I see a seething pot; and the face thereof is toward the north. Then the Lord said unto me, Out of the north an evil shall break forth upon all the inhabitants of the land." (Jeremiah 1:13-14)

"Thou therefore gird up thy loins, and arise, and speak unto them all that I command thee: be not dismayed at their faces, lest I confound thee before them. . . . And they shall fight against thee, but they shall not prevail against thee: for I am with thee saith the Lord, to deliver thee." (Jeremiah 1:17-18)

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Everybody Isn't Doing It

Dear Ann Landers: I'm the girl everyone is talking about behind her back. I'm the girl mothers tell their daughters not to associate with. Why? Because two years ago I made a big mistake and got pregnant.

The guy swore he loved me and wanted to marry me. He said if I loved him I should be willing to prove it. The divorce was when he said, "Everybody does it."

I had the baby and put it up for adoption. (Any 15-year-old who keeps her baby is being very unfair.) The guy, of course, disappeared. I haven't heard from him since.

Now I am 17 and in love with a wonderful person. He knows all about my past and never mentions it. He respects my wishes and I don't have to fight with him about proving my love. He says he is willing to wait because I am worth waiting for. Believe me, Ann, I feel like the luckiest girl in the whole world.

So please print my letter for all teenagers to read. There are two lessons here that might be of value. First — everybody ISN'T doing it. Second, just because a girl makes a mistake doesn't mean she is branded for life and nobody decent will give her a second look. If she thinks of herself as a good girl and acts like one, others will, too. — From Sharon To Pride

Dear Pride: Your letter will have infinitely more meaning coming from you than from me. Thanks for writing. And heartfelt congratulations for turning your life around.

Dear Ann: I haven't the nerve to say it. Please print this:

Dear Family: I love you and your children and their children. You all visited me yesterday. Today I spent five hours wiping walls, cleaning candy off carpets, removing food stains from the furniture. I am 70 years old. I have no help. It takes all my energy to do what I need to do for myself. I'm so exhausted as I write this letter I feel ill.

Please come often. I love you all, but don't ever leave my house in such a mess again. — Grandma

Dr. Lester Coleman

From the Harvard Medical School comes a report about the use of a new drug for the control of certain types of epileptic seizures.

The drug, clonazepam, in use under the direction of Dr. Thomas R. Browne, has been given approval by the U. S. Food and Drug Administration.

The value of the drug is particularly evident in those patients with epileptic seizures who do not readily respond to the drugs now in common use.

Children as well as adults have reacted well to this anticonvulsant. The side effects are minimal and seem to disappear with regular use, especially when patients are kept under regular observation by their doctor.

Pain associated with kidney stones can be excruciating. For a long time, scientific efforts have been concentrated on the possibility of preventing recurring episodes of kidney stones in patients who have such a tendency.

Dr. Frederic L. Coe, of the Michael Reese Hospital in Chicago, has recently reported on an exciting seven-year study. In more than 200 patients "the rate of kidney stone formation during drug therapy was found to be almost 90 per cent below what it had been before treatment."

The drugs that he employed were effective in reducing the amount of calcium and uric acid in the urine.

Research continues by Dr. Coe and other medical investigators in various hospitals in the United States with these and other drugs.

The National Cancer Institute in Bethesda, Maryland, points out that the past decade has been one of hope for patients with advanced Hodgkin's disease.

Formerly, little hope was held out for such patients.

Dr. Vincent T. De Vita, director of the Institute's program, makes the heartening statement that "Advanced Hodgkin's disease is curable with combination chemotherapy."

himself to one diamond loss.

It was obvious from the bidding and the queen of hearts opening lead that West would hold both ace and queen of diamonds. It also appeared that he held exactly three cards in that suit. If his third diamond were the nine South was in trouble. Otherwise, he would get home.

He led his jack of diamonds. West took his ace and led a second heart.

South ruffed and led his 10 of diamonds. West covered with the queen. South put on dummy's king. Lo and behold, the nine spot dropped just as South had hoped it would. He still had to lose a club and queen of trumps, but he could afford it.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

South blew both hot and cold. His first bid of just one spade was a real underbid. Still there was method in his madness. He was sure that the bidding was not going to die. His second bid of four spades was an overbid, but he wanted to be in game and was afraid that a mere three-spade bid would be dropped.

He took dummy's ace of hearts and cashed the ace and king of spades. If triumphs had broken it would have been all over, but West was mean enough to show out and it was up to South to find a way to hold

BLACK DEATH

The Black Death (Bubonic plague) hit Venice, rapidly spreading to the rest of Europe in 1349. An estimated one-fourth of the European population was killed.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Everybody Isn't Doing It

Dear Ann Landers: I'm the girl everyone is talking about behind her back. I'm the girl mothers tell their daughters not to associate with. Why? Because two years ago I made a big mistake and got pregnant. The guy swore he loved me and wanted to marry me. He said if I loved him I should be willing to prove it. The clincher was when he said, "Everybody does it."

I had the baby and put it up for adoption. (Any 15-year-old who keeps her baby is being very unfair.) The guy, of course, disappeared. I haven't heard from him since.

Now I am 17 and in love with a wonderful person. He knows all about my past and never mentions it. He respects my wishes and I don't have to fight with him about proving my love. He says he is willing to wait because I am worth waiting for. Believe me, Ann, I feel like the luckiest girl in the whole world.

So please print my letter for all teenagers to read. There are two lessons here that might be of value. First — everybody ISN'T doing it. Second, just because a girl makes a mistake doesn't mean she is branded for life and nobody decent will give her a second look. If she thinks of herself as a good girl and acts like one, others will, too. — From Shame To Pride

Dear Pride: Your letter will have infinitely more meaning coming from you than from me. Thanks for writing. And heartiest congratulations for turning your life around.

Grandma's Tired

Dear Ann: I haven't the nerve to say it. Please print this:

Dear Grandma: I wonder how many readers are asking themselves — "Can it be — ??" Well — it just might. I hope your letter helps not only you, but other grandmas as well.

Fears Worms

Dear Ann Landers: My problem isn't really serious, but I'd like to know the answer. I am afraid of worms. They really give me the creeps. When I see one unexpectedly, I react like many people react to snakes. My question is this: Can a worm crawl up cement steps? Since we moved to this new house, I've found a worm or two on the top step and this has got me thinking. Is someone putting them there or do they get there on their own? — Shrecked In Oshkosh

Dear Shrecked: Worms can crawl up concrete steps. The ones you've seen got there by themselves.

I hope you will make friends with the little fellows. They are just about the most harmless creatures on the face of the earth. Read about them, then force yourself to look at one for about ten minutes. You will marvel at the way they move. When you can hold one in your hand — presto, the fear will be gone.

Mississippi Delegates In GOP Spotlight

By JONATHAN WILMAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Ronald Reagan and Gerald Ford both claim they now have the votes to win the GOP presidential nomination, but they are eyeing Mississippi's 30 uncommitted delegates as if they may yet be the key to victory.

Ford's chief delegate hunter says the President has 1,135 committed Republican convention delegates, five more than needed for nomination. Reagan campaign chief John Sears has said Reagan has 1,140 delegates.

Ford claimed the support of 15 new delegates from Hawaii on Friday.

Since both Ford and Reagan can't have a majority, someone must be wrong. Most media surveys of delegate strength show Ford slightly ahead, but both candidates below the magic 1,150 mark.

"I'm skeptical about both sides," said Charles Reed, Mississippi GOP chairman. "I don't believe Reagan's count, hell no. I'm more inclined to believe President Ford's."

The Associated Press tally of committed or declared delegates, with the addition of those Hawaiians not previously counted, places Ford at 1,080 delegates, Reagan with 1,034 and 138 uncommitted. One delegate backs Sen. Howard H. Baker of Tennessee.

Delegate chief James Baker said Friday that his delegate tally for the Ford campaign is "a conservative count."

Baker emphasized, "We don't plan to take anything for granted." This was recognition of the fact that less than half the 2,250 convention delegates are legally bound to any candidate and some might yet shift loyalties.

Jim Lake, Reagan's press secretary, said Friday: "We have felt for some time that the Ford forces would try to present numbers that might enable them to falsely claim victory at about this period in the campaign. Therefore, today's press conference didn't surprise us. Nor does their announcement particularly concern us.

"John Sears indicated Monday that some 40 to 50 delegates in the Ford column are actually supporters of Gov. Reagan. Within the next week, we will clearly demonstrate the accuracy of our delegate count."

Since neither Ford nor Reagan have made their delegate surveys public, it is impossible to tell how their lists differ.

On Friday, Reagan, who had been vacationing at his ranch, returned home, met with staff members and devoted several hours to phoning delegates.

Ford and Reagan have been lobbying Mississippi delegates heavily in recent days, through supporters in the state and on the phone.

There has been growing pressure on the 60-member delegation, which will cast 30 convention votes, to take a stand. They comprise the largest bloc of still-uncommitted GOP convention delegates.

Viking Repair Plan Is Tested

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Viking I trouble shooters have successfully tested a plan they believe will free a jammed mechanical arm aboard the lander, a device that is critical in the search for life on Mars.

Engineers tried the scheme Friday on a duplicate Viking lander in a sandbox turned into a simulated Martian desert at Jet Propulsion Laboratory.

Late tonight, repair instructions will be fed into Viking's computer, and the results of the long-distance repair job will be known Sunday evening, said mission director Tom Young.

Officials said they would try next week to repair a seismometer designed to detect marsquakes. Problems with two radio circuits that are to transmit data 213 million miles from Viking to earth were still causing some trouble.

OWNER BUILDS OWN SYSTEM

Sun Heats Stevensville Home

By STEVE SAGER
Staff Writer

Many experts predict that using solar energy to meet the needs of the majority of American homeowners is still a long way off in the future.

However, Edwin H. Frohbieter, Stevensville, is already capitalizing on the sun's rays and hopes to have his home, including an indoor swimming pool, heated totally by solar energy next year.

Frohbieter, 43, senior development engineer for the corporate advanced development group at Whirlpool's Administration Center, Benton township, has built a house at 3030 Oaklane that includes a solar energy system he has been using for the past two years.

Frohbieter said presently he uses electricity for auxiliary heat and estimates it costs him about $150 a year to keep his home warm. The house, including indoor swimming pool, covers 5,000 square feet.

"If I were to heat electrically without the aid of the solar system it would cost me between $1,500-$1,800 a year," he said. Frohbieter said the solar energy system, which he also built himself, will pay for itself in about two years.

He explained it would be difficult for him to estimate the cost of his system because he got a lot of material below normal costs — such as a lot of copper tubing when the old Cooper-Wells building in St. Joseph was torn down.

He said he also received free paint from a company experimenting in the field of solar energy. The paint is used on the flat plate collector on part of the roof of his home.

The collector has 1,400 square feet and collects the sun's rays. He termed his cost to build the system as "minimal".

Frohbieter said his system works basically as follows: Water is pumped through copper tubes in the roof at a rate of 20 gallons per minute. The water is heated by the sun and goes from the roof through a heat exchanger to heat the domestic water supply to 130 degrees.

The water then goes from the exchanger to the 51,000 gallon swimming pool that acts as the storage system in Frohbieter's system.

To heat the house, the water is pumped from the pool through another large heat exchanger in the house to heat the air inside. The exchanger transfers heat from the water into hot air.

Frohbieter said in the winter the house is kept at about 70 degrees. Presently the pool is kept at about 88 degrees. He said he will be conducting an experiment shortly to try to pull enough heat in storage so auxiliary heat won't be necessary.

When the sun's rays aren't strong enough to fuel the system, Frohbieter uses auxiliary electrical heat. He noted that much of the time in the winter, there is enough sun and snow helps the system by reflecting the sun's rays.

Frohbieter said solar systems are competitive where homes are heated electrically. However, he added, "The best investment from a home builder's point of view is getting a lot of insulation."

Frohbieter and his wife, Gayle, have three children.

HEATED BY THE SUN: Edwin H. Frohbieter, 43, Stevensville, stands next to 1,400 square-foot flat plate collector that gathers sun's rays to heat indoor pool and home. Frohbieter said he hopes solar energy system he built will totally heat his home at 3030 Oaklane, Stevensville, in future. (Staff photo)

Roof Jobs Lead The List Of BH Building Permits

The Benton Harbor building inspection department this week issued seven permits with roofing work leading the varied projects totaling an estimated $7,363. Permits were issued to Gary Roofing Co., to install flashing on the roof area over two departments of Sears store, 640 West Main street for $2,000; for roofing work on St. John's Catholic church, 600 Columbus avenue, $1,735, and on the St. John's convent, 630 Columbus, $2,000.

Permits also were issued to Joe McKinney, repair a rear porch at a two-family dwelling he owns at 534 East Britain avenue, $650.

—Trail Kleen, Inc., exterior repairs to Smoke's lounge, 250 North Fair avenue, $450.

—Ingles and Riley, install a partition in the firm's shop, 202 Ninth street, $400.

—George Young, convert an attached garage into a den at a single-family dwelling he owns at 961 Columbus, $150.

THE TOMATO

Here are some of the things that happen to tomato plants. They use up all the fertilizer you have provided and the lower leaves turn yellow while the rest of the plant is light green and does not grow very large. Fruit take about 50 days to mature from bloom and if the weather was cold at the time the fruit was setting, the tomato may be cat faced. If it rains, the shoulders of the fruit crack from expanding too fast. If it's too dry when the fruit are still expanding, a disorder called blossom-end rot may develop. The blossom end of the fruit turns dark and leathery. We may see this develop now since water has been short. Early blight is a fungus disease that shows up about now. It also turns the bottom leaves yellow, but there will be black spots on the leaves. A fungicide like maneb will prevent serious problems. Girl Seeks To Save Old Home

CLARE, Mich. (AP) — An 18-year-old woman is leading a drive to save one of this community's most elegant old homes.

Cynthia Methner says the home of A.J. Doherty should be preserved as an historic site.

Doherty was elected state senator in 1900 and held the job for three terms. He was mayor of Clare from 1920 to 1922.

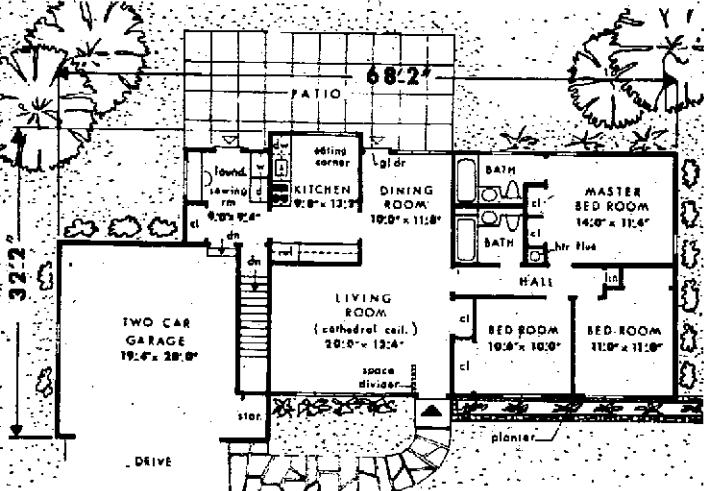

His 18-room home on Clare's main street was built in 1918. It is currently being used as a real estate office.

The property has been sold as the site of a surgical clinic adjoining Clare Osteopathic Hospital. No date has been set for demolition.

"There are only a handful of old, beautiful homes left in the entire state and Clare has one of them," said Miss Methner, a recent graduate of Coleman High School.

"The clinic is an important and necessary thing for the city of Clare — but Clare's history is also important," she added.

OWNER BUILDS OWN SYSTEM

Sun Heats Stevensville Home

By STEVE SAGER
Staff Writer

Many experts predict that using solar energy to meet the needs of the majority of American homeowners is still a long way off in the future.

However, Edwin H. Frohbieter, Stevensville, is already capitalizing on the sun's rays and hopes to have his home, including an indoor swimming pool, heated totally by solar energy next year.

Frohbieter, 43, senior development engineer for the corporate advanced development group at Whirlpool's Administration center, Benton township, has built a house at 3030 Oaklane that includes a solar energy system he has been using for the past two years.

Frohbieter said presently he uses electricity for auxiliary heat and estimates it costs him about $150 a year to keep his home warm. The house, including indoor swimming pool, covers 5,600 square feet.

"If I were to heat electrically without the aid of the solar system it would cost me between $1,800-$1,900 a year," he said.

Frohbieter said the solar energy system, which he also built himself, will pay for itself in about two years.

He explained it would be difficult for him to estimate the cost of his system because he got a lot of material below normal costs — such as a lot of copper tubing when the old Cooper-Wells building in St. Joseph was torn down.

He said he also received free paint from a company experimenting in the field of solar energy. The paint is used on the flat plate collector on part of the roof of his home.

The collector has 1,400 square feet and collects the sun's rays.

He termed his cost to build the system as "minimal".

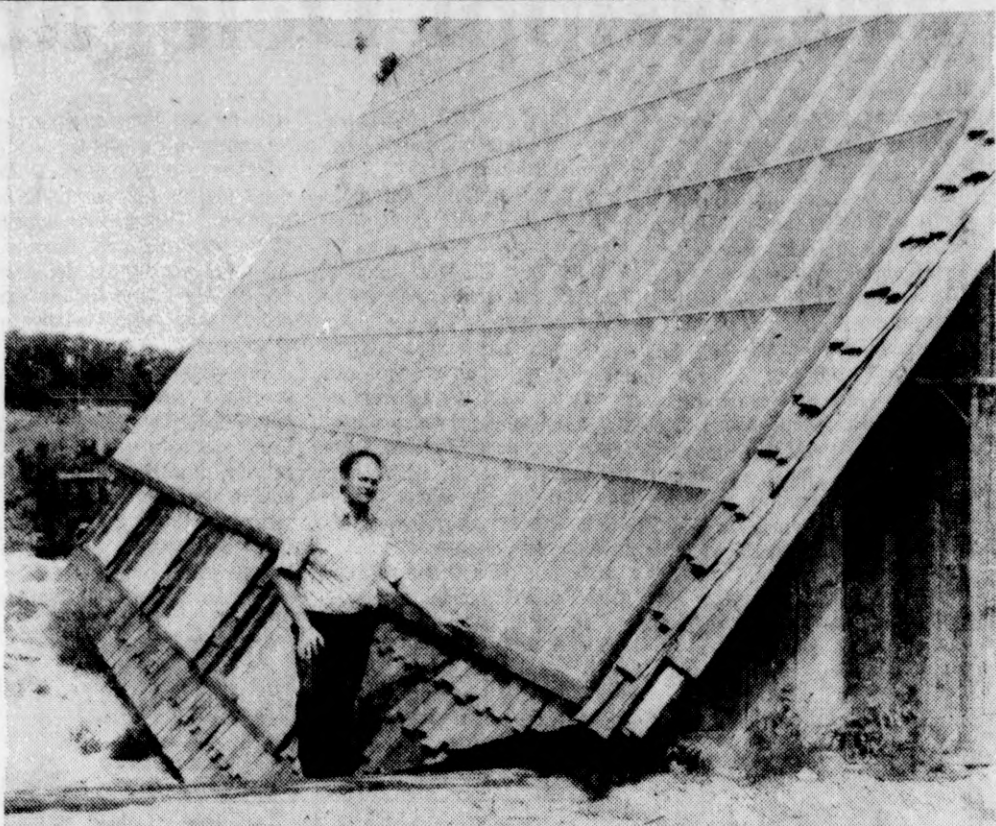

Frohbieter said his system works basically as follows:

Water is pumped through copper tubes in the roof at a rate of 20 - gallons - per - minute. The water is heated by the sun and goes from the roof through a heat exchanger to heat the domestic water supply to 130 degrees.

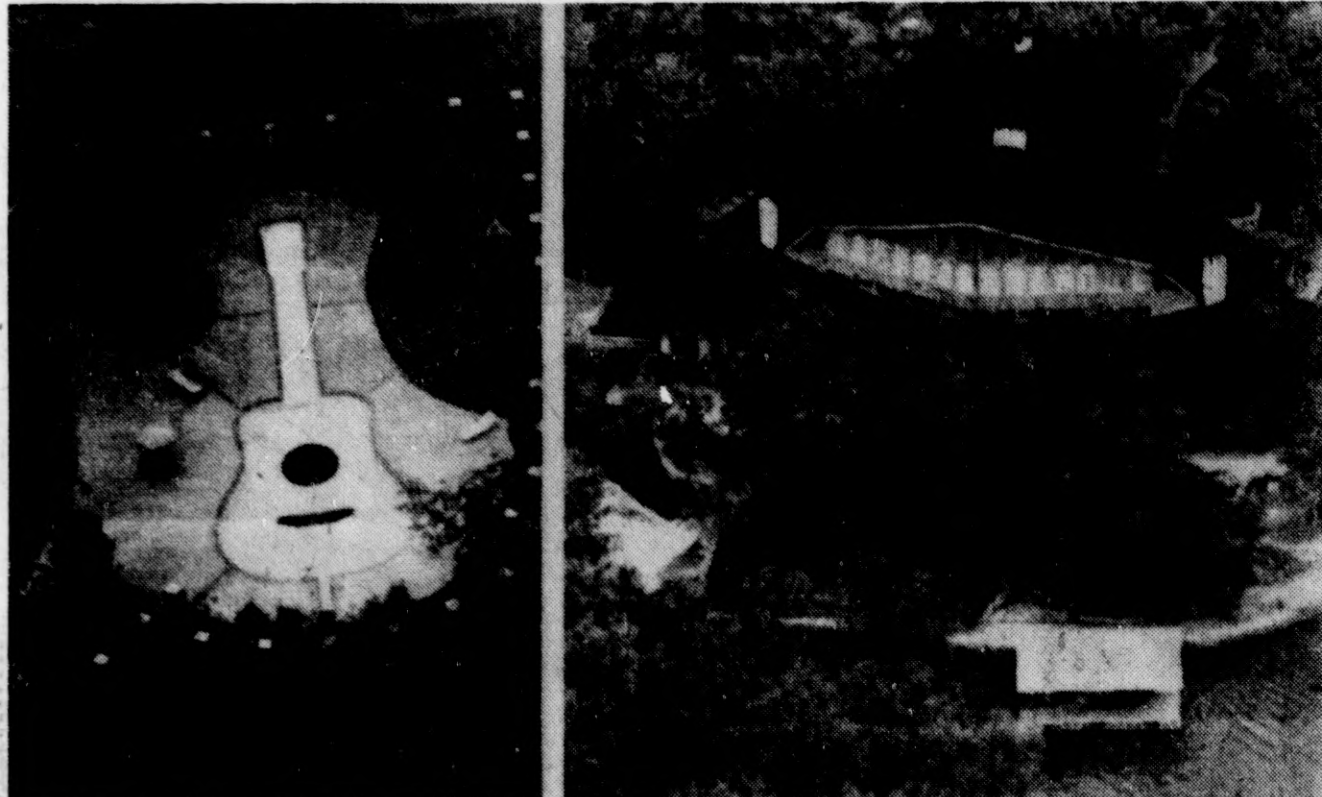

The water then goes from the exchanger to the 51,000 gallon swimming pool that acts as the storage system in Frohbieter's system.

To heat the house, the water is pumped from the pool through another large heat exchanger in the house to heat the air inside. The exchanger transfers heat from the water into hot air.

Frohbieter said in the winter the house is kept at about 70 degrees. Presently the pool is kept at about 88 degrees. He said he will be conducting an experiment shortly to try to put enough heat in storage so auxiliary heat won't be necessary.

HEATED BY THE SUN: Edwin H. Frohbieter, 43, Stevensville, stands next to 1,400 square-foot flat plat collector that gathers sun's rays to heat indoor pool and home. Frohbieter said he hopes solar energy system he built will totally heat his home at 3030 Oaklane, Stevensville, in future. (Staff photo)

Roof Jobs Lead The List Of BH Building Permits

The Benton Harbor building inspection department this week issued seven permits with roofing work leading the varied projects totaling an estimated $7,385.

Permits were issued to Gary Roofing Co., to install flashing on the roof area over two departments of Sears store, 640 West Main street for $2,000; for roofing work on St. John's Catholic church, 600 Columbus avenue, $1,735, and on the St. John's convent, 630 Columbus, $2,000.

Permits also were issued to: Joe McKinney, repair a rear porch at a two-family dwelling he owns at 534 East Britain avenue, $650.

—Trail Kleen, Inc., exterior repairs to Smoke's lounge, 250 North Fair avenue, $450.

—Ingles and Riley, install a partition in the firm's shop, 202 Ninth street, $400.

—George Young, convert an attached garage into a den at a single-family dwelling he owns at 981 Columbus, $150.

THE TOMATO

Here are some of the things that happen to tomato plants. They use up all the fertilizer you have provided and the lower leaves turn yellow while the rest of the plant is light green and does not grow very large. Fruit take about 50 days to mature from bloom and if the weather was cold at the time the fruit was setting, the tomato may be cat faced. If it rains, the shoulders of the fruit crack from expanding too fast. If it's too dry when the fruit are still expanding, a disorder called blossom end rot may develop.

The blossom end of the fruit turns dark and leathery. We may see this develop now since water has been short. Early blight is a fungus disease that shows up about now. It also turns the bottom leaves yellow, but there will be black spots on the leaves. A fungicide like maneb will prevent serious problems. The large tomato horn worms are due now also; they strip the leaves from the plant. Spray with Sevin, Malathion, or Diazinon.

WALNUT HUSK FLY

Walnut husky fly has emerged; walnuts should have a protective spray of Sevin if this has been a problem for you in the past.

THIS & THAT

Backyard fruit growers should be alert for red mite buildup on apples and peaches. Also, continue apple maggot sprays. Flowering crab trees that are severely defoliated by apple scab (fungus) sometimes have next year's buds infected also, thus preventing bloom. Captain or Benlate sprays will help.

Girl Seeks To Save Old Home

CLARE, Mich. (AP) — An 18-year-old woman is leading a drive to save one of this community's most elegant old homes.

Cynthia Methner says the home of A.J. Doherty should be preserved as an historic site.

Doherty was elected state senator in 1900 and held the job for three terms. He was mayor of Clare from 1920 to 1922.

His 16-room home on Clare's main street was built in 1918. It is currently being used as a real estate office.

The property has been sold as the site of a surgical clinic adjoining Clare Osteopathic Hospital. No date has been set for demolition.

"There are only a handful of old, beautiful homes left in the entire state and Clare has one of them," said Miss Methner, a recent graduate of Coleman High School.

"The clinic is an important and necessary thing for the city of Clare — but Clare's history is also important," she added.

Miss Methner's efforts have the backing of Michael Washo, deputy director of the Michigan Department of State's history division.

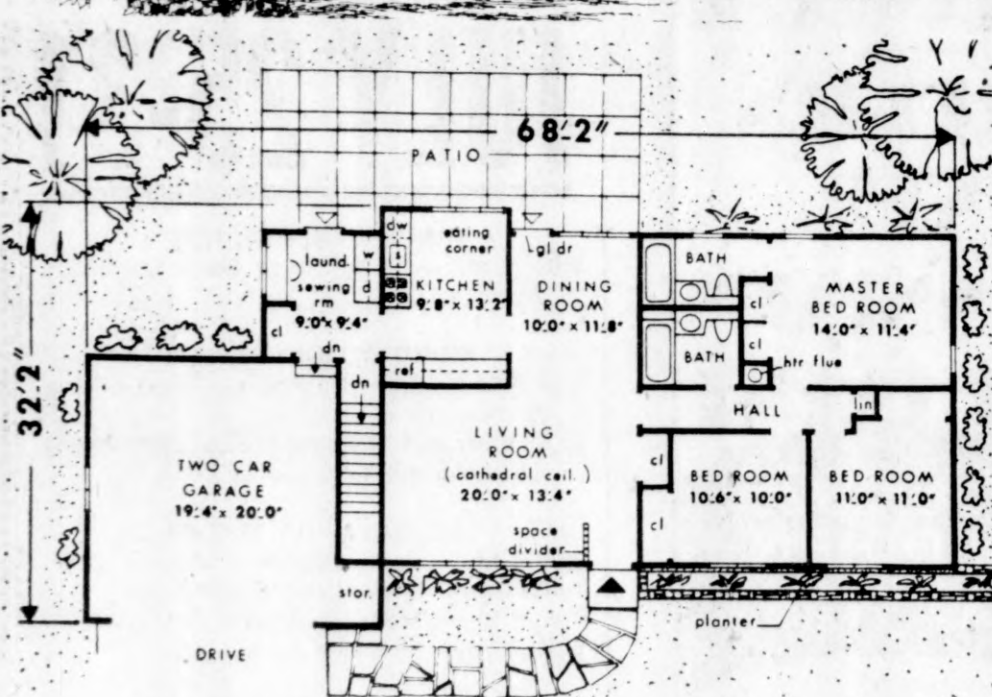

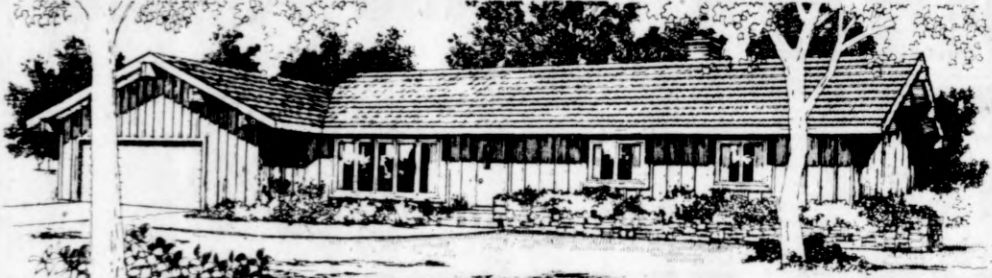

Old Movie House To Be Razed

DETROIT (AP) — The 50-year-old Michigan Theater will be demolished next week to make way for a parking lot, according to the property's new leases.

The ornate, 4,229-seat movie house is being leased by the Charge Card Association, which processes Master Charge for many banks in the state.

Charge Card officials said they have signed a five-year lease with the theater's owners to use the space for employee parking and a truck delivery area.

Demolition costs are estimated at $520,000.

ENTRY TO THIS RUSTIC WESTERN ranch is through a vestibule where a space divider separates it from the living room with a cathedral ceiling. Off the kitchen is a workroom which features a laundry and sewing room. On the other side of the house are three bedrooms and two baths. Plan HA944P has 1,165 square feet. It was designed by Samuel Paul. For more information write him — enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope — at 107-40 Queens Blvd., Forest Hills, N.Y., 11375.

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — A Red Cross car has scooped an evacuation route from a besieged Palestinian refugee camp in Christian-held eastern Beirut. But officials say evacuation of up to 1,000 wounded will have to await further negotiations.

"We have a success," said Jean Haudiger, the Swiss head of the Red Cross team in Lebanon, after he and two of his workers drove into and out of the Beirut during a shaky truce on Friday. Details of an evacuation would have to be worked out "at the political level," he said.

Christian artillery rained the camp after Haudiger's small blue car flying large Red Cross flags emerged. Three previous tries to scout a truck route through the camp's debris-strewn streets had failed.

Fighting raged on other fronts of the 15-month-old Lebanese civil war, and incomplete reports indicated at least 125 persons had died.

Christians claimed they had almost neutralized the isolated Muslim slum of Nahr, about a mile from the Beirut airport, after heavy fighting and a 40-hour artillery and mortar barrage. There was also fighting in Beirut's port area, along the front lines dividing the capital city, and in suburbs and mountain resorts in the east.

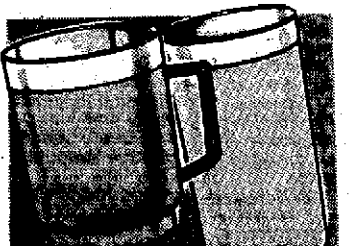

Arab League mediator Hassan Sabri Khalil of Egypt said he was trying to expand a small league buffer zone established by Saudi Arabian peacekeeping troops at a key crossing between Muslim and Christian sectors of Beirut.

THE BIRTH OF the Pennsylvania Line on Jan. 1, 1781, started as an orderly march of 2,000 ragged and half-starved veterans to Philadelphia to present their grievances to Congress. The march was provoked by the appearance of Army agents offering $25 in cash to new enlistees. Although two British agents were arrested while trying to recruit men, there was no hint of desertion among the troops. Washington bargained with the veterans — in exchange for the British, the minutemen received backpay, discharges and furloughs. The World Almanac notes.

State Says
U.S. Owes
$22 Million

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — State officials say they are going after some $22 million in social services money they contend is owed Michigan by the federal government.

A federal district judge ruled earlier this week that the Department of Health, Education and Welfare wrongfully withheld almost $3 billion in welfare payments from 13 states, including Michigan.

HEW was ordered to reconsider its procedures and make retroactive payments in some cases.

Michigan stands to gain about $22 million in previously withheld payments, according to John Dempsey, director of the Department of Social Services. The state filed suit in U.S. District Court in Grand Rapids to recover the money.

Dempsey said Friday state officials will "redouble our efforts" to win a quick decision ordering Washington to pay the money. But he said the federal court decision may be appealed by HEW.

"We will make every effort to get our funds as quickly as possible," Dempsey said. "But we still don't know when we'll get it."

Postage Hike Permanent; 7 States Sue

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Service, target of several pending legal attacks, could suffer a substantial financial setback if seven states succeed in their challenge of the 13-cent first-class postal rate. Opposing the letter rate, Maine Attorney General Joseph Brennan charged that it doesn't cost the Postal Service 13 cents to deliver a first-class letter.

By officially making the 13-cent rate permanent last Sunday, "The Postal Service apparently means to continue business as usual, forcing first-class mailers to subsidize mail of other classes," Brennan said. The seven states notified the U.S. Court of Appeals on Friday that they will challenge the legality of the first-class postage rate.

The states have opposed the Postal Service plan to establish 13 cents as the permanent rate in hearings before the Postal Rate Commission, an independent advisory body. "The evidence presented showed that the 13-cent rate is well in excess of the cost of mailing a first class letter," Brennan said. The other states involved in the case are New Jersey, Massachusetts, Florida, Indiana, New Mexico and Texas.

The case resembles a suit by 11 states challenging the Postal Service's increase last December on a temporary basis from 10 to 13 cents per letter. The Postal Service won in U.S. District Court, but the case is now on appeal. Other cases challenging postal rates on a variety of grounds have been brought by associations representing bulk mailers and greeting-card publishers and by the National Easter Seal Society. The Court of Appeals has heard arguments in these cases and is considering its decision. A court-ordered rollback to 10 cents per letter could increase the Postal Service's red ink by $7 million per day, the mail agency says.

In a case in U.S. District Court here, 51 members of Congress are challenging Postal Service regulations allowing certain unprofitable post offices to be closed for economy reasons. Losing that case would increase deficits by $5,500 per day, the Postal Service said. The agency lost a record $1.4 billion in the last fiscal year and projects losses of $1 billion more in fiscal 1977 without new federal subsidies to cover the deficits.

State Failure On Nursing Homes Blasted

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

LANSING — A consumers' group says Schato Nursing home in Dowagiac is one of eight whose construction applications between August, 1974, and May, 1976, were not adequately reviewed by the state. The group, Citizens for Better Care, contended that state failed to hold requested hearings within a required 30-day period for Schato nursing home and Schoenfeld nursing home, Livonia.

Schato had proposed a $465,000 addition to its facilities at 611 North Colby street, Dowagiac. The 45-bed addition would bring capacity to 150 beds.

In May, 1975, the state health department denied Schato's request saying the requested number of beds for the proposed addition would have contributed significantly to an excess of long-term care beds, beyond projected 1980 needs for the service area.

The group alleges the public health department failed to conduct reviews and hearings on eight applications for nursing home construction within the time limits set by federal law.

Therefore, the group contends, the state was required to give approval by default to seven of the eight homes "which were either not needed or not adequately evaluated in terms of fiscal efficiency and the potential for providing decent care."

The alleged failure may lead to unnecessary construction at a potential cost of $10 million over the next 25 years to state-paid Medicare-Medicaid, charges the Detroit-based group, Citizens For Better Care.

State Sen. John Otterbacher, D-Grand Rapids, sent a copy of a letter containing the allegations to the Department of Public Health.

Otterbacher said Friday his Health, Social Services and Retirement Committee would formally question several department members "after they have time to document their side of the story."

Health department officials were not available for comment.

A Citizens For Better Care official said the department claims it is understaffed and that steps will be taken to avoid similar problems in the future. "Unless the public health department reviews a project and specifically approves or denies application of Medicare-Medicaid funds for construction within a set time, the approval is granted automatically, said a spokesman for Citizens For Better Care.

Citizens for Better Care charged the health department did not complete an internal review within 90 days as required at Alexander Convalescent Home in Royal Oak, Lakeview Manor in Grayling, Pierce Nursing Home in Alpena, and the Provincial House in Mount Pleasant.

The group said the department failed to inform the applicants of the internal review in writing within the 90-day period at Flint's Lafayette Nursing Home and Lansing's Provincial House.

Two Teens Accused Of Assault

SOUTH HAVEN — Nathaniel Goodwin, 18, of 452 Maple street, South Haven and Wade Wilkins, 18, of 1013 Kalamazoo street, South Haven were each ordered held in lieu of $5,000 bond yesterday on a charge of felonious assault.

The teenagers were arrested by city police on warrants charging they assaulted an employee of the Roma Pizza restaurant of South Haven Thursday night.

The bond was set by Seventh District court Magistrate Arnold Servatius pending arraignment Monday.

The youths are charged in a complaint by David Burman of Bridgman that he was assaulted by two men with a club and knife in the kitchen of the restaurant. Burman said he was struck on the head by the club. Four stitches were needed to close the wound, police said.

Burman told police he had argued with the men earlier Thursday night and that they returned later to the restaurant where the alleged assault occurred.

In other cases, Howard Jones, 62, 201 Center street, South Haven was sentenced to 180 days in the Van Buren county jail after being found guilty on three counts of cashing non-sufficient fund checks. Two of the counts were from South Haven city police complaints and the third from Bangor police.

Illinois Boy, 10, Drowns In Pond Near Lawrence

LAWRENCE — A 10-year-old Maywood, Ill., boy drowned Friday night in an irrigation pond near a summer residence where his family was visiting north of here, reported Van Buren Sheriff Richard Stump.

The victim was identified as Mark Douglas Cavender, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Cavender of Maywood.

The drowning was Van Buren's fourth of the year and was reported at 6 p.m. after members of two families conducted a land search on finding Mark missing and a float he had been using on the shore.

The body was recovered by state police divers from the proposed new inter-Lutheran hymnal and service book.

The book has been proposed as laying out common ground for the three major Lutheran denominations in North America: the LCA, the American Lutheran Church and the Missouri Synod.

The updated liturgy, if approved, would probably be available to congregations by 1978.

The LCA, which has some 3.1 million members, is holding its biennial convention this week. The 605 delegates set church policy on major issues.

On Friday, they reaffirmed current church policy on abortion, which permits it "as an ethical decision when all factors are taken into consideration."

The convention also adopted a resolution supporting the abolition of existing nuclear weapons and a ban on further testing and development.

Then the delegates resolved to encourage seminaries to provide guidance to seminarians and their spouses in "preparing for and adjusting to the peculiar strains and pressures of parish life."

The resolution also urged seminaries "to be sensitive to the unique problems of women seminarians and ... to insure that women are adequately represented on their staffs and faculties."

The delegates deferred consideration of a controversial proposal to put all seminaries under one national structure. The seminaries now are governed and financed by regional groups of synods.

The governing of seminaries is an important issue in the LCA's possible future merger with the American Lutheran Church.

A report from the Division for Professional Leadership, which has been studying the future of the denomination's nine seminaries in North America for more than three years, did not recommend any sweeping changes in their structure of financing.

The division suggested that the LCA support seminaries in Columbia, S.C.; Chicago; Philadelphia, and Gettysburg, Pa. Three seminaries in Ohio, Minnesota and California would be run in cooperation with the American Lutheran Church.

Two seminaries in Canada would be allowed to continue with their current programs, which include cooperation with other nearby universities and other Lutheran bodies.

FIRE ON VILLAGERS

BANGKOK, Thailand (A) — About 20 Cambodian troops fired on Thai villagers who caught them stealing beans from a border village farm, killing one villager and wounding another, the Thai government said today.

Some older children went to check on younger children in one part of the L-shaped pond, and Mark was apparently left alone. When the children returned to where Mark was, he was gone and the float was found on the shore. This prompted family members to think Mark left the pond and wandered away.

Mark was described as a poor swimmer, Stump said. The pond was reported to be 60 feet wide and 100 yards long. The body was recovered by Trooper Michael Boone of the Benton Harbor post.

Funeral arrangements were being made at the Sisson chapel, Memorial Lawrence.

U.S. Must Deal With PLO

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Palestinian Liberation Organization's hold on areas of Lebanon has made it necessary for the United States to deal directly with Yasser Arafat's organization to try to secure the evacuation of Americans from Beirut, U.S. officials say. But State Department officials emphasize there is no change in U.S. policy toward the PLO — that the question of actual recognition cannot be met so long as the group refuses to accept the existence of Israel. Even so, the first U.S. acknowledgment of contact with the PLO could serve to enhance the prestige of the Arafat organization.

Another break in the case came Friday morning, when investigators found three vans believed used in the kidnapping. They were in a San Jose warehouse which investigators said was leased by young Woods last December.

Alameda County Sheriff's Deputy Jack Baugh said the license numbers matched the numbers recalled by bus driver Ed Ray.

Ray was flown from Chowchilla to San Jose Friday afternoon to inspect the vans, but investigators would not say if he identified them as the ones used in the kidnapping.

A 10-day gag order was imposed on the public release of what authorities found under several search warrants issued in Northern California. There was no official confirmation of the ransom note reports.

Before being named in an all-points bulletin issued Thursday, Richard Schoenfeld was interviewed by Sacramento Bee reporter at his family's Atherton home.

"I can't see Fred being involved in anything like that," he told the reporter, referring to Frederick Woods.

Benton township firemen at 11 a.m. Friday, extinguished a blaze that damaged a bed and mattress at the Frank Sila residence, 2133 Ruth street. Firemen said the blaze appeared to have started from a faulty electric cord near the bed.

Eye Doctor Testifies

ALLEGAN — An optometrist testified here yesterday that accused officer killer Richard Frederick Dixon would not have been able to immediately identify as a police officer the South Haven patrolman he is accused of killing at the time of the 2:45 a.m. shooting.

Merrill Allan, a Ph.D. in optometry at Indiana university, was the last defense witness called for Dixon who has testified he shot South Haven Patrolman Michael McAllister in self defense last Jan. 9.

The defense has contended Dixon was also wearing dark glasses when the officer, investigating reports of gunshots in Allegan county's Casco township, allegedly grabbed and hit Dixon prior to the shooting.

Dixon, of Detroit, is charged with first degree murder. The jury is expected to get the Allegan county circuit court case after final arguments Monday morning, according to court officials.

Two Callers Report UFO

The post said two callers reported seeing a bright object moving rapidly in varied directions. The callers were an African and a woman, both unidentified. One saw the object in the eastern sky, and the other in southeastern sky. The calls were received at the post shortly before 4:30 a.m.

Lightning Knocks Power Out In Eau Claire Area

An electrical storm late Friday night knocked out the Indiana and Michigan Electric Co. Eau Claire substation and caused scattered outages during a lightning display that one Berrien sheriff's officer likened to the Fourth of July.

The display also added an illuminating effect during the Bicentennial Fabulous Fruits of Freedom pageant at Berrien Youth Fairgrounds, Berrien Springs. But the rain held off until minutes after the pageant ended. The pageant's final performance is tonight.

John Banyon, I & M Benton Harbor division manager, reported that lightning knocked out the Eau Claire substation at 11:16 p.m. The resulting power failure in the village and surrounding area lasted until 1:06 a.m. today.

Banyon reported that other outages were spotty and caused mostly by blown fuses from lightning and tree branches. Banyon said service was restored to normal by 4 a.m. today.

The storm moved off Lake Michigan over a wide area of Berrien county, according to sheriff's officers. It hit the Warren Dunes area near Sawyer shortly before 10 a.m. and the Twin Cities area about an hour later. Strong gusts of wind and heavy rainfall accompanied the lightning for a short time.

million." The Bee reported that the ransom note was addressed to the state or to a government agency.

Another break in the case came Friday morning, when investigators found three vans believed used in the kidnaping. They were in a San Jose warehouse which investigators said was leased by young Woods last December.

Alameda County Sheriff's Deputy Jack Baugh said the license numbers matched the numbers recalled by bus driver Ed Ray.

Ray was flown from Chowchilla to San Jose Friday afternoon to inspect the vans, but investigators would not say if he identified them as the ones used in the kidnaping.

A 10-day gag order was imposed on the public release of what authorities found under several search warrants issued in Northern California. There was no official confirmation of the ransom note reports.

Before being named in an all-points bulletin issued Thursday, Richard Schoenfeld was interviewed by Sacramento Bee reporter at his family's Atherton home.

"I can't see Fred being involved in anything like that," he told the reporter, referring to Frederick Woods.

Eye Doctor Testifies

ALLEGAN — An optometrist testified here yesterday that accused officer killer Richard Frederick Dixon would not have been able to immediately identify as a p/x officer the South Haven patrolman he is accused of killing at the time of the 2:45 a.m. shooting.

Merrill Allan, a Ph.D. in optometry at Indiana university, was the last defense witness called for Dixon who has testified he shot South Haven Patrolman Michael McAllister in self defense last Jan. 9.

The defense has contended Dixon was also wearing dark glasses when the officer, investigating reports of gunshots in Allegan county's Casco township, allegedly grabbed and hit Dixon prior to the shooting.

Dixon, of Detroit, is charged with first degree murder.

The jury is expected to get the Allegan county circuit court case after final arguments Monday morning, according to court officials.

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

LANSING — A consumers' group says Schato Nursing home in Dowagiac is one of eight whose construction applications between August, 1974, and May, 1976, were not adequately reviewed by the state. The group, Citizens for Better Care, contended that state failed to hold requested hearings within a required 30-day period for Schato nursing home and Schoolcraft nursing home, Livonia.

Schato had proposed a $495,000 addition to its facilities at 611 North Colby street, Dowagiac. The 45-bed addition would bring capacity to 150 beds.

In May, 1975, the state health department denied Schato's request saying the requested number of beds for the proposed addition would have contributed significantly to an excess of long-term care beds, beyond projected 1980 needs for the service area.

The group alleges the public health department failed to conduct reviews and hearings on eight applications for nursing home construction within the time limits set by federal law.

Therefore, the group contends, the state was required to give approval by default to seven of the eight homes "which were either not needed or not adequately evaluated in terms of fiscal efficiency and the potential for providing decent care."

The alleged failure may lead to unnecessary construction at a potential cost of $19 million over the next 25 years to state-paid Medicare-Medicaid, charges the Detroit-based group, Citizens For Better Care.

State Sen. John Otterbacher, D-Grand Rapids, sent a copy of a letter containing the allegations to the Department of Public Health.

Otterbacher said Friday his Health, Social Services and Retirement Committee would formally question several department members "after they have time to document their side of the story."

Health department officials were not available for comment. A Citizens For Better Care official said the department claims it is understaffed and that steps will be taken to avoid similar problems in the future.

Unless the public health department reviews a project and specifically approves or denies application of Medicare-Medicaid funds for construction within a set time, the approval is granted automatically, said a spokesman for Citizens For Better Care.

Citizens for Better Care charged the health department did not complete an internal review within 90 days as required at Alexander Convalescent Home in Royal Oak, Lakeview Manor in Grayling, Pierce Nursing Home in Alpena, and the Provincial House in Mount Pleasant.

The group said the department failed to inform the applicants of the internal review in writing within the 90-day period at Flint's Lafayette Nursing Home and Lansing's Provincial House.

Cass Board Votes To Continue Metro Squad

CASSOPOLIS — The Cass county board of commissioners drew loud applause and cheers from about 100 people last night after they voted to accept a federal grant that will partly finance continued operations of sheriff department's Metro narcotics squad. The three-man squad will now continue until Oct. 1, 1977. It has been in effect for the past 18 months. Cost to the county will be $10,000 with federal and state funding amounting to $42,000. The county's contribution will come from its contingency fund.

The board had met Wednesday evening without reaching an agreement on the narcotics squad issue. Last night's meeting was a continuation of Wednesday's meeting. Earlier in July, the board in a vote later assailed as politically motivated refused to accept the federal grant needed to extend the squad's operations. Without the grant, three deputies would have been cut from the department's payroll and the program terminated.

All commissioners present last night voted in favor of granting the program, including those who originally voted against it. However, Johnnie Rudebush, Niles, board chairman, and Commissioner Charles Sarabyn of Dowagiac were absent. Commissioner Rexford Clark, Dowagiac, said more information about the drug program had been received from Sheriff James Northrop and after reviewing the information he said he would support such a program. Clark, who originally voted against the program, made the motion to approve it last night.

After the 9-0 vote, Clark said "It was a matter of reason prevailing, not a submission to pressure" that changed the commissioners' minds. After Oct. 1, 1977, the county is obligated to by conditions of the grant to fund the program on its own. Sheriff Northrop told the board if county money is not available next year, the program could be maintained through an administrative transfer within his department's budget that would meet the federal requirement.

Terry LeMunyon, former AIP candidate for Cass county sheriff, said the Metro narcotics squad has been expanded at the expense of the taxpayer. "You are (sheriff's department) hunting down users, but where are the suppliers. Where's the big drug program?" he questioned.

In other business, the board unanimously voted to discontinue its appeal of visiting Berrien county Circuit Judge William S. White's decision to allow Sheriff Northrop's wife, Barbara, back pay for her employment as a jail matron since July 1, 1975. Mrs. Northrop is due approximately $8,400 in salary less deductions. The sheriff had alleged board interference with his department in a suit he filed late last year. There was a trial earlier this year.

Group Asks OK To Buy WJOR

SOUTH HAVEN — An Illinois group has tendered an application to purchase South Haven radio station WJOR, according to the Federal Communication commission.

The proposed purchasers are the Iroquois County Broadcasting company which owns stations in Watseka, Ill. (WGFA) and Hartford, Wis. (WIKM).

The current owners, the Van Buren Broadcasting company, purchased the 1 kilowatt AM station in Aug., 1967. The station has been on the air since Dec., 1961.

The station would be sold for $200,000 cash if approved by the FCC, according to the application submitted to the federal agency.

Officers of the Iroquois County Broadcasting company include Samuel L. Martin, president; Robert L. Bivans, vice president; Richard A. Martin, secretary; and Donald J. Ruff, treasurer, all of Watseka, Ill.

The proposed owners said in their application that they too would pursue acquisition of an FM channel for the station. The current owners recently filed for an FM license at 83.4 on the dial.

95 Dog Owners Cited In License Crackdown

By TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — A recent crackdown by the Van Buren county dog warden against the owners of unlicensed dogs has resulted in nearly 100 citations in the South Haven area alone, including two city officials. Seventh District court officials report they have processed 85 citations against owners who have not had their dogs licensed. When a person is found guilty it costs twice the normal fee for a dog license ($10) and a $15 fine. Among those receiving citations in the door-to-door check by the dog warden have been City Aldermen Norval Books, 414 Pearl street, and Joseph Seiler, 327 Cherry street. Court officials said Books pleaded guilty and paid the $15 fine while Seiler has not yet appeared to enter a plea.

Candidate Signs Being Removed In South Haven

By TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — City officials have ordered signs that endorse political candidates in the upcoming primary election removed from the city's front lawns, claiming they violate the zoning ordinance. However, city officials say they would allow property owners to place the placards in side yards, on porches or in windows because the zoning ordinance is nebulous on that point.

Code enforcement officer Donald Zordel said he ordered the signs removed after a property owner complained about a sign on her neighbor's lawn.

"The complaint was on the grounds that the sign was unattractive rather than because of the person's political beliefs," Zordel said.

City officials report they have removed approximately 20 signs from front yards so far. Most of them endorsed congressional candidates in the upcoming 4th District race.

Zordel said the zoning ordinance allows only the placement of real estate signs on the front yards of homes in residential neighborhoods. He believes the absence of a provision allowing other types of signs means they are prohibited. Along the same theory, however, Zordel said he is allowing property owners to put signs in their side yards, again on the premise that the zoning ordinance doesn't prohibit it.

"You can only take so much away from property owners; they've lost so many of their rights already," he said.

Zordel says most of the complaints about removal of the signs have actually come from people who believe they should be allowed to express their political beliefs through signs.

"I just can't win in this job," Zordel admitted.

Group Asks OK To Buy WJOR

SOUTH HAVEN — An Illinois group has tendered an application to purchase South Haven radio station WJOR, according to the Federal Communication commission.

The proposed purchasers are the Iroquois County Broadcasting company which owns stations in Watseka, Ill. (WGFA) and Hartford, Wis. (WTKM).

The current owners, the Van Buren Broadcasting company, purchased the 1 kilowatt AM station in Aug., 1967. The station has been on the air since Dec., 1961.

The station would be sold for $200,000 cash if approved by the FCC, according to the application submitted to the federal agency.

Officers of the Iroquois County Broadcasting company include Samuel L. Martin, president; Robert L. Bivans, vice president; Richard A. Martin, secretary; and Donald J. Ruth, treasurer, all of Watseka, Ill.

The proposed owners said in their application that they too would pursue acquisition of an FM channel for the station. The current owners recently filed for an FM license at 83.4 on the dial.

95 Dog Owners Cited In License Crackdown

By TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — A recent crackdown by the Van Buren county dog warden against the owners of unlicensed dogs has resulted in nearly 100 citations in the South Haven area alone, including two city officials. Seventh District court officials report they have processed 95 citations against owners who have not had their dogs licensed. When a person is found guilty it costs twice the normal fee for a dog license ($10) and a $15 fine. Among those receiving citations in the door-to-door check by the dog warden have been City Aldermen Norvan Books, 414 Pearl street, and Joseph Seiler, 327 Cherry street. Court officials said Books pleaded guilty and paid the $15 fine while Seiler has not yet appeared to enter a plea.

Candidate Signs Being Removed In South Haven

By TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent

SOUTH HAVEN — City officials have ordered signs that endorse political candidates in the upcoming primary election removed from the city's front lawns, claiming they violate the zoning ordinance. However, city officials say they would allow property owners to place the placards in side yards, on porches or in windows because the zoning ordinance is nebulous on that point.

Code enforcement officer Donald Zordel said he ordered the signs removed after a property owner complained about a sign on her neighbor's lawn.

"The complaint was on the grounds that the sign was unattractive rather than because of the person's political beliefs," Zordel said.

City officials report they have removed approximately 20 signs from front yards so far. Most of them endorsed congressional candidates in the upcoming 4th District race.

Zordel said the zoning ordinance allows only the placement of real estate signs on the front yards of homes in residential neighborhoods. He believes the absence of a provision allowing other types of signs means they are prohibited. Along the same theory, however, Zordel said he is allowing property owners to put signs in their side yards, again on the premise that the zoning ordinance doesn't prohibit it.

"You can only take so much away from property owners; they've lost so many of their rights already," he said.

Zordel says most of the complaints about removal of the signs have actually come from people who believe they should be allowed to express their political beliefs through signs.

"I just can't win in this job," Zordel admitted.

'Dull' All-Star Game Has Bizarre Ending

By MIKE O'BRIEN

AP Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — It was perhaps the most bizarre ending in football history, but the workmanlike Pittsburgh Steelers took it as casually as factory hands let off work early because the machinery had broken down.

After all, the Steelers already had finished their jobs — not to mention the blundering College All-Stars — before torrential rains and chaos in the crowd forced a halt to play at 11:40 p.m. EDT with 1:22 left in the third quarter Friday night.

Thousands in the crowd of 52,000 immediately swarmed onto Soldier Field's artificial turf, frolicking in the puddles and tearing down both goal posts. The Steelers, who had mounted a 24-0 lead on three Roy Gerela field goals and second-half touchdowns by Franco Harris, cheerfully accepted an early victory when cancellation of the rest of the game was announced at 12:01 a.m.

The announcement by National Football League Commissioner Pete Rozelle and the sponsoring Chicago Tribune Charities said they feared for the safety of the players and the fans. While most of the mob on the field seemed in a fun-seeking mood, some fights broke out and word of the game's premature end evoked loud booing. "I've never seen anything like it. It was like Custer's last stand," chortled Steeler quarterback Terry Bradshaw, who had shown Super Bowl form by completing 11 of 26 passes for 174 yards on a field slicked by pregame showers.

"The first thing I knew, all these people were running down on the field, carrying juice buckets and stuff," Bradshaw said. "I said, 'What in the heck is going on?'"

"It was funny — not at all scary," Chuck Noll, the Steelers' usually laconic head coach, chuckled.

"That's the first time I've ever seen a game stopped and the players turn to watch the fans," Noll said. "The bravest guy was that official standing on the sideline with that down marker as the players all moved away from him and the fans moved in. But the fans were just having fun, frolicking in the water. They knew how ridiculous it was."

But All-Star Coach Ara Parseghian, directing a team for the first time since he resigned after a brilliant coaching career at Notre Dame in 1974, said he was "absolutely shocked by the fans."

"The fans really should be reprimanded," he said. "I was concerned about my players. Not that they would get hurt.

They're in pain. But they might start taking swings at fans as soon as they get out."

The All-Stars had the ball on the Steeler 24-yard line when play was halted, and Parseghian said they might have gotten their offense untraced if they could have had the wind at their backs in the fourth quarter.

However, it was unlikely that many would agree with them, for Pittsburgh's famed Steel Curtain defense had almost totally muzzled an All-Star offense weakened by injury to quarterbacks Mike Kruczek of Boston College and Craig Penrose of San Diego State.

thigh on the Stars' second series and Penrose suffered a partially dislocated finger early in the second quarter.

Joe Blount of Tulsa quarterbacked the Stars the rest of the way, but the wet field and the relentless Steeler defense, which bottled up the ground threats of Joe Washington, Archie Griffin, Tony Galbreath and others most of the time, made Blount's catchup task virtually impossible.

Griffin, Ohio State's two-time Heisman Trophy winner, was shocked for minus seven yards in three carries. Oklahoma's Washington managed 27 in 11 and Galbreath of Missouri added 10 in six.

Blount managed to complete six of 12 passes for 50 yards, but was intercepted once and tackled for losses four times. The Stars compounded their problems with six fumbles, four of which Pittsburgh recovered.

"The wet turf played defense with us," said tackle Mwan Jao Greene, anchor of the Steeler defense. "The field helped keep Washington in check."

"But it was much more than the field," he said. "Our defense dictated what they could do. When they played conservatively, we were content to lay back, but when we got the big lead and they had to open up, they started getting the hell kicked out of them."

Bradshaw passed to Lynn Swann for 13 yards and Rocky Bleier hit tight tackle for 15 more as the Steelers' second series as they marched to a first down at the All-Star 10. But after two running plays lost three yards, the Steelers settled for a 20-yard field goal by Gerela.

A fumble by Penrose at the All-Star 15 and an interception by Jack Lambert at midfield set up Gerela field goals of 22 and 20 yards in the second quarter.

The Steelers struck quickly in the third quarter, scoring a safety when All-Star center Ray Penney snapped the ball over punter Rick Upchurch's head and out of the end zone.

Jack Delaplane returned the ensuing kick 26 yards to the Stars' 26, setting up a 21 yard scoring burst by Harris.

Moments later, Tommy Reamon caught a Bradshaw pass for a 25 yard gain to the Stars' two, then plowed over on the next play to cap the scoring.

"I think we took control at the start of the second half because of the wind conditions, the field conditions and the fact they couldn't get field position," Noll said. "You've got to move the football against the wind and they didn't."

"I thought our defense played pretty damned well," he said. "They tried to run a lot of wide stuff, pulling guards, reverses, and our penetration bothered them. Our real problem is that we haven't been in camp long enough for our new people to know what's going on, and our veterans were making mistakes, too. We got field goals instead of touchdowns because of mistakes."

Bradshaw agreed that the Steeler offense committed too many mistakes, but said he considered it a good first outing of the preseason.

"I didn't complete too many passes, but I was real happy with the way I was throwing," he said. "They were in a zone defense, and we tried to go for six, seven yards on first down. They were laying off guys coming out of the backfield, and I think I could have thrown those first-down passes all night."

"It's hard for us to get up for this game," he said. "We have to create a challenge because we're expected to win, but we can't seem to get fired up. Our defense always rises to the challenge, but our offense is slower getting started."

The pros now lead the series 31-9-2, with the Stars' last victory having been 20-17 over the Green Bay Packers in 1963.

Yanks Lose Medal Lead

Men Swimmers Eye Sweep

By BOB GREEN

AP Sports Writer

MONTREAL (AP) — American forces scored a couple of break-throughs, but must rely on the return to action of their unbeaten swimmers if they are to have any chance of regaining the lead from the Russians in the XXI Olympic Games.

With the swimmers taking a night off, and Nikolai Andrianov running up three golds, a silver and a bronze in men's gymnastics, Russia swept in front Friday night in the total medal count with 13 golds, 16 silver and 9 bronze.

And, too, the Soviets clinched the gold medal in women's basketball with a 112-77 rout of the United States behind 7-foot Jolanta Sosnowska. The medal won't be counted in their total until the close of the women's tournament next week.

The United States, which gained only two of the 33 medals awarded, dropped out of first place and now has a 13-11-4 total. East Germany is a close third at 11-9-8.

Although Kathy McMillan and Peter Kornmann picked up U.S. medals where they're usually lacking, it was the Americans' worst day of the Games. The Yanks didn't win anything. They put only two crews in the men's rowing finals and they lost their last hope for a medal in Greco-Roman wrestling when 303-pound Pete Lee was disqualified for being too passive.

The prospects for an American rebound are good, however.

The swimmers are back in action tonight. They haven't lost yet, accounting for nine golds and 16 of the American team's 30 total medals. But they face perhaps their biggest challenge of the Games.

Their dreams of an unaccomplished sweep of all the gold medals could hinge on the 200-meter butterfly match between John Hencken and David Wilkie of Great Britain.

Hencken beat Wilkie in the 100-meter butterfly earlier in these Games and is the world record holder at the 200 meter distance. Wilkie, however, has had better 200 times than the American this year and is ranked the world's chief hope of stopping the U.S. swimming sweep.

In the 200 meter backstroke, world record holder John Naber of Menlo Park, Calif., is heavily favored to win his fourth gold medal.

The United States has strong medal possibilities in all three track and field finals, the shot, the men's 100-meter dash and the women's javelin. Kate Schmidt, Pacific Palisades, Calif., has a pending world record in the javelin.

Women's rowing finals also are scheduled. Americans have chances for a couple of medals there, particularly in the eight-oared race.

The silver medal picked up by Miss McMillan represented the first American medal in 20 years in the women's long jump.

"I'm disappointed and I'm pleased," Kathy said after her leap of 21 feet 10 1/4 inches. Winner Angela Voigt of East Germany jumped 22-0 1/2.

The bronze medal won by Kornmann was the first by an American in men's gymnastics since 1932.

Kornmann's medal came in floor exercise, one of three events won by the muscular, 24-year-old Russian Andrianov. He also won the all-around gymnast title earlier in the Games and finished competition with four gold, a silver and a bronze.

The close of gymnastics also produced the day's biggest row, again over cheating. Gene Wettstone, head trainer of the U.S. men's team, said he was approached by the Bulgarian head coach about a deal prior to the competition. "The first thing he said was 'If you will support our man in the floor exercise, we'll favor your team,'" Wettstone said. The Bulgarian coach Ezjeane Zarnskov, was not available for comment.

Both Wettstone and Frank Barz, executive director of the U.S. Gymnastics Federation, charged Russian head judge Boris Chikhlin with trying to get scores changed during the finals of the team competition Tuesday when Japan was outdistancing Russia for the medal.

The American women simply had no chance against the giant Russian basketball team. The Russians ran up a 17-0 lead. Miss Semenova, who scored 32 points, grabbed 19 rebounds and missed only three shots from the floor.

With a 2-2 record, the Americans still have a chance to win the silver. It would take a victory over Czechoslovakia and a loss by Japan to the Russians.

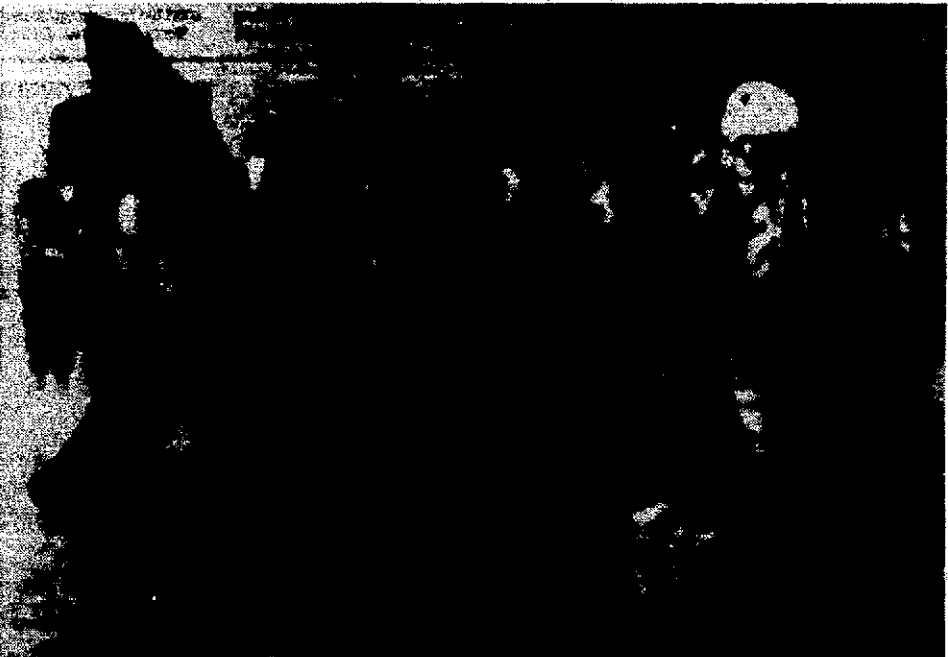

The 20-kilometer walk was the only other final on the opening day of track and field. That title, in an upset, went to Daniel Bautista, the first Mexican ever to win an Olympic gold in track and field. He was timed in 1 hour, 24 minutes, 40.6 seconds.

In other finals, Alexander Gazov of Russia set a world record of 570 of a possible 600 in the moving game target shooting event. Norbert Klar of East Germany won the rapid fire pistol and Alexander Pusch of West Germany took the epee fencing gold.

Two athletes, a Canadian boxer and a trapezist from Monaco, were suspended and a Russian yacht disqualified. The yachting infraction in the sailing class resulted from a near-collision with an Australian boat.

Paul Cerutti, 25, of Monaco, who finished in the last four in his event, was disqualified, "effective July 19 for using amphetamines," said Prince Alexander de Merode of Belgium, chief of the Olympic medical commission.

Michael Provost was suspended indefinitely after arguing with a referee and then tapping him on the head with his gloves following Provost's disqualification for holding in a 156-pound match Thursday.

Chicago-To-Mackinac Starts Today

Record Fleet For Race

CHICAGO (AP) — The 89th Chicago-to-Mackinac Island race features a record fleet of 242 craft as it sets sail today in the 333-mile trip up Lake Michigan.

Based on corrected times, the race starts at 2 p.m. EDT with eight sections clearing about 3:45 p.m. The staggered starts are for various sized boats classified in respective sections.

The first finishers should be showing up by early Monday, but it may take a day or so to declare the official winners on a complicated system of corrected times and handicap ratings.

Good racing weather seemed likely, although old hands undoubtedly will be hoping for stiffer winds than predicted. The National Weather Service's projected weekend forecast for Lake Michigan is sunny and pleasant with north to northeast winds Saturday of 10-to-15 miles-an-hour and on Sunday, northeast to east at 5-to-12 m.p.h.

No storm patterns are seen, as a high pressure system over the lake Sunday makes for clear sailing. Some of the fresh-water sailors still shudder about the 1970 race that saw boats scattered all over the lake, with 94 of the 180 starters dropping out with damage suffered by pounding waves and winds.

The first 10 finishers of the 300-mile Port Huron to Mackinac race last week moved down the length of Lake Michigan and were re-rigged at the Chicago Yacht Club for Saturday's start. These are big boats, the overall winner on corrected time being Richuchet, a 40-footer owned by Henry Burkard of Detroit's Bayview Yacht Club.

Runnerup Pirana owned by Bob Beck of the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club measures 45 feet, and third placer Dynamo out of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club is rated at 45 1/2 feet. The largest among the first 10 are Lynn Williams' 61 1/2-foot Dora IV and Russ Schmidt's 61-foot Sassy.

Tailenders in the cruise to Mackinac Island may need as much as 100 hours to complete the distance and cover between 600 and 700 nautical miles along the way as they tack to and fro in search of helpful gusts.

Between $500 to $5,000 is spent by owners to compete in the prestigious race, although nearly all of the 2,000 crew members are unpaid volunteers.

"In addition to feeding your people, there's always something in the way of equipment that must be replaced at the last minute — another sail, winch or something that isn't

MONTREAL (AP) — American forces scored a couple of break-throughs, but must rely on the return to action of their unbeaten swimmers if they are to have any chance of regaining the lead from the Russians in the XXI Olympic Games.

With the swimmers taking a night off, and Nikolai Andrianov running up three golds, a silver and a bronze in men's gymnastics, Russia swept in front Friday night in the total medal count with 13 golds, 16 silver and 9 bronze.

And, too, the Soviets clinched the gold medal in women's basketball with a 112-77 rout of the United States behind 7-foot Liliyaka Semenova. The medal won't be counted in their total until the close of the women's tournament next week.

The United States, which gained only two of the 33 medals awarded, dropped out of first place and now has a 13-11-6 total. East Germany, a close third at 11-9-8.

Although Kathy McMillan and Peter Kormann picked up U.S. medals where they're usually lacking, it was the Americans' worst day of the Games. The Yanks didn't win anything. They put only two crews in the men's rowing finals and they lost their last hope for a medal in Greco-Roman wrestling when 343-pound Pete Lee was disqualified for being too passive.

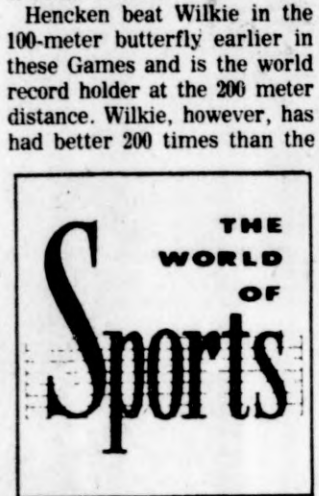

The prospects for an American rebound are good, however.

The swimmers are back in action tonight. They haven't lost yet, accounting for nine golds and 18 of the American team's 30 total medals. But they face perhaps their biggest challenge of the Games.

Their dreams of an unaccomplished sweep of all the gold medals could hinge on the 200-meter butterfly match between John Hencken and David Wilkie of Great Britain.

Hencken beat Wilkie in the 100-meter butterfly earlier in these Games and is the world record holder at the 200 meter distance. Wilkie, however, has had better 200 times than the American this year and is ranked the world's chief hope of stopping the U.S. swimming sweep.

In the 200 meter backstroke, world record holder John Naber of Menlo Park, Calif., is heavily favored to win his fourth gold medal.

The United States has strong medal possibilities in all three track and field finals, the shot, the men's 100-meter dash and the women's javelin. Kate Schmidt, Pacific Palisades, Calif., has a pending world record in the javelin.

Women's rowing finals also are scheduled. Americans have chances for a couple of medals there, particularly in the eight-oared race.

The silver medal picked up by Miss McMillan represented the first American medal in 20 years in the women's long jump.

"I'm disappointed and I'm pleased," Kathy said after her leap of 21 feet 10 1/4 inches. Winner Angela Voight of East Germany jumped 22-0 1/2.

The bronze medal won by Kormann was the first by an American in men's gymnastics since 1932.

Kormann's medal came in floor exercise, one of three events won by the muscular,

24-year-old Russian Andrianov. He also won the all-around gymnast title earlier in the Games and finished competition with four gold, a silver and a bronze.

The close of gymnastics also produced the day's biggest row, again over cheating. Gene Wettstone, head trainer of the U.S. men's team, said he was approached by the Bulgarian head coach about a deal prior to the competition. "The first thing he said was 'If you will support our man in the floor exercise, we'll favor your team,'" Wettstone said. The Bulgarian coach Ezejeane Zamskov, was not available for comment.

Both Wettstone and Frank Bare, executive director of the U.S. Gymnastics Federation, charged Russian head judge Boris Chakhlin with trying to get scores changed during the finals of the team competition Tuesday when Japan was outdistancing Russia for the medal.

The American women simply had no chance against the giant Russian basketball team. The Russians ran up a 17-0 lead. Miss Semenova, who scored 32 points, grabbed 19 rebounds and missed only three shots from the floor.

With a 2-2 record, the Americans still have a chance to win the silver. It would take a victory over Czechoslovakia and a loss by Japan to the Russians.

The 20-kilometer walk was the only other final on the opening day of track and field. That title, in an upset, went to Daniel Bautista, the first Mexican ever to win an Olympic gold in track and field. He was timed in 1 hour, 24 minutes, 40.6 seconds.

In other finals, Alexander Gazov of Russia set a world record of 579 of a possible 600 in the moving game target shooting event, Norbert Klaat of East Germany won the rapid fire pistol and Alexander Pusch of West Germany took the epee fencing gold.

Two athletes, a Canadian boxer and a trapshooter from Monaco, were suspended and a Russian yacht disqualified. The yachting infraction in the sailing class resulted from a near-collision with an Australian boat.

Paul Cerutti, 35, of Monaco, who finished in the last four in his event, was disqualified, "effective July 19 for using amphetamines," said Prince Alexander de Merode of Belgium, chief of the Olympic medical commission.

Michael Provost was suspended indefinitely after arguing with a referee and then tapping him on the head with his gloves following Provost's disqualification for holding in a 156-pound match Thursday.

Swimmers Featured On ABC

MONTREAL (AP) — Two U.S. swimmers will try for a second helping of Olympic gold Saturday as ABC-TV's coverage of the Games in Montreal continues.

The two, John Hencken and John Nabor, have both won in individual gold medals in individual swimming events, Hencken in the 100-meter breaststroke and Nabor in the 100-meter backstroke. Hencken will compete in the 200 breaststroke and Nabor will bid for another medal in the 200 backstroke.

ABC has scheduled coverage from noon to 2 p.m., 5 to 7 p.m. and 8 to 11 p.m., EDT. Much of the coverage will be live, and events to be televised won't be decided until just before air time.

Other events scheduled for today include women's rowing, where the U.S. eights and Joan Lind have a chance for a medal, and the endurance portion of the equestrian competition. The U.S. basketball team and boxers are expected to be in action.

In track and field, Kathy Schmidt of the United States will compete for a medal in the women's javelin finals, and Al Feuerbach and George Woods carry U.S. hopes in the men's shot put finals.

Male pattern baldness is the cause of a great majority of cases of baldness and excessive hair loss, for which no method is effective. Midwest/Erickson Hair Specialists cannot help those who are slick bald after years of gradual hair loss.

But, if you are not already slick bald, how can you be sure what is actually causing your hair loss? Even if baldness seems to "run in the family," this is certainly no proof of the cause of your hair loss.

Many conditions can cause hair loss. No matter which one is causing your hair loss, if you wait until you are slick bald and your hair roots are dead you are beyond help. So, if you still have hair on top of your head, and would like to stop hair loss and grow more hair...now is the time to do something about it before it's too late.

Chicago-To-Mackinac Starts Today

Record Fleet For Race

CHICAGO (AP) — The 69th Chicago-to-Mackinac Island race features a record fleet of 242 craft as it sets sail today in the 333-mile trip up Lake Michigan.

Based on corrected times, the race starts at 2 p.m. EDT with eight sections clearing about 3:45 p.m. The staggered starts are for various sized boats classified in respective sections.

The first finishers should be showing up by early Monday, but it may take a day or so to declare the official winners on a complicated system of corrected times and handicap ratings.

Good racing weather seemed likely, although old hands undoubtedly will be hoping for stiffer winds than predicted. The National Weather Service's projected weekend forecast for Lake Michigan is sunny and pleasant with north to northeast winds Saturday of 10-to-15 miles-an-hour and on Sunday, northeast to east at 5-to-12 m.p.h.

No storm patterns are seen, as a high pressure system over the lake Sunday makes for clear sailing. Some of the fresh-water sailors still shudder about the 1970 race that saw boats scattered all over the lake, with 84 of the 165 starters dropping out with damage suffered by pounding waves and winds.

The first 10 finishers of the 300-mile Port Huron to Mackinac race last week moved down the length of Lake Michigan and were re-rigged at the Chicago Yacht Club for Saturday's start. These are big boats, the overall winner on corrected time being Richochet, a 40-footer owned by Henry Burkard of Detroit's Bayview Yacht Club.

Runnerup Pirana owned by Bob Beck of the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club measures 45 feet, and third placer Dynamo out of the Royal Canadian Yacht Club is rated at 45 1/2 feet. The largest among the first 10 are Lynn Williams' 61 1/2-foot Dora IV and Russ Schmidt's 61-foot Sassy.

Tailenders in the cruise to Mackinac Island may need as much as 100 hours to complete the distance and cover between 600 and 700 nautical miles along the way as they tack to and fro in search of helpful gusts.

Between $500 to $5,000 is spent by owners to compete in the prestigious race, although nearly all of the 2,000 crew members are nonpaid volunteers.

working right," said a veteran skipper.

"Many skippers host post-race parties and provide lodging for the crew for a couple of days after the race is over. A lot of the fellows are so eager to do well they'll go the full distance without sleeping other than a few minutes here and there. So they are entitled to a few extras because they work so darn hard."

The pros now lead the series 31-9-2, with the Stars' last victory having been 20-17 over the Green Bay Packers in 1963.

Nicklaus Tops Canadian

Seeking First Victory In Tournament

WINDSOR, Ont. (AP) — The Canadian Open is the only major national championship golf tournament Jack Nicklaus hasn't won, but he seems almost blasé about owning the halfway lead.

Perhaps winning 75 tournaments in a fabled career, as Nicklaus has, makes enthusiasm over a 36-hole lead a rather useless thrill — even though he lost the event in a sudden-death playoff last year to Tom Weiskopf and was runner-up two other times.

"That's why I'm here — to win," Nicklaus said matter-of-factly Friday, after turning in his second straight 67 for a six-under-par 134. It gave him a two-stroke lead over four golfers: U.S. Open champion Jerry Pate, Jerry Heard, Bob Wynn and J.C. Snead.

Arnold Palmer, tied for second with Heard with a 68 after Thursday's opening round, shot a 71 to join Bruce Crampton at 137.

First-round leader George Burns, who tied the course record with a 65 Thursday, soared to a 75 to stand at even par 140 over the 6,896-yard, par 70 Essex Golf and Country Club course.

Snead (Sam's nephew) and Britain's Tony Jacklin had Friday's best score with 66s. The only other golfer besides Nicklaus with a 67 was Detroit's Calvin Peete, who was among seven at 138. Weiskopf had 142.

The field of 150 was cut to 76 for today's round. The finale of the $200,000 tourney will be played Sunday, with the winner collecting $40,000. The purse is worth about $200,000 in American money.

"I don't see why I can't continue to play well, but I hope to play better than I have," said Nicklaus, who has won only one tournament this season but ranks fifth in winnings with $129,638. In eight of 12 events he's finished in the top 10, with five times in the top four.

Nicklaus had six birdies Friday, three on the front nine and three on the back, where he also had a bogey and double-bogey.

"I don't think I played quite as well as yesterday, but I played better. How do you explain that?" he asked about his apparent self-contradiction. But he explained:

"I didn't hit it quite as solid as yesterday, but I had it closer to the hole. It was a good round of golf but I gave away some shots."

Essex is about eight miles south of Detroit and there were many in the crowd, estimated by officials at 14,000, rooting for Michigan golfers. Most fared well. With Peete at 138 was Battle Creek's Randy Erskine. Jackson's Mike Hill was in at 139 and Gary Groh of Bridgman shot 140 for two rounds.

The cut was at 144. Missing it at 145 was Detroit's George Bayer, while Allen Park's Volker Kruejowski had 149.

Horton Fumes In Tiger Loss

CLEVELAND (AP) — Willie Horton won the battle, but the Cleveland Indians won the war.

The Indians breezed to a 9-4 victory Friday night, their third in a row, and seventh in nine games. Horton, however, gained a treasure of revenge with a two-run homer just moments after he stalked towards pitcher Tom Buskey on the mound, angry over being knocked down by a pitch. Horton calmed down and no blows were struck until the Detroit slugger whacked his ninth homer of the season three pitches later.

Rico Carty continued his torrid hitting for Cleveland, going three for four, including his 11th homer. Carty's blast in the third came on the heels of a round-tripper by Larvell Blanks. Those two solo blows highlighted a four-run inning that broke the game open.

The Indians picked up two more runs off Detroit starter Dave Roberts, 9-10, on a double by Buddy Bell, a single by Bong Powell and a triple by Ray Fosse.

When the Indians weren't hitting, the Tigers gave them a hand by missing. Two Detroit throwing errors keyed a two-out, two-run burst in the first inning and set the tone of the game. The Tigers finished with four errors.

Cleveland starter Jim Bibby, 6-2, gave a solid performance for five innings before giving way to Buskey. Bibby, who felt ill during the game, also got Horton's dander up when he sent him reeling in the third inning.

When Buskey's pitch went over Horton's head four innings later, the Tiger attempted to visit Buskey or the mound.

"I'm glad I controlled myself," Horton said later. "I don't like to get mad."

Buskey, who gained his first save of the season, was glad, too. "I was a little leery. But you've got to stand your ground."

Horton's revenge only made the score more respectable, though, as the Indians reached reliever Bill Laxton for two more runs in the fifth on a double by Frank Duffy.

Cleveland outfielder Charlie Spikes, who had seven runs batted in in the two previous games, failed to hit in four times-up Friday night.

Cleveland Manager Frank Robinson denied his pitchers were throwing to hit Horton.

"Why would we throw at him in that situation? It's ridiculous," he said. "You've got to throw the ball inside to Willie. If you get it out over the plate, he'll kill you."

He is a graduate of Miami of Ohio and was a member of its varsity tennis squad.

Cham-A-Koon, 32, also a star table tennis player, is a certified tennis professional with the United States Professional Tennis Association. He has 12 years of tennis teaching experience. Cham-A-Koon has designed his own teaching program called "Successful Steps To Better Tennis."

He is already on the job and is planning to conduct a county-wide tennis tournament prior to the grand opening of the Racquet Club Sept. 17. He will be moving his wife and two children to the area within the next two weeks.

The new club will include six indoor tennis courts and four outdoor courts plus pro shop and locker room facilities for men and women. There will also be three racquet/handball courts.

The new facility is on a 2.8-acre site off new road, called Tennis court, behind Continental Can Co. plant. The club should become operational by Aug. 31, according to Mike Brown, a partner in the venture.

Memberships are now being taken at the site, 3630 Tennis Court. Information can also be obtained on memberships by calling 983-6647 or 429-2101 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Nicklaus Tops Canadian Seeking First Victory In Tournament

WINDSOR, Ont. (AP) — The Canadian Open is the only major national championship golf tournament Jack Nicklaus hasn't won, but he seems almost blasé about owning the halfway lead.

Perhaps winning 75 tournaments in a fabled career, as Nicklaus has, makes enthusiasm over a 36-hole lead a rather useless frill — even though he lost the event in a sudden-death playoff last year to Tom Weiskopf and was runnerup two other times.

"That's why I'm here — to win," Nicklaus said matter-of-factly Friday, after turning in his second straight 67 for a six-under-par 134. It gave him a two-stroke lead over four golfers: U. S. Open champion Jerry Pate, Jerry Heard, Bob Wynn and J.C. Snead.

Arnold Palmer, tied for second with Heard with a 66 after Thursday's opening round, shot a 71 to join Bruce Crampton at 137.

First-round leader George Burns, who tied the course record with a 65 Thursday, soared to a 75 to stand at even par 140 over the 6,696-yard, par 70 Essex Golf and Country Club course.

Snead (Sam's nephew) and Britain's Tony Jacklin had Friday's best score with 66s. The only other golfer besides Nicklaus with a 67 was Detroit Calvin Peete, who was among seven at 138. Weiskopf had 142.

The field of 150 was cut to 76 for today's round. The finale of the $200,000 tourney will be played Sunday, with the winner collecting $40,000. The purse is worth about $208,000 in American money.

"I don't see why I can't continue to play well, but I hope to play better than I have," said Nicklaus, who has won only one tournament this season but ranks fifth in winnings with $129,000. In eight of 12 events he's finished in the top 10, with five times in the top four.

Nicklaus had six birdies Friday, three on the front nine and three on the back, where he also had a bogey and double-bogey.

"I don't think I played quite as well as yesterday, but I played better. How do you explain that?" he asked about his apparent self-contradiction. But he explained:

"I didn't hit it quite as solid as yesterday, but I had it closer to the hole. It was a good round of golf but I gave away some shots."

Essex is about eight miles south of Detroit and there were many in the crowd, estimated by officials at 14,000, rooting for Michigan golfers. Most fared well. With Peete at 138 was Battle Creek's Randy Erskine. Jackson's Mike Hill was in at 139 and Gary Groh of Bridgman shot 140 for two rounds.

The cut was at 144. Missing it at 145 was Detroit's George Bayer, while Allen Park's Volker Krajewski had 149.

Horton Fumes In Tiger Loss

CLEVELAND (AP) — Willie Horton won the battle, but the Cleveland Indians won the war.

The Indians breezed to a 9-4 victory Friday night, their third in a row and seventh in nine games. Horton, however, gained a measure of revenge with a two-run homer just moments after he stalked towards pitcher Tom Buskey on the mound, angry over being knocked down by a pitch. Horton calmed down and no blows were struck until the Detroit slugger whacked his ninth homer of the season three pitches later.

Rico Carthy continued his torrid hitting for Cleveland, going three for four, including his 11th homer. Carthy's blast in the third came on the heels of a round-tripper by Larvell Blanks. Those two solo blows highlighted a four-run inning that broke the game open.

The Indians picked up two more runs off Detroit starter Dave Roberts, 9-10, on a double by Buddy Bell, a single by Boog Powell and a triple by Ray Fosse.

When the Indians weren't hitting, the Tigers gave them a hand by missing. Two Detroit throwing errors keyed a two-out, two-run burst in the first inning and set the tone of the game. The Tigers finished with four errors.

Cleveland starter Jim Bibby, 6-2, gave a solid performance for five innings before giving way to Buskey. Bibby, who felt ill during the game, also got Horton's dander up when he sent him reeling in the third inning.

When Buskey's pitch went over Horton's head four innings later, the Tiger attempted to visit Buskey or the mound.

"I'm glad I controlled myself," Horton said later. "I don't like to get mad."

Buskey, who gained his first save of the season, was glad, too. "I was a little leery. But you've got to stand your ground."

Horton's revenge only made the score more respectable, though, as the Indians reached reliever Bill Laxton for two more runs in the fifth on a double by Frank Duffy.

Cleveland outfielder Charlie Spikes, who had seven runs batted in in the two previous games, failed to hit in four times up Friday night.

Cleveland Manager Frank Robinson decried his pitchers were throwing to hit Horton.

Lou Harvey Named LMC Cage Coach

basketball co-captain, has been signed as Lake Michigan College's new basketball coach.

Harvey served as the college's assistant coach during the 1975-76 season. He will work for the college on a part-time basis, taking over the coaching duties of Art Crump, who was recently elevated to associated dean of students.

Harvey received his bachelor of arts degree in physical education at the University of Arkansas at Pine Bluff and while there played four years of basketball and four years of baseball. He was a guard on the Arkansas basketball team that ran up a 27-3 record in 1965. Later he completed his graduate work at Western Michigan University, obtaining a master of arts degree in physical education from that school.

The new coach faces a tough season ahead and he knows it.

"We'll be starting with an all-freshman squad," he said, "and we'll play one of the toughest two-year college basketball schedules in the state."

Even though the ink on his contract has hardly dried, Harvey already is out recruiting new players for the college team and looks to the coming season with new optimism.

"Starting out with a freshmen team is a real challenge," he said. "But freshmen can and will play well if they are coached and inspired properly. A good freshmen team this year will make for an extra good team next year."

Married, Harvey and his wife, Ruth, have three children. Tony, 10, Felicia, 9, and Stephanie, 6.

Chiefs Pick Coach

DOWAGIAC — Larry Crandall has been elevated from junior varsity basketball coach to the head coach at Dowagiac high school.

Crandall replaces Norm Schuring who bowed out after an 11-10 season last year.

Crandall is a graduate of Bangor High School and Central Michigan University. He graduated from CMU in 1970 with a B.S. in political science. He minored in physical education.

He has been a coach at Dowagiac since 1970. He started out as freshman cage mentor before taking over the junior varsity duties in 1975.

Expos Get Quick Trade Dividends

Morales Powers Cub Victory

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

When the New York Mets made a trade earlier this week, they had no idea it would pay quick dividends. But it did — for the Montreal Expos.

Del Unser, sent to Montreal along with Wayne Garrett last Tuesday in a swap for Pepe Manguel and Jimmy Dwyer, came right back to haunt his old team Friday night.

"I haven't hit the ball that well all season," said Unser after his solo home run in the 11th inning gave Montreal a 3-2 victory over New York.

Unser's blast came off Skip Lockwood and brought a deafening ovation from the fans of 11,134 at Jarry Park. As he crossed home plate, his new teammates poured out of the dugout to congratulate him.

In the other National League games, the Cincinnati Reds beat the Atlanta Braves 3-1; the Philadelphia Phillies routed the Pittsburgh Pirates 11-1; the Chicago Cubs trimmed the St. Louis Cardinals +3; the San Francisco Giants blanked the Houston Astros 3-0 and the Los Angeles Dodgers turned back the San Diego Padres 5-0.

Benton Harbor Teams Champs

Benton Harbor teams won both the 13-15 and the 16-18 age division Berrien County Olympian Games girls' basketball championships Friday at Lakeshore high school.

Benton Harbor beat St. Joseph 40-13 to take the 13-15 crown and Benton Harbor downed Brandywine 47-30 to capture the 16-18 title.

Denise Boyd, Sheryl Finley and Retha Bragg all netted 10

George Foster broke a tie with a two-run single in the eighth inning and right-hander Santo Alcala hurled a seven-hitter as Cincinnati beat Atlanta.

Ken Griffey led off the eighth with a single and moved to third on Joe Morgan's base hit. Foster then singled to short right-center, scoring both Griffey and Morgan.

Dave Cash drilled an inside-the-park home run, two singles and batted in two runs as Philadelphia rocked Pittsburgh and extended its National League East lead to 12 games — the longest of the season.

While Cash and his teammates ripped starter Doc Medich, 5-9, and two Pirate relievers for 15 hits, including Mike Schmidt's 25th home run, Philadelphia right-hander Jim Lonborg set down the Pirates for his 12th victory in 17 decisions.

Pinch-hitter Jerry Morales smacked a leadoff home run in the seventh inning, snapping a 3-3 deadlock and sending the Chicago Cubs to a triumph.

Morales' homer, his 11th of the season, came off Cards' starter Harry Rasmussen, 3-8, after Chicago rallied earlier in points for the Harbor 13-15 team. Amy Porritt scored four points to lead St. Joseph, which trailed 20-10 at the half.

Carmella Hull dumped in 14 to pace the older Benton Harbor team. Robin Walker had 12, Moe McCrone nine and Dorothy Logan eight. Cathy Simmons had 11 for Brandywine.

The make-up of the CanAm basketball team for girls will be announced next week.

the game to overcome 1-0 and 3-1 Cardinal leads.

Run-scoring singles by Keith Hernandez and Hector Cruz established the final St. Louis lead in the fourth inning before the Cubs rallied against Rasmussen.

A wild pitch by the Cards' starter established the 3-3 tie in the fifth, then Morales connected for his winning blow while hitting for Ray Burris, 5-11.

Rookie right-hander Bruce Sutter pitched the final three innings for the Chicago Cubs, posting his fourth save while restricting the Cards to three of their nine hits.

Jim Barr fired a four-hitter and Gary Matthews drove home a pair of runs with a fifth-inning single, leading San Francisco past Houston. Barr, 8-6, had letter-perfect control, allowing no walks as he scored his second shutout of the season. The loser was J.R. Richard, 10-11.

Tommy John hurled his first shutout in more than two years and Bill Buckner and Steve Yeager slugged home runs as Los Angeles beat San Diego. John, 6-6, scattered four hits and walked only one in pitching his first shutout since June 4, 1974.

The Stampede beat the Skylarks 7-6 behind a grand slam homer from Julie Czech. Kim Klus and Jackie True had two hits each for the winners. Chris Meschke had two hits and Laura Laney a triple for the losers.

Brenda Dorsey swatted two hits and Terrie Jones a homer as the Bombers took the Grasshoppers 13-3.

Gray Division Up For Grabs

As the Blue-Gray League heads into its final week of action, nothing has been settled in the Gray Division.

In fact, the weatherman may be the deciding factor in the race. Three Oaks ran its league mark to 11-6 by nipping Dowagiac 3-2 Friday. Lakeshore Legion, meanwhile, saw its record stay at 6-4 when its game with Bridgman was halted by darkness after eight innings with the score deadlocked 9-9. Lakeshore must make up eight games before the end of the season. Dowagiac still entertains slim hopes of tying for the title with an 8-7 league mark.

St. Joseph Connie Mack got by Benton Harbor 6-5 in Friday's other game.

Jeff Lenard pitched a five-hitter and struck out 13 in Three Oaks win. Larry McLaughlin took the loss.

St. Joe Legion Streak Snapped

St. Joe Legion's streak finally ran out Thursday.

Ishpeming smashed St. Joe's 16-game winning streak, taking a doubleheader from the local team by scores of 5-2 and 5-4.

The doubleheader loss gave St. Joe a final 5-2 record on its northern trip. The local team is 27-7 overall.

Rick Dyer collected four hits in the two games but it wasn't enough. Herb Ross belted a three-run homer in the second game to make things close.

Three Oaks broke a 2-2 tie in the sixth inning to post the win. Lenard reached on a fielder's choice and advanced to second on Roger Shermak's single. After two out, Mark Francis singled in Lenard with the winning run.

Denny Zebell and Shermak each had two hits for Three Oaks. Mike Page slammed two for the losers.

Bridgman scored six runs in the sixth and added three more in the seventh to force its tie with Lakeshore Legion. Lakeshore had led 6-0 entering the sixth.

Jeff Caple and Dave Rennhack each belted two hits for Lakeshore Legion.

Jeff Beal drove in the winning run with a ninth-inning single as St. Joe Mack won the finish of a game halted by darkness July 2. Keene Taylor took the win.

Getting Sponsors Big Problem For Woman Racer

Guthrie Finally Gaining Acceptance

By NANCY CRAWLEY

Battle Creek Enquirer-News
 CAMBRIDGE JUNCTION, Mich. (AP) — It's been a bitter-sweet affair for Janet Guthrie to elbow her way into the male-dominated field of championship auto racing.

Few people, she says, encouraged her to race on tracks like Indianapolis or the Michigan International Speedway here in southern Michigan's lush Irish Hills, where she became the first woman to qualify for the Twin 200 championship races last weekend.

In the championship race, Guthrie set a new world's closed course record for women with a speed of 186.490 miles an hour. She finished 13th in a field of 22 in that race. In the stock car section, she finished 2.5 out of 36.

Among the few who did encourage her were car owner and designer Rolla Vollstedt, who asked her to compete in championship racing, and her teammate, Dick Simon.

"I have to hand it to Dick. He was willing to take all the pressure of accepting a woman teammate. It took a good man," Guthrie says.

But when it was announced a woman would enter the Trenton Championship race in May, she says, "There were howls of 'women can't do it' from drivers, car owners, even the press."

"There was one driver I know who went into the manager's office of the Trenton track and pounded his fist on the desk, saying that they couldn't do it — let a woman race," she says.

Even now, letters are appearing in magazines like Speed Sport, decrying the entry of a woman into the machismo sport, Guthrie said.

But there is a growing acceptance of the Guthrie phenomenon, she said. During her tribulations at Indy, she received many letters of support from men, women and children.

Today, she says, most of the drivers also have accepted her existence on the track. All but one, that is. And she won't name that one.

Guthrie says her biggest problem is the same that all women face when they break into new fields.

"The main difficulty is getting sponsors. When it comes to money and power, women are on the short end, as always," she says.

For now the Vollstedt team is sponsored on a race-to-race basis by Bryant Heating and Cooling, which sponsored the team at Indianapolis and at MIS.

Without the money of a big sponsor, Guthrie admits that her team must use less than first-class equipment. And that is a handicap.

"It's difficult to evaluate the (Vollstedt) car because I'm so new," she says. "But Vollstedt cars are known to be sturdy. You won't ever see the suspension falling out of one."

It was problems with the Offenhauser-powered Vollstedt that kept her out of the Indianapolis 500 race. She calls them "just bugs and bad luck."

Although she drove A.J. Foyt's car at 180 miles an hour on the Indy track in practice runs, Foyt did not allow her to use it in a qualifying run.

"He knew and I knew that I could have made the qualification," she says.

So why didn't he lend her the car?

The tall, elegant Guthrie shakes her head sadly.

But she adds that Foyt was under pressure from members of his pit crew who didn't want to work on two cars in the crucial race.

"They had come to Indy to see their man win and they didn't want to have to divide up their time. I can see why," she says.

Guthrie says she'll "definitely" be back at Indy next year. In the meantime, she'll have a full year of championship racing behind her.

But Guthrie is not new to car racing. She is a 13-year veteran of road racing, where women have competed for many years.

Nor is racing Guthrie's only ambition.

She has visions of becoming an astronaut and applied for the Scientist Astronaut Program several years after graduating from the University of Michigan with a bachelor's degree in physics. But she believes her lack of a Ph.D. kept her out of the program.

She still has hopes of making her way into the program someday, following in the aeronautical footsteps of her father, who was a pilot for Eastern Airlines.

She went into racing from her work as a research and development engineer with Republic Aviation. She began in 1963 driving an XK 40 Jaguar in SCAA races. She not only did the driving, but also performed her own mechanical work.

Her most prominent success came in 1970 when she finished first in her class in the 12-hour

Sebring race. She also has competed in the 24-hour Daytona and Watkins Glen 500 endurance races with nine consecutive finishes.

As she talks, it's obvious this slender, 5-foot-9 woman approaches her sport as a match of minds, not physical strength.

"Racing is so much more in the mind than the body," she says.

And for that reason, she says, women can compete on an equal footing with men in this sport. "The single most important thing is concentration," she says.

Guthrie doesn't believe many women will be sports car drivers in the near future, but she knows they will make it eventually.

"I'm sure there are women out there who are capable of being a better race car driver than me," she says. "But don't get me wrong. I'm a damn good driver."

Key Issues Still Unresolved In California Cannery Strike

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bargainers meeting to resolve the California cannery workers' strike have settled many issues, but several key economic questions remain, according to a spokesman for federal mediators.

The spokesman declined to elaborate on chief mediator James Searce's statement that money issues are unsettled. Talks continued past midnight.

and recessed until 10 a.m. today.

With the peak of the California fruit harvest nearing, bargainers hope to find an early settlement to end the walkout that growers say could cost them nearly $2.5 billion.

Greek, Turkish Forces Alerted In Oil Dispute

BY EMBEL ANIL
Associated Press Writer

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — Greek and Turkish military forces were on alert today as a Turkish research vessel steamed toward the Aegean Sea in defiance of Greek threats to stop the ship if it infringed on their oil exploration areas.

Turkey kept secret the course and timetable of the ship, Seismic 1, but it was expected to pass through the Dardanelles Strait into the Aegean, where both nations claim rights to possible mineral riches under the seabed.

Greece bases its claim on the 3,000 Greek islands in the Aegean, many of them within sight of the Turkish shore. But Turkey says the continental shelf under the islands is an extension of the Turkish mainland.

A Turkish coast guard cutter accompanied the ship as it steamed away from its berth in Istanbul into the Sea of Marmara on Friday.

Turkish military officials have said the ship would be fully protected on its mission, which Turkish leaders said was to undertake seismic research on the "open seas."

The Greeks say they recognize the right to cruise the open seas but they will not allow soundings or exploration in areas they claim.

Neither country knows whether the Aegean hides oil worth fighting over. But the Turks have made it clear they are interested not only in oil but also in keeping the Aegean from becoming a Greek lake.

Western diplomatic sources said a military engagement between two North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries was unlikely. Both sides have been cautioned by their NATO partners to use restraint. Officials at NATO headquarters in Brussels declined comment on a possible confrontation.

The ship's captain, Ahmet Nisanci, asked about possible Greek interference, said, "I have no such apprehensions. Why should I worry? This is a scientific mission."

The ship sailed with pomp and ceremony. Sheep were sacrificed, crowds lined the shores, boats sounded their horns and a Moslem religious leader blessed the crew.

"No outside power will be able to disrupt her projected course," the Turkish energy minister declared during the ceremonies.

Lake Problem Sites Singled Out

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Russell Train, administrator of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, singled out five areas Friday as major problems of Lake Michigan.

Train, on a Great Lakes tour involving discussions of the area's environmental ills, said Lake Michigan's problems are concentrated at the Milwaukee and Green Bay areas in Wisconsin, Escanaba, Mich., the mouth of the Grand River in Michigan and along the lake's Indiana shore.

He urged that local governments and the EPA work jointly on the problem areas. Train also said the EPA did not plan to take part in a federal court suit, scheduled for trial this fall, in which officials in Illinois have accused Milwaukee of polluting Lake Michigan.

Strict Deadline Set

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Strict deadlines have been set, telling Detroit to correct its water pollution problems or lose a permit to dump treated sewage into the Detroit River. The State Water Resources Commission said Friday it planned to adopt an order outlining what Detroit must do to halt excess discharges of phosphorus and sludge and qualify for some $200 million in federal funds to help it do so. A spokesman for the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency called Detroit's pollution "by far the largest discharge to the Great Lakes" and "a continuous federal concern since the mid-1960s." Detroit's 26-year-old sewage treatment plant — there is only one — handles more than a billion gallons of sewage daily from 3.5 million residents of Detroit and 78 suburbs.

Casino Issue Unresolved

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Casino gambling, seen by some as a Las Vegas-type cure for Detroit's financial ills, is no closer to reality today, even though part of the question has been put before the state attorney general. Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley said Friday he cannot provide "a definitive answer" on whether Detroit may hold an advisory referendum on legalizing casino gambling. Kelley was asked by state Rep. Casmer Ogonowski, D-Detroit, the main supporter of limited casino gambling in the city, whether Detroit could hold an election to sound out the voters on the issue. Kelley, however, said conflicting court decisions left him unable to say for certain.

Half Going By Bus

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — About one-half of the state's 2.1 million students in public schools will ride school buses to classes this fall, according to the Department of Education. More than 10,000 school buses can be expected to carry the pupils, and every kindergarten-through-12th grade school provides some sort of transportation for its students. To qualify for a lift to school and back, a student must live more than 1½ miles from school. Elementary school children can be required to walk up to half-mile to a bus stop, while high school students can be required to walk up to a mile.

Unhappy Results Coming?

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A Michigan State University professor warns that a grocery store "coupon war" now taking place in Detroit may have unhappy results for consumers. Dr. John W. Allen, an authority on food retailing and its economics, said food chains which increase the value of coupons lose money and also may make it more difficult to raise money for improvements. Improvements, he said, such as automated warehouses, can help guarantee good values to consumers in the future. Since grocery profits are small, often one per cent or less, he said, food chains may have trouble borrowing money and sales volume counts heavily.

Indian Campsites Discovered

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Evidence of 13 early Indian campsites has been discovered along the Red Cedar River between Williamston and East Lansing by Michigan State University anthropology students. Fire-cracked rocks, a pendant with a ground stone and four projectile points have been found, according to Patrick Martin, MSU doctoral candidate in anthropology. Martin is in charge of the program, which is being conducted by students enrolled in a summer course.

They're Exempt From Suits

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Government health personnel who give mass swine flu immunizations this fall will be exempt from malpractice suits under a bill signed into law by Gov. William Milliken. The exemption does not apply to a drug manufacturer for a drug or vaccine used in the planned mass inoculation, however. "This law will encourage doctors and nurses working in public health care facilities to participate in the swine flu inoculation campaign this fall by lifting the specter of medical malpractice suits," Milliken said. Other bills signed by Milliken: Set up procedures for temporarily transferring employees of state and local governments, or colleges and universities to other government agencies. The transfers could be for up to two years; Add emergency medical service personnel employed by city police and fire departments to the compulsory arbitration provisions of the Police and Firefighters Arbitration Act of 1968.

Clamp On Spending

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A state lawmaker says he will introduce legislation designed to clamp spending limits on school districts, municipalities and counties. The bill was proposed Friday by Sen. John Bowman, D-Roseville. Bowman said his bill is patterned after similar laws in Wisconsin. It would call for property tax revenues in municipalities and counties to be limited to the amount collected the previous year, plus an increase based on the statewide growth in property values and population gains in the area. Local or county voters could exempt their governments from the limitation one year at a time. If the limit were otherwise exceeded, the municipality or county would be penalized with reduced state revenue sharing payments.

Esch, Baker Favor Ford

DETROIT (AP) — Two candidates for the Republican U.S. Senate nomination in Michigan's Aug. 3 primary say they hope Gerald Ford, not Ronald Reagan, is the GOP's presidential nominee. Congressman Marvin Esch and businessman Deane Baker, both of Ann Arbor, said they hoped Ford would be the nominee. But the two other Senate candidates, former Congressman Robert Huber of Troy and former Michigan Supreme Court Justice Thomas Brennan, declined to choose between President Ford and Reagan.

One Of Every Eighteen

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — One of every 18 people in Michigan will be in college this fall, according to the state Board of Education. About one-half million men and women will be taking classes at Michigan's 83 public and private two-and four-year colleges and universities this September. In 1975-76, Michigan State University was the state's largest university with 48,488 students, followed by the University of Michigan with 45,837 and Wayne State University with 36,075. Last year, Macomb Community College was the state's largest community college with 24,713 students.

Critical Resolution Advances

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The Michigan Trial Lawyers Association has sent the Judicial Tenure Commission a resolution criticizing a Pontiac judge who set high bonds for alleged drug violations at Pontiac Stadium. The association adopted the resolution last week censuring Judge Robert Cunningham and asking for a public apology over his bonds. Friday the association said it sent the resolution on Cunningham's conduct to the commission.

BH MARKET

Quality Of Peaches Reported Improved

The quality of peaches delivered to the Benton Harbor Fruit Market has improved this week, USDA Market News Reporter Jack Kerrigan said yesterday, but peaches with split pits are still common.

John Nye, a St. Joseph peach grower, put forward two theories yesterday when asked what causes split pits. It could be that the spring freezes damaged buds and somehow that damage weakened the peach pits. Or, Nye added, the problem could be due to growing conditions in June, when the peaches may have grown so fast that the fruit pulled the pits inside apart.

Consumers Seeking Bigger Hike

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Consumers Power Co. has asked the Michigan Public Service Commission to update a pending 1974 application to boost natural gas rates by including the utility's 1975 operating costs.

The company said this week it needs $18.0 million above the $34.2 million it requested in November 1974 in order to "earn a reasonable return" on its gas operations through late 1977.

The PSC last month dismissed another Consumers request to increase natural gas rates by an additional $34.1 million on top of the 1974 request.

In turning down the more recent request, PSC Chairman Daniel Demlow said regulation of state utilities "cannot work if we allow rate cases to be panned one on top of another."

The 1974 case includes the question of how much of the cost overrun Consumers experienced on its Marquette Gas Refining plant should be passed on to the company's 900,000 customers. The commission ruled last March that it needed more information before issuing a ruling.

In June 1975, the PSC granted Consumers an interim rate increase of $29.1 million.

Shoreline Problems Viewed

MUSKEGON — Congressman James G. O'Hara (D-Mich.) said Friday he saw the eastern shoreline of Lake Michigan as damaged heavily by erosion and added two measures bottled up in Congress could aid the shoreline by lowering water levels. O'Hara commented at a press conference here during a flying tour of the Lake Michigan shoreline. The trip began in Chicago, traveled along the Lake Michigan shoreline to Muskegon and then traveled to the east side of the state for an inspection at Saginaw Bay, Lake St. Clair and the Monroe area on Lake Erie. Accompanying O'Hara on the tour were Congressman Ray Roberts (D-Texas), chairman of the subcommittee on water resources, and Brig. Gen. Robert Moore, North Central division engineer of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The tour was a prelude to hearings in Washington D.C. on measures to reduce record-high water levels in the Great Lakes. O'Hara, chairman of the 130-member Conference of Great Lakes Congressmen, has led efforts to divert additional water out of the Great Lakes at both Chicago and the Niagara river during high water cycles. These are intended to lower water levels in the lakes and prevent erosion.

"I want Chairman Roberts to get a first-hand view of the problems we face in the Great Lakes because of the high water levels that have persisted over the past five years," O'Hara said. "I'm confident that the chairman will be receptive to our plea for prompt action on legislation that will help cure the situation and restore some measure of stability to the lake levels."

O'Hara of Utica is a primary candidate for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. senate seat being vacated by Philip Hart.

HOUSTON (AP) — Two Texas relatives of the Howard Hughes have won their first court battle to remain as Texas executors of the estate of the late billionaire. Probate Judge Pat Gregory ruled Friday that there was nothing presented in court to indicate that Annette Gano Lummis or her son, attorney William Lummis, should be stripped of their powers as Texas executors of Hughes estate.

Disaster Tag Sought For Frost-Plagued Michigan Counties

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken has asked U.S. Agriculture Sec. Earl Butz to declare 11 Western Michigan counties as disaster areas because of heavy crop losses in April, May and June. Sub freezing temperatures in April and May and a June hail storm caused an estimated $44.6 million in damage, primarily to fruit crops. A disaster declaration by Butz would make low-interest loans available to about 350 farmers. Counties included in Milliken's request were Allegan, Berrien, Cass, Grand Traverse, Kalamazoo, Leelanau, Manistee, Mason, Oceana, Ottawa and Van Buren.

STARTS IN SEPTEMBER

LMC To Introduce Advertising Course

An advertising program leading to an associate of arts degree has been created by the Lake Michigan college journalism department and will be available for students enrolling at LMC in September.

The 60-semester hour sequence of courses was developed by members of the journalism and business administration faculty assisted by an advertising advisory committee of Benton Harbor and St. Joseph advertising executives.

The program is designed to provide maximum transferability to four-year universities offering advertising sequences as well as to serve those seeking beginning jobs in advertising on weekly and small daily newspapers after graduation from LMC, according to Prof. Paul Gerhard, head of the LMC journalism department.

"For years, journalism at LMC has specialized in newspaper training. We feel it is time to train for work in advertising as well," Gerhard said.

The advertising programs currently being offered at Michigan universities as well as those offered at universities in nearby states were consulted in developing LMC's program, Gerhard said.

$10,000 AWARDED

Napier Will Just Miss His Front Door

A Benton township business which will have only 18 inches between the front door and the new right of way when Napier avenue is widened was awarded $10,000 during a trial Friday in Berrien Circuit court.

The six-member jury in Judge William S. White's court awarded the sum to Henry Meyer, owner of Meyer Pools, Inc., of 1436 East Napier. The trial was to determine the value of the land taken by the county road commission to widen Napier.

The land taken was 50 feet of frontage and a 7 foot depth, and appraisals ranged from the road commission's $9,800 to $33,300 by Meyer's appraiser.

During the two-day trial, Meyers contended the township's zoning ordinance requires a 25 foot setback from the road, which would necessitate major alterations to the building. But, the road commission said its price was based on alterations which would only require the installation of a recessed doorway to allow the door to open and still not infringe on the right of way.

Opposing counsel were St. Joseph Atty. Henry Gleiss representing the road commission and Atty. John Crow and F.A. (Mike) Jones of Benton Harbor representing Meyer.

A Medicaid 'Crisis'

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The administration of the Medicaid program in the United States "has caused a crisis in federal-state relations," says an expert on the medical care system: Beverlee Myers, former director of the New York State Department of Social Services, criticized federal regulations and fragmented attempts to cut the cost of the program, which provides medical service for the poor. She made her comments Friday in an address to the opening session of a two-day conference on Medicaid cost-containment. The meeting was sponsored by the National Conference on State Legislatures, and attracted representatives from about 15 states. She said Washington has broken promises to the states to take over funding of the Medicaid program — it is now funded half by the states and half by the federal government — has not given the states administrative powers and has "mandated them to spend more and more money."

Commodity Exchanges On Notices

WASHINGTON (AP) — The five New York commodities futures exchanges have 30 days to submit outlines to federal regulators of the ways they will comply with existing rules for policing themselves.

The Commodity Futures Trading Commission said that investigations by its division of trading and markets showed "the enforcement program of every New York exchange was deficient."

The commission sent letters outlining compliance needs to the Commodity Exchange, Inc.; New York Cocoa Exchange; New York Coffee and Sugar Exchange, Inc.; New York Cotton Exchange; and the New York Mercantile Exchange.

Spokesmen for the exchanges said they would reserve comment until they had time to study the documents, which they said they had not yet received.

WANTS CUTS RESTORED

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is preparing to ask Congress to restore about $2.3 billion in funds it kept from his defense budget, according to administration sources. The money would go for Navy ships and research.

Big Mac's Painters Too Drippy

ST. IGNACE, Mich. (AP) — The Mackinac Bridge Authority might be asking the question: "Does anyone have a drop cloth six miles long and 14 feet wide?"

Workmen painting the bridge, which connects Michigan's two peninsulas at the Straits of Mackinac, were ordered Friday, to stop their work until a solution can be found to the problem of excess paint settling on the water below.

Coast guard authorities at Sault Ste. Marie have ordered the painting stopped because the oil base paint over-spray violates oil pollution standards. The Coast Guard suggested that a canvas be spread under the bridge to catch the overspray.

A spokesman for the bridge authority says the painting contractor was warned six months ago to find a solution to the problem.

The spokesman said a solution must be worked out because the bridge is painted each year. But he said it is impractical to sling a drop cloth under the structure, which is more than 80 feet wide.

Coast Guard officials plan to meet Sunday with the contractor to try and solve the problem.

Quality Of Peaches Reported Improved

The quality of peaches delivered to the Benton Harbor Fruit Market has improved this week, USDA Market News Reporter Jack Kerrigan said yesterday, but peaches with split pits are still common.

John Nye, a St. Joseph peach grower, put forward two theories yesterday when asked what causes split pits. It could be that the spring freezes damaged buds and somehow the peach pits. Or, Nye added, the problem could be due to growing conditions in June, when the peaches may have grown so fast that the fruit pulled the pits inside apart.

Consumers Seeking Bigger Hike

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Consumers Power Co. has asked the Michigan Public Service Commission to update a pending 1974 application to boost natural gas rates by including the utility's 1975 operating costs.

The company said this week it needs $18.9 million above the $54.2 million it requested in November 1974 in order to "earn a reasonable return" on its gas operations through late 1977.

The PSC last month dismissed another Consumers request to increase natural gas rates by an additional $54.1 million on top of the 1974 request.

In turning down the more recent request, PSC Chairman Daniel Demlow said regulation of state utilities "cannot work if we allow rate cases to be panned one on top of another."

The 1974 case includes the question of how much of the cost overrun Consumers experienced on its Marysville Gas Refining plant should be passed on to the company's 960,000 customers. The commission ruled last March that it needed more information before issuing a ruling.

In June 1975, the PSC granted Consumers an interim rate increase of $29.1 million.

Shoreline Problems Viewed

MUSKEGON — Congressman James G. O'Hara (D-Mich.) said Friday he saw the eastern shoreline of Lake Michigan as damaged heavily by erosion and added two measures bottled up in Congress could aid the shoreline by lowering water levels. O'Hara commented at a press conference here during a flying tour of the Lake Michigan shoreline. The trip began in Chicago, traveled along the Lake Michigan shoreline to Muskegon and then traveled to the east side of the state for an inspection at Saginaw Bay, Lake St. Clair and the Monroe area on Lake Erie. Accompanying O'Hara on the tour were Congressman Ray Roberts (D-Texas), chairman of the subcommittee on water resources, and Brig. Gen. Robert Moore, North Central division engineer of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

The tour was a prelude to hearings in Washington D.C. on measures to reduce record-high water levels in the Great Lakes. O'Hara, chairman of the 130-member Conference of Great Lakes Congressmen, has led efforts to divert additional water out of the Great Lakes at both Chicago and the Niagara river during high water cycles. These are intended to lower water levels in the lakes and prevent erosion.

"I want Chairman Roberts to get a first-hand view of the problems we face in the Great Lakes because of the high water levels that have persisted over the past five years," O'Hara said. "I'm confident that the chairman will be receptive to our plea for prompt action on legislation that will help cure the situation and restore some measure of stability to the lake levels."

O'Hara of Utica is a primary candidate for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. senate seat being vacated by Philip Hart.

U.S. Auto Sales Up 13 Per Cent

DETROIT (AP) — Although summer is usually a slack time for auto sales, domestic deliveries of new cars climbed 13 per cent in mid July, keeping the market alive as the 1977 model year approaches.

The nation's four automakers reported Friday that retail sales during the July 11-20 period totaled 241,528, compared with 213,965 in the same 10-day period in 1975. There were eight selling days in each period.

Ford Motor Co. said its sales rose 36 per cent, Chrysler Corp. reported a 34 per cent gain and General Motors Corp. said its deliveries were up 3 per cent. Small-car specialist American Motors Corp., stuck in continuing sales decline, reported a 41 per cent drop.

"Retail deliveries are maintaining a good, solid pace through the summer months," said Bennett E. Bidwell, sales vice president at Ford Motor Co.

GM said its modest gain in the latest period was the result of an exceptionally strong sales mark a year ago, the result of a sales contest. Overall, Chevrolet sales fell in the period but Cadillac, Oldsmobile and Buicks set new marks for a mid-July, GM said.

So far this year, the companies have reported total retail sales of 4,896,782 new cars, up 34 per cent from 3,642,044 a year ago. Chrysler is up 42 per cent, GM 38 per cent and Ford 30 per cent, while AMC is down 20 per cent.

Disaster Tag Sought For Frost-Plagued Michigan Counties

STARTS IN SEPTEMBER LMC To Introduce Advertising Course

An advertising program leading to an associate of arts degree has been created by the Lake Michigan college journalism department and will be available for students enrolling at LMC in September.

The 60-semester hour sequence of courses was developed by members of the journalism and business administration faculty assisted by an advertising advisory committee of Benton Harbor and St. Joseph advertising executives.

The program is designed to provide maximum transferability to four-year universities offering advertising sequences as well as to serve those seeking beginning jobs in advertising on weekly and small daily newspapers after graduation from LMC, according to Prof. Paul Gerhard, head of the LMC journalism department.

"For years, journalism at LMC has specialized in newspaper training. We feel it is time to train for work in advertising as well," Gerhard said.

The advertising programs currently being offered at Michigan universities as well as those offered at universities in nearby states were consulted in developing LMC's program, Gerhard said.

$10,000 AWARDED

Napier Will Just Miss His Front Door

A Benton township business which will have only 18 inches between the front door and the new right of way when Napier avenue is widened was awarded $10,000 during a trial Friday in Berrien Circuit court.

The six-member jury in Judge William S. White's court awarded the sum to Henry Meyer, owner of Meyer Pools, Inc., of 1436 East Napier. The trial was to determine the value of the land taken by the county road commission to widen Napier.

The land taken was 50 feet of frontage and a 7 foot depth, and appraisals ranged from the road commission's $9,800 to $33,300 by Meyer's appraiser.

During the two-day trial, Meyers contended the township's zoning ordinance requires a 25 foot setback from the road, which would necessitate major alterations to the building. But the road commission said its price was based on alterations which would only require the installation of a recessed doorway to allow the door to open and still not infringe on the right of way.

Opposing counsel were St. Joseph Atty. Henry Gleiss representing the road commission and Atty. John Crow and F.A. (Mike) Jones of Benton Harbor representing Meyer.

A Medicaid 'Crisis'

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The administration of the Medicaid program in the United States "has caused a crisis in federal-state relations," says an expert on the medical care system. Beverlee Myers, former director of the New York State Department of Social Services, criticized federal regulations and fragmented attempts to cut the cost of the program, which provides medical service for the poor. She made her comments Friday in an address to the opening session of a two-day conference on Medicaid cost-containment. The meeting was sponsored by the National Conference on State Legislatures, and attracted representatives from about 15 states. She said Washington has broken promises to the states to take over funding of the Medicaid program — it is now funded half by the states and half by the federal government — has not given the states administrative powers and has "mandated them to spend more and more money."

They said they had not yet received.

Berrien Court Sentences Two

A Benton Harbor man was sentenced yesterday in Berrien Circuit court to 90 days in jail for a probation violation, but was continued on probation. Sentenced by Judge Julian E. Hughes was Otis E. Hartz, 21, of 871 East Britain avenue, who last week failed to report to his probation officer as scheduled. Hartz in March was placed on one year probation by Hughes for entering Benton Harbor high school without breaking last August.

In another arraignment before Hughes, Anthony Q. Olando, 17, of 1200 Miners road, St. Joseph, pleaded guilty to being a disorderly person and was sentenced to $40 fine and costs. He was accused of being disorderly by trespassing and tampering with a boat Aug. 15 in St. Joseph. Olando was originally charged with larceny over $100, the theft of $2,500 in U.S. and Canadian currency from a boat owned by Gilbert LaBar last Aug. 15. Assistant Prosecutor Quentin Fulcher said Olando was allowed to plead guilty to the misdemeanor charge because full restitution has been made.

Six of the cadets held a news conference Friday to accuse West Point officials of violating their constitutional rights. But Col. Gilbert Kirby, who heads the prosecution system that was created as the scandal spread, said the Army has been acting properly.

Berrien Court Sentences Two

A Benton Harbor man was sentenced yesterday in Berrien Circuit court to 90 days in jail for a probation violation, but was continued on probation. Sentenced by Judge Julian E. Hughes was Otis E. Hartz, 21, of 871 East Britain avenue, who last week failed to report to his probation officer as scheduled. Hartz in March was placed on one year probation by Hughes for entering Benton Harbor high school without breaking last August.

In another arraignment before Hughes, Anthony Q. Orlando, 17, of 1209 Miners road, St. Joseph, pleaded guilty to being a disorderly person and was sentenced to $40 fine and costs. He was accused of being disorderly by trespassing and tampering with a boat Aug. 15 in St. Joseph. Orlando was originally charged with larceny over $100, the theft of $2,560 in U.S. and Canadian currency from a boat owned by Gilbert LaBar last Aug. 15. Assistant Prosecutor Quentin Fulcher said Orlando was allowed to plead guilty to the misdemeanor charge because full restitution has been made.

RESOLUTION DENYING SPECIAL USE PERMIT
2608 MORTON AVENUE

The City Manager read a communication from the St. Joseph City Planning Commission dated July 6, 1976 recommending that the request of Ms. Margaret J. Cahoon for special use permit to allow a single family dwelling, located at 2608 Morton Avenue, St.
Joseph, to be used as a medical building, be denied.

After discussion, Mr. Gast, seconded by Mr. Gillespie, moved that the application of Ms. Margaret J. Cahoon for special use permit be denied, and that Ms. Cahoon be advised of this action.

Roll call resulted as follows: Yeas: Commissioners Gast, Gillespie, Hanley and Smith. Nays: None. Absent: Commissioner
Selent. Motion declared carried and resolution adopted.

Commissioner Gast discussed several items included in the Michigan Municipal League bulletin No. 51, dated June 25, 1976, including a recent bill to prohibit annexation of part of a Charter Township, and a bill to exclude broker's commission, attorney's fees and repairs from valuations by assessors. The Manager was directed to notify Senator Zollar and Representative Gast that the City Commission was opposed to the valuation bill.

Commissioner Gast then asked about DIAL-A-RIDE and was advised by the Manager that the two charter amendments relating to contributions by use rather than population and a sixty (60) day cancellation provision have not been considered by the City of Benton Harbor as yet.

TOM SPARKS told the Commission that he opposed a lot split for the lot at the Northeast corner of Wallace and Lake Shore Drive (adjacent to Mercer Fisher property) principally because any improvement would interfere with the vision of motorists approaching the intersection and because it will cause additional traffic on his street. The Manager responded that this was a matter for the Planning Commission and not for the City Commission.

There being no further business to come before this commission, Commissioner Hanley moved to adjourn until Monday, July 19, 1976 at 7:30 P.M.

Ford Motor Won't Budge On Union Pension Issue

DETROIT (AP) — The Ford Motor Co. remained firm Friday, refusing to bow to United Auto Workers demands that retirees be given protection from inflation.

Ford bargainers reminded UAW officials that the 1973 contract keeps pensions out of the picture until 1979. Talks on a new contract which will last until 1979 for other issues as well, began earlier this week.

Negotiators have until mid-September to come to agreements for 800,000 workers in the auto industry.

Ford's stance echoed a similar position voiced by bargainers for General Motors Corp. Although both Ford and UAW spokesmen said there could be problems with the 1974 Pension Reform Act if the pension issue is reopened now, UAW Vice President Ken Bannan said the union has a second fund in mind that would be built up by company contributions in the name of each employee.

He said it was "a one-shot deal" and noted the pension plan itself would not be reopened.

Bannan said Ford would offer counter proposals Tuesday, with hard bargaining set Wednesday. Current retirees get about $600 per month and there are some provisions for modest annual benefits.

However, job security, not pensions, has risen as the chief issue at this year's talks and the negotiations are still in preliminary stages.

At the GM end of the talks, most of the bargaining concerned supervisory employees who are demoted in time of cutbacks, bumping other union members out of jobs. The union wants men promoted to supervisors to lose union seniority, thus saving rank-and-file jobs when layoffs occur.

In the Chrysler corner, the UAW said Chrysler owed its workers $14.5 million because of alleged abuses in the Supplemental Unemployment Benefit program.

UAW Vice President Doug Fraser said the UAW would seek to restructure the fund so problems which occurred in 1974-75 when more than 50,000 Chrysler workers were laid off and the special fund ran dry would not occur again.

However, the UAW has not claimed the $14.5 million was lost through any violation of the contract, so demands for reparations may face a tough climb. Fraser said the UAW had in mind only "very modest" reparations from Chrysler, and not the $16.5 million it claims is its due.

Remedies sought could include higher contributions to the white-collar SUB fund, and a special fund for high-seniority workers.

N-Olant Work To Continue

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Work will continue on a nuclear generating plant in Midland despite a court ruling ordering the Nuclear Regulatory Commission to reconsider approval of the facility Consumers Power Co. reports.

Consumers Chairman A.H. Aymond said Friday the company is looking at legal alternatives to the U.S. Court of Appeals ruling. An appeal to the Supreme Court is among the options under consideration. Aymond said the firm may ask the entire appellate court to rehear the matter.

Aymond said since the court did not revoke the firm's construction permits, the company believes authorization to build the plant remains valid.

However, opponents of the plant say the court decision means Consumers license to build is no longer valid. Chicago attorney Myron Cherry says the company is operating illegally if it continues construction. Cherry said he has asked NRC general counsel Peter Strauss to order Consumers to shut down.

Strauss said he won't respond to the request until he's studied the opinion; Cherry claims he'll go to court if Strauss doesn't order the shutdown.

The U.S. Appeals Court in Washington ruled Thursday the NRC must reconsider whether to allow continued construction of the $1.4-billion plant.

The ruling upheld two objections raised by opponents of the plant. The court ruled that the licensing board erred when it decided energy conservation did not have to be considered as an alternative to construction.

The court also said a statement by the Advisory Committee on Reactor Safeguards — part of the evidence considered when the license was approved — "should be returned to the ACRS for clarification of ambiguities."

The Saginaw Valley Nuclear Study Group and Mapleton Interimers had argued before the court in November that an environmental impact statement supporting construction of the plant ignored energy conservation as an alternative to building the facility.

Old Union Conflict Revived

DETROIT (AP) — A small crafts union based in New Jersey has revived a 20-year drive to wrest bargaining rights for 120,000 skilled tradesmen away from the giant United Auto Workers union.

The International Society of Skilled Trades (ISST) has filed petitions with the National Labor Relations Board seeking an election to determine whether the ISST or UAW should bargain for skilled workers at General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

The ISST claims to have collected signatures from at least 30 per cent of the auto tradesmen — the minimum required for NLRB to call an election. The union will testify on its petition before the NLRB in Detroit on Tuesday.

The ISST's latest effort to gain bargaining rights for the independently minded UAW tradesmen has come, not coincidentally, with the start of talks between the UAW and the auto companies on new contracts for 609,000 hourly workers.

He said it was "a one-shot deal" and noted the pension plan itself would not be reopened.

Bannon said Ford would offer counter proposals Tuesday, with hard bargaining set Wednesday. Current retirees get about $650 per month and there are some provisions for modest annual benefits.

However, job security, not pensions, has risen as the chief issue at this year's talks and the negotiations are still in preliminary stages.

At the GM end of the talks, most of the bargaining concerned supervisory employees who are demoted in time of cutbacks, bumping other union members out of jobs. The union wants men promoted to supervisors to lose union seniority, thus saving rank-and-file jobs when layoffs occur.

In the Chrysler corner, the UAW said Chrysler owed its workers $16.5 million because of alleged abuses in the Supplemental Unemployment Benefit program.

UAW Vice President Doug Fraser said the UAW would seek to restructure the fund so problems which occurred in 1974-75 when more than 50,000 Chrysler workers were laid off

N-Olant Work To Continue

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Work will continue on a nuclear generating plant in Midland despite a court ruling ordering the Nuclear Regulatory Commission to reconsider approval of the facility Consumers Power Co. reports.

Consumers Chairman A.H. Aymond said Friday the company is looking at legal alternatives to the U.S. Court of Appeals ruling. An appeal to the Supreme Court is among the options under consideration. Aymond said the firm may ask the entire appellate court to rehear the matter.

Strauss said he won't respond to the request until he's studied the opinion; Cherry claims he'll go to court if Strauss doesn't order the shutdown.

The U.S. Appeals Court in Washington ruled Thursday the NRC must reconsider whether to allow continued construction of the $1.4-billion plant.

The ruling upheld two objections raised by opponents of the plant. The court ruled that the licensing board erred when it decided energy conservation did not have to be considered as an alternative to construction.

The court also said a statement by the Advisory Committee on Reactor Safeguards — part of the evidence considered when the license was approved — "should be returned to the ACRS for clarification of ambiguities."

The Saginaw Valley Nuclear Study Group and Mapleton Intervenor had argued before the court in November that an environmental impact statement supporting construction of the plant ignored energy conservation as an alternative to building the facility.

However, opponents of the plant say the court decision means Consumers license to build is no longer valid. Chicago attorney Myron Cherry says the company is operating illegally if it continues construction. Cherry said he has asked NRC general counsel Peter Strauss to order Consumers to shut down.

and the special fund ran dry would not occur again.

However, the UAW has not claimed the $16.5 million was lost through any violation of the contract, so demands for reparations may face a tough climb. Fraser said the UAW had in mind only "very modest" reparations from Chrysler, and not the $16.5 million it claims is its due.

Remedies sought could include higher contributions to the white-collar SUB fund, and a special fund for high-seniority workers.

Old Union Conflict Revived

DETROIT (AP) — A small crafts union based in New Jersey has revived a 20-year drive to wrest bargaining rights for 120,000 skilled tradesmen away from the giant United Auto Workers union.

The International Society of Skilled Trades (ISST) has filed petitions with the National Labor Relations Board seeking an election to determine whether the ISST or UAW should bargain for skilled workers at General Motors, Ford and Chrysler.

The ISST claims to have collected signatures from at least 30 per cent of the auto tradesman — the minimum required for NLRB to call an election. The union will testify on its petition before the NLRB in Detroit on Tuesday.

The ISST's latest effort to gain bargaining rights for the independently minded UAW tradesmen has come, not coincidentally, with the start of talks between the UAW and the auto companies on new contracts for 629,000 hourly workers.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR MICHAEL LEARNED, star of "The Waltons"

Since your TV show has been on for so long, do you consider yourself a superstar?—B.D., Sacramento, Calif.

● No. I'm not a superstar and I never will be one. My phone doesn't ring incessantly, but I am occasionally recognized on the street. Some stars enjoy having their buttons tugged off. Not me. I'll never forget when I tried on lingerie and the saleslady rushed in to see me. I was stark naked and mortified. I can prove I'm not star material! The day after I got the Emmy award for the show, I went to the studio cafeteria. Not only didn't I get star treatment, but my lunch reservation was in the name of Mister Michael Learned. [Incidentally, FAMILY WEEKLY readers disagree with Ms. Learned about her star status. For three consecutive years they have voted her their favorite TV supporting actress!]

FOR MICHAEL LONDON

Do you enjoy your role in "Little House on the Prairie" better than you did your role in "Bonanza"?—Jana Linder, Mulkeytown, Ill.

● The roles are too different to compare. One role called for a sort of silly, happy-go-lucky kid with very few responsibilities, the other calls for a grown man who is all but overloaded with the problems of caring for and helping a large family. I like both roles, but I do feel that Charles Ingalls in "Little House" is closer to real life, and I like that part.

FOR CONNIE STEVENS

What do you do in your spare time?—R.C., Middletown, Ohio

● I'm a space buff. I know lots of astronauts and have been lucky enough to be on the spot when they took off for the moon and orbits. And I'm also a fight fan. I go regularly. As a kid, I went with my dad and brother, and I figure I've been to a couple of hundred matches. And if I don't agree with the final decision, I've been known to embarrass everyone by rushing to ringside and giving the judges a piece of my mind.

FOR FREDA FAYNE

When you first started singing, how did you gain self-confidence?—G.S., Washington, D.C.

● It was hard. Harder for me than most, because as a child I was so painfully shy that my mother had to take me to a child psychologist to help break me out of my shell. He suggested to my mother (having heard I liked to sing) that I could become more outgoing by playing the piano, accompanying myself in private, then singing for friends. I did. That and performing at amateur recitals and church socials did the trick.

FOR CHARLES KURALT, TV newsmen

What do you think it takes to be a TV news anchor person?—Daniel Morton, Durham, N.C.

● It seems to me, as I travel about the country, that all it takes to be an anchor person is to be under 25, fair of face and figure, duclet of tone and well-coiffed.

FOR THE MOST REVEREND FULTON J. SHEEN

Based on your own experience, is TV an effective way of bringing religion to people?—T. J. McInerney, New Hyde Park, N.Y.

● The effectiveness depends upon the message that is conveyed and the love of God in the heart of the one who is telecasting. Nothing is quite as infectious on TV as a man in love with Christ and his neighbor.

FOR LETITIA "TISH" BALDRIDGE

social secretary during the Kennedy Administration

You have worked in both Chicago and New York since your days with the Kennedys. Which city offers more career opportunities?—Dorothy J. Sullivan, Brighton, Mass.

● Women do better in New York than Chicago, better in Chicago than Los Angeles and better in Los Angeles than in smaller cities. The larger the city, the better the opportunities. Women seem to do better in creative jobs, and there are just more of those in New York City.

FOR MYRA WALDO, travel-guide author

You must eat eight meals a day to keep your travel books up-to-date. How do you control your weight?—Dennis Crawford, Pomona, Calif.

● You're right. I do eat all day long, and elaborate meals at that. My method is to taste and sip. I never eat complete portions of food and drink. I also avoid salt and salty foods as these keep weight in suspension in the body. When I do eat, I concentrate on protein foods rather than carbohydrates. I still weigh in at 112 pounds.

FOR JOHNNY NASH

I've heard you're a health-food addict. True?—C.B., Bangor, Maine

● Yes. I keep away from white flour products and sugar. My key food is vegetables. I drink lots of juices—carrot, cucumber and celery, plus fruit juices. If I get ill, I cure myself with herbs and homemade medicinal extracts I learned from my grandmother. Whatever good health I have is due to what I eat and to exercising—which includes running six miles a day.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITOR

Do the stars of the hit TV shows keep up their friendship after hours?—Mrs. Clem Jackson, Clarksville, Tenn.

● Jean Stapleton and Carroll O'Connor (Edith and Archie Bunker of "All in the Family") don't. "There's no reason to," explained Jean. "We see each other all the time at the studio, where we put in a full working week. Like everyone else, at the end of the day, we're tired. We go home, put our feet up and relax. We get along fine, but keep our private lives separate from our work." Michael Learned rates Ralph Waite as her close pal, on and off the set of "The Waltons." "Our friendship goes beyond the show," says Michael. "We go out together and visit each other." She's very fond of Richard Thomas, but doesn't see that much of him because of their age difference. And Nancy Walker said about Valerie Harper ("Rhoda"): "We're very close and have been for six years. She's a wonderful person."

Fiji and Me

(And George C. Makes Three)

"Today you missed the fruit bats! They reside deep in a now-dead volcano. At the rim sat my own dear 'General Patton,' somewhat precariously, with his camera."

It took a crisis, a near-heart attack, to convince my husband, George C. Scott, that he needed a vacation. That's how we came to take a motor-sail yacht cruise to the remote Fiji Islands for three splendid weeks.

I want to tell you about our trip through letters I wrote to friends and family while we were traveling.

I wrote to our dear friend Jerry Ziegman, a writer whose mountain home overlooks the Pacific at Malibu:

Boating has always afforded us the greatest amount of peace we've ever enjoyed. No phones, no TV, no people, no hassle! This time, we are visiting some of the most remote and remarkable spots in the world. The simplicity of people's lives is beyond description. A Fijian apparently needs only an airy, open shack, a washline, a boat for fishing, trees that bear fruit and coconuts for eating, drinking and selling. There is such a feeling of timelessness and freedom!

On one tiny island, I saw a wedding ceremony conducted by a Catholic priest in the Fijian language. Just a young girl and boy and the groom's mother in a beautiful church filled with stained-glass windows imported from France, mats on the floor, a few pews and the whitest marble altar. The groom wore shoes, the best man wore sneakers and the mother was barefooted. The priest had an Irish face and wore black Fijian sandals that peeped beneath his white gown. We stood ever so quietly in the back and watched. It was very delicate and touching.

To my mother, Mrs. Louise Bach of Cape Code and Lakewood, N.J., I wrote:

Sabunabu and an uninhabited island, where we barbecued freshly caught Spanish mackerel. We've jogged on the whitest sands, snorkeled in crystal turquoise waters and collected seashells. We travel on the yacht Tan, and the crew is the best-spirited, hardest-working, most informed and informative I've encountered. Captain Evans is a big, gentle six-foot-six Fijian. His wife, who has joined us for a couple of days, is a sweet, gentle woman of six feet! Both are of island royal blood. They have 11 children and two huge coconut plantations, and they're planning a great roast pig feast for us at one of the plantations.

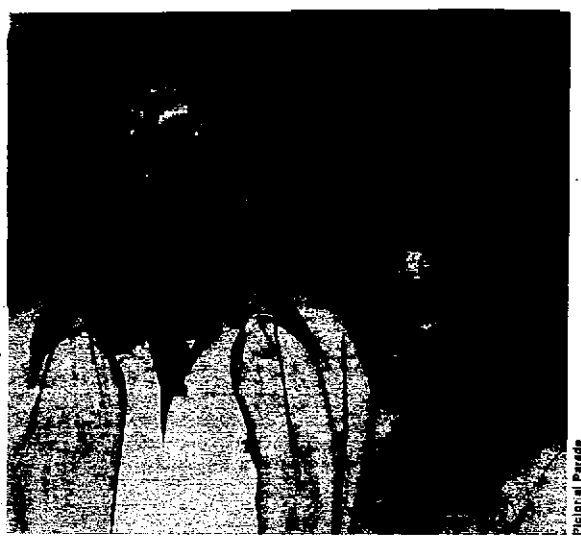

Last night we were at anchor in the bay; George and I slept on mats atop the wheelhouse. It was wonderful snuggled under a blanket . . . brilliant stars . . . good sound sleep. Then there were the shoreline roosters who woke us up to see a spectacular sunrise over the mountains and lake-calm waters. We were drenched in delicious dew (the first good thing for my skin!). What with salt spray, wind and sun, I feel like a crusty, salty old seadog.

George is really enjoying this! In his quiet, contented way, he's happy just to be here and to be left alone to play gin with Uncle Bud (George's uncle, who traveled with us for the first five days), while I venture off to visit old cemeteries and shop for a sulu, the island's simple, basic dress—two yards of material worn wrapped around the waist by men and women.

We're up by 6 a.m. and breakfasting on papaya, scrambled eggs and fresh poached fish by 7:00. Then we fish off the aft deck; so far we've caught a barracuda, a mahimahi and a Spanish mackerel. I've recently discovered that I like raw fish fresh out of the sea, cleaned, delicately sliced and with a bit of lemon and salt!

I wrote to my brother, George Alfred and his girlfriend Georgette:

You guys would go mad over the fresh fish, the peace, the beauty, the untouched wildlife of Fiji! I've collected lots of wonderful shells, which we can all share when I get back. George C. is preparing to throw all his clothes and other possessions overboard to make room in his suitcases for my collection. (He really did buy an $11 suitcase for my shells.)

George C. Scott and wife Trish—barefoot, beachcombing—calling into Similitou and freedom in the South Pacific.

To Arthur and Louise Julian, our best friends in Los Angeles, I wrote:

Weep, weep . . . today you missed the fruit bats! They reside deep in a now-dead volcano. Normally they come out at 6 p.m. to fly into the fruit trees, but so anxious were we to take their pictures that we arranged to disturb them at noon. We did this by driving up to the rim of the volcano in a jeep and firing off a few rounds from a shotgun. The bats, who like to spend their days quietly, came soaring out by the thousands!

I wrote to Matt and Devon Scott, George's college-age children:

Even as I write, a feast of roast pig is being prepared on the world's most remote beach. I lamented the loss of Mr. Pig and resigned myself to not making his acquaintance beforehand. I suspect by 7 p.m. I'll be over my remorse, though

I did root for him when he made a getaway that drove everyone into hot pursuit. . . .

Paul Stevens, an actor, deep-sea fisherman and painter, who lives in California, got a letter from me that said:

Yesterday we were on a tiny island, where five Fijian laborers had been dropped off by boat. Their own island was 12 miles away, and they'd come to harvest the coconuts. Their temporary dwelling is a breezy lean-to of poles and greens, and all they have with them are machetes and a few cans of food. They shared their food with us, and we shared what we had with them. They welcomed us humbly, pleasantly—quietly. At nightfall, after the labors of the day, they rowed out to the yacht and asked if they could have a look around. They were enthralled by what they saw for about an hour, then went back.

You would like these people. They are accustomed sharers and nonaggressive. The Indian population is somewhat more boisterous and verbal, more aggressive than the native Fijians.

"Fiji is a unique place. It is far away in the South Pacific—about 5,000 miles from the California coast. Until Oct. 10, 1970, when it was given its independence, it had been an English colony. It's 580,000 people, spread out over some 100 of its approximately 300 islands, are either native Fijians or people of Indian origin whose forebears were brought over in the 19th century by the English as indentured laborers to work on the sugar farms. The land is beautiful. The climate, outside of hurricane season, is hospitable, and the people are generous. It was, to us, a blessed place!"

Fiji and Me

(And George C. Makes Three)

"Today you missed the fruit bats! They reside deep in a now-dead volcano. At the rim sat my own dear 'General Patton,' somewhat precariously, with his camera."

It took a crisis, a near-heart attack, to convince my husband, George C. Scott, that he needed a vacation. That's how we came to take a motor-sail yacht cruise to the remote Fiji Islands for three splendid weeks.

I want to tell you about our trip through letters I wrote to friends and family while we were traveling.

I wrote to our dear friend Jerry Ziegman, a writer whose mountain home overlooks the Pacific at Malibu:

Boating has always afforded us the greatest amount of peace we've ever enjoyed. No phones, no TV, no people, no hassle! This time, we are visiting some of the most remote and remarkable spots in the world. The simplicity of people's lives is beyond description. A Fijian apparently needs only an airy, open shack, a washline, a boat for fishing, trees that bear fruit and coconuts for eating, drinking and selling. There is such a feeling of timelessness and freedom!

On one tiny island, I saw a wedding ceremony conducted by a Catholic priest in the Fijian language. Just a young girl and boy and the groom's mother in a beautiful church filled with stained-glass windows imported from France, mats on the floor, a few pews and the whitest marble altar. The groom wore shoes, the best man wore sneakers and the mother was barefooted. The priest had an Irish face and wore black Fijian sandals that peeped beneath his white gown. We stood ever so quietly in the back and watched. It was very delicate and touching...

To my mother, Mrs. Louise Bach of Cape Code and Lakewood, N.J., I wrote:

These islands are lush, rich—an alive but tranquil paradise. We've visited a "town" in the beautiful and placid bay of Sabusabu and an uninhabited island, where we barbecued freshly caught Spanish mackerel. We've jogged on the whitest sands, snorkeled in crystal turquoise waters and collected seashells. We travel on the yacht Tau, and the crew is the best-spirited, hardest-working, most informed and informative I've encountered. Captain Evans is a big, gentle six-foot-six Fijian. His wife, who has joined us for a couple of days, is a sweet, gentle woman of six feet! Both are of island royal blood. They have 11 children and two huge coconut plantations, and they're planning a great roast pig feast for us at one of the plantations.

Last night we were at anchor in the bay; George and I slept on mats atop the wheelhouse. It was wonderful snuggled under a blanket... brilliant stars... good sound sleep. Then there were the shoreline roosters who woke us up to see a spectacular sunrise over the mountains and lake-calm waters. We were drenched in delicious dew (the first good thing for my skin!). What with salt spray, wind and sun, I feel like a crusty, salty old seadog.

George is really enjoying this! In his quiet, contented way, he's happy just to be here and to be left alone to play gin with Uncle Bud (George's uncle, who traveled with us for the first five days), while I venture off to visit old cemeteries and shop for a sulu, the island's simple, basic dress—two yards of material worn wrapped around the waist by men and women.

We're up by 6 a.m. and breakfasting on papaya, scrambled eggs and fresh poached fish by 7:00. Then we fish off the aft deck; so far we've caught a barracuda, a mahimahi and a Spanish mackerel. I've recently discovered that I like raw fish fresh out of the sea, cleaned, delicately sliced and with a bit of lemon and salt!

I wrote to my brother, George Alfred and his girlfriend Georgette:

You guys would go mad over the fresh fish, the peace, the beauty, the untouched wildlife of Fiji! I've collected lots of wonderful shells, which we can all share when I get back. George C. is preparing to throw all his clothes and other possessions overboard to make room in his suitcases for my collection. (He really did buy an $11 suitcase for my shells.)

George C. Scott and wife Trish—barefoot, beachcombing—sailing into timelessness and freedom in the South Pacific.

To Arthur and Louise Julian, our best friends in Los Angeles, I wrote:

Weep, weep... today you missed the fruit bats! They reside deep in a now-dead volcano. Normally they come out at 6 p.m. to fly into the fruit trees, but so anxious were we to take their pictures that we arranged to disturb them at noon. We did this by driving up to the rim of the volcano in a jeep and firing off a few rounds from a shotgun. The bats, who like to spend their days quietly, came soaring out by the thousands!

Fortunately they maintained their circular ascent. My own dear "General Patton" was perched right there, somewhat precariously, with his camera. He was in command of the bat-photographing expedition. Naturally, the film needed changing at just the crucial moment in all this circling...

I wrote to Matt and Devon Scott, George's college-age children:

Even as I write, a feast of roast pig is being prepared on the world's most remote beach. I lamented the loss of Mr. Pig and resigned myself to not making his acquaintance beforehand. I suspect by 7 p.m. I'll be over my remorse, though markable trait of the Fijians is their unobtrusiveness. When we boarded the yacht for our cruise, 40 or 50 Fijian men and women gathered not more than 10 feet from us to observe us and the craft. They watched quietly and pleasantly, but neither George nor I felt intrusion. I ruminated on this seeming paradox. It was an entirely new experience. There was an uncannily inherent sense of gentle dignity, but their nonintrusion struck me most. I loved and respected them immediately for this rare quality. In any other port, if a similar situation arose—of so many people observing us at such close range—I know we'd have felt forced to escape and, as we had many times in the past, hide below deck until we pulled out of port. Here we were comfortable, at ease, natural and with absolutely no sense of being invaded. It was beyond relaxing. It was blissful, and I still wonder at it. What purity did these people possess that their encircling of us was not suffocating, that their presence was not a pressure? There was a peacefulness about them, a strong gentleness...

Yesterday George put on sneakers and socks for the first time in days, and he couldn't wait to get them off... decided they were the most detestable, claustrophobic things ever. Isn't it interesting what a couple of weeks of beachcombing can do?

Last night we had a rather unorthodox birthday party for Chad, our first mate. Chad wore one of his own riotously colorful shirts and parted his hair in the middle. The table was beautifully decorated with exquisite shells, flowers and tall candles; and we brought out one of our two bottles of champagne (which no one liked) and used it for toasting. Then Chad confessed his birthday was really still-to-come... "but thank you all."

Today we went ashore on a beach where teenage boys were at play. We greeted each other as though we were at a Geneva Conference, with shakings of hands and Bula (Fijian for hello). One boy assumed the responsibility for guiding us about his tiny village with great dignity and earnestness. He borrowed a shirt from one of the other boys, in order to perform his duties in better taste, and introduced us to the oldest man there—a white-haired, wizened and nearly toothless fellow, who smiled all the while. We watched the men of the village working in a small copra-beating plant. They seemed very pleased by our visit and were only too anxious to be photographed. Suddenly, my camera lens was filled with smiles.

The villagers seemed thrilled by our visit and extended us every courtesy—even climbing 30-foot palm trees to collect fresh coconuts for us. They offered us shells and we offered some of them a look at the yacht. The children were hushed and well-behaved, fascinated as Tony took them to the galley and Seifo rushed them to the engine room. I think they liked the forward deck best. The handsomest little fellow of all (and they are quite good-looking people) was 10 or 12 and a mute, whose face was alive with impish delight. It may have been years since a large boat has anchored here. With no TV, no telephone, no movies and little radio, perhaps they will sit for hours, weaving and embellishing the tale about the time they took these visitors through the village.

My brother, George Alfred, a recent graduate student of the University of Hartford (and a one-time scholarship student at Oxford), found out about our big squall, in my letter that said:

We ran afoul of our first squall this afternoon. As I write, we're just managing to slip into a narrow passage called Sausau, which will put us in protected waters down to the mouth of the River Labasa. It was quite a big blow, coming up behind us and taking us up a bit short. I was showering at the time... had a rather difficult time of it. After hours of dark skies, we can see a few patches of blue...

George C. is a riot—he's boning up on everything from bowlines to charts, sails, weather, winds and stars. It's all for his next film, "Islands in the Stream," the last story Ernest Hemingway wrote before his death. George plays an old sailor, so he's trying to learn how to go about being an old sailor. It does keep him busy! The storm was a good opportunity for learning a thing or two.

Almost everyone was needed on deck—except me. I was decidedly not needed. Nor did I wish to be.

But it is going to be abominable returning to the bombardment of TVs and telephones and people who are not concerned with wonderful tales of the sea. Among the crew, we knew we had made a few lifelong friends and took with us their love, our memories of a perfect trip and the precious, rewarding knowledge that such a place and people exist.

How Well Do You Take Compliments?

By Carol Amen

"I'm a gardener, and I've been thinking about compliments in connection with my apple trees. They don't stop to consider whether or not to accept the sun and the rain. They just drink in the nutrients and keep growing."

Mrs. Henrietta Morris squirmed when the principal asked her to stand. "If it weren't for the efforts of this woman," Mr. Hartley said, indicating Henrietta, "tomorrow's bond measure wouldn't stand a chance." Trickle of wetness defied antiperspirant, and Henrietta shifted her weight as Mr. Hartley went on eulogizing her.

True, she'd lined up the speakers, phoned scores of parents and even organized the refreshments. The bond measure was worth it, and she'd do it all again, if only she didn't have to endure this spotlight. Finally, as the tribute ended, she sank to her seat murmuring miserably, "It was nothing."

Why do so many of us feel reluctant about accepting compliments? When complimented on an outfit that may have cost dearly in hours selecting it and dollars buying it, we shrug and mumble, "What, this old thing?" Even when the average person feels fairly confident, he's seldom going to agree when someone praises his brains, looks or accomplishments.

Psychologists warn us that too much modesty is inappropriate. They believe it's healthy to accept compliments. No matter what the experts say, however, most of us balk at overpraise.

Sometimes, if it's exaggerated praise, we doubt the complementer's sincerity. No matter what evidence we have to the contrary, it doesn't accomplish much to argue when told our dress is divine, our personality perfectly adjusted and our I.Q. Einsteinian. This excess of praise might be called "spreading the salve." Best advice is to swallow only small doses of such gush.

Some people are wary of accepting compliments because they know there's a barb attached. A wife hears from her husband, "Your hair looks good—finally." Another, day he says, "Hooray. You mended my trousers. They've only been on your sewing machine three months."

A real eyecopener for the die-hard compliment refuser is role swapping. Consider the following: 15-year-old Cathy rushes to congratulate Elaine, a high-school senior, after a tennis tournament. "Great game, Elaine. I watched the whole thing. You were all over the court. I hope some day I can play that well."

"You're crazy," Elaine insists, making a face. "My timing was off, my backhand weak, I didn't..." No matter what conclusion Cathy draws at this point, she's lost. Is it her eyesight that's lousy or her knowledge of tennis?

But putting herself in Cathy's tennis shoes can be a big surprise for Elaine. Though initially she believed discrediting Cathy's praise was honest, now she discovers that from the other girl's viewpoint, the disclaimer feels like a rejection.

A family counselor recently listed three compliments all of us need to hear from time to time. "I appreciate you." "I'm proud of you." "I love you." In addition, the counselor suggests, when such tributes come our way, we should look the complementer in the eye, smile, and say with conviction, "Thank you. I'll bask in that." No arguing or alibiing.

Instead of choking and gagging on compliments as if they were bad medicine, Dorothy Carnegie urges people to accept praise graciously. In a list of confidence builders, the wife of the late Dale Carnegie warns against shrugging off little morale boosters. We need compliments from others as well as the pats on the back we give ourselves when we have done well.

Henrietta admits she wanted Mr. Hartley's recognition, but wished he'd delivered it privately. Not long after the bond meeting, she spoke reflectively. "I'm a gardener, you know, and I've been thinking about compliments in connection with my apple trees. They don't stop to consider whether or not to accept the sun and the rain. They just drink in the nutrients and keep growing. I'm trying to be like that, too; and, you know, I think I'm getting better. If I'm lucky, my friends will be patient a little longer, because I want to accept compliments graciously."

Observations

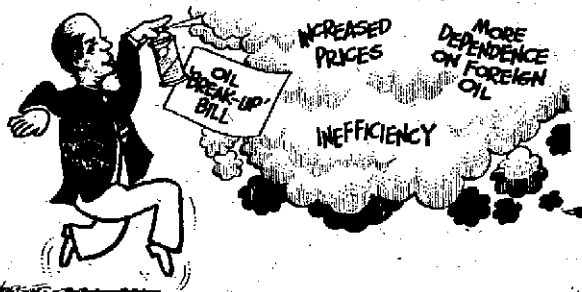

Blueprint for disaster. There's growing public outcry against the effort by certain Senators to smash the oil industry. A Senate bill would divide the 18 major companies into a host of splinter companies, each forbidden to engage in more than a limited part of the business. The efficiencies that help to brake energy price increases would be lost.

Divestiture

The voices of newspapers are challenging this election-year scapegoating of the oil industry. The New York Times calls divestiture of the companies a "dramatic and emotional nonsolution" to the country's energy problems. Score upon score of newspapers have taken similar stands. And concerned citizens in all walks of life are speaking out. Listen to what they are saying:

Higher petroleum prices ahead? If the oil companies are broken up, says Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Gerald L. Parsky, "...it is more likely that domestic prices will increase instead of decrease, and that domestic energy supplies will decline rather than rise." The Kansas City Star puts it more bluntly: "The people pushing divestiture are not doing anything to ease the energy shortage or bring down prices; they're just playing to the political galleries by trying to sock it to Big, Bad Oil."

American security weakened? For sure, says Roger E. Shields, Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense: "...the bill would be highly detrimental to the nation's security and its defense..." M. A. Adelman, professor of economics at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and often a critic of the oil industry, tells why: "Vertical divestiture would keep Congress and the oil industry busy for years, spinning their wheels, going no place, postponing investment decisions, losing a chance for active defense against the cartel [of foreign oil-producing countries which sets the price of oil imported by U.S. companies]..."

A hungrier America? Remembering that farms are tremendous users of energy, consider this comment from Edwin M. Wheeler, President of The Fertilizer Institute: "Proposals to break up the best and most effective energy supply system in the world endanger our role as the world's most efficient farmers and the best fed country in the world." To which Don Paarlberg, economist for the Department of Agriculture, adds: "Disruption caused by divestiture would impact not only at the farm level, but on through the economy..."

Write your Senators and Representatives, now, if you agree that destroying a vital industry is bad for America. And while you're at it, tell them real solutions are still needed. Specifically: a sound national energy policy that, in addition to stressing conservation, actively encourages more U.S. energy supply to ease dependence on foreign oil. As one of the major oil companies, we want to get on with that job.

Higher petroleum prices ahead? If the oil companies are broken up, says Assistant Secretary of the Treasury Gerald L. Parsky, "... it is more likely that domestic prices will increase instead of decrease, and that domestic energy supplies will decline rather than rise." The Kansas City Star puts it more bluntly: "The people pushing divestiture are not doing anything to ease the energy shortage or bring down prices; they are just playing to the political galleries by trying to sock it to Big, Bad Oil."

American security weakened? For sure, says Roger E. Shields, Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense: "... the bill would be highly detrimental to the nation's security and its defense..." M. A. Adelman, professor of economics at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, and often a critic of the oil industry, tells why: "Vertical divestiture would keep Congress and the oil industry busy for years, spinning their wheels, going no place, postponing investment decisions, losing a chance for active defense against the cartel [of foreign oil-producing countries which sets the price of oil imported by U.S. companies]..."

A hungrier America? Remembering that farms are tremendous users of energy, consider this comment from Edwin M. Wheeler, President of The Fertilizer Institute: "Proposals to break up the best and most effective energy supply system in the world endanger our role as the world's most efficient farmers and the best fed country in the world." To which Don Paarlberg, economist for the Department of Agriculture, adds: "Disruption caused by divestiture would impact not only at the farm level, but on through the economy..."

Write your Senators and Representatives, now, if you agree that destroying a vital industry is bad for America. And while you're at it, tell them real solutions are still needed. Specifically: a sound national energy policy that, in addition to stressing conservation, actively encourages more U.S. energy supply to ease dependence on foreign oil. As one of the major oil companies, we want to get on with that job.

"I just celebrated my 62nd birthday and most people take me for 42, thanks to you."

Natural Face Lifting By Exercise!

Now, from Hollywood, California, comes what may be the most important beauty news of the decade. A proven, minutes-a-day method of facial muscle shortening—done in your own home with your own ten fingers—that has been called, "perhaps the only method in the world by which one can lift a face naturally."

For What Is Lifting, Aging, Flabby Skin Really? Surely STRETCHES OUT MUSCLES. That The Years Have Caused To Lose Their Ability To Hold Themselves Tight And Firm!

As Madame Rungt says, it is not the skin, but the firmness or looseness of the muscle flesh beneath that skin that portrays age.

In fact, as she points out, the collapse of the upper cheek alone may cause more than 30 per cent of the aging appearance in the face. As the so vividly states: "Between the ages of 21 and 40, for instance, the upper cheek muscle may have sagged as much as half an inch; and by the age of 60 by as much as one inch, which means that we have an inch too much hanging over the lower part of the face. This results in hollowness in the upper cheek below the cheek bones, fullness and flabbiness in the lower cheeks, pouches from the mouth to chin, folds above the mouth line, drooping mouth corners and jowls."

"In addition, the muscles of the upper eyelids may sag as much as half an inch or more between the ages of 20 and 40, causing eyebrows to shift down and upper eyelids to overlap lashes, making the eyes appear smaller. And those muscles attached to one throat skin may sag as much as two inches, resulting in a 'turkey neck.'"

FROM A PLASTIC SURGEON:

As a practicing plastic surgeon for over thirty years, I have found that your work can play an important role in facial relaxation, and even the avoidance of excessive wrinkling and sagging.—Harold H. Bader, M.D., F.I.C.S.

"To Surely This Sagging, WE HAVE TO SHORTEN THE MUSCLE GROUP RESPONSIBLE!"

"My method of isometric facial exercise remedies the cause of the aging process of the face by tightening these sagging muscles... thereby producing a firming and a lifting out by rebalancing unopposing muscle tissues. All in a natural and healthy way, thus providing a natural youthful face which may be retained throughout life."

"And the skin itself will always adapt to the size of its underlying foundation. The skin is merely this covering over the flesh that has to return to the size of the muscle flesh when it is shortened through isometric exercise."

And She Says: This NATURAL Way To Lift The Face Is More ENDURING Than Plastic Surgery!

"Surgery can never restore tone in skin or muscles. No plastic surgeon in fact making but exercises, can tighten up unelastic muscles."

"For example, even the result from peeling off the wrinkled surface skin lasts only temporarily, since the poor muscle condition beneath the skin very soon causes the same wrinkles to form."

"The actual application of every one of these exercises takes only about one minute. The process tightens and shortens specific muscles, by contracting them to their fullest natural limit. In this natural way, the Santa Maria Rungt first introduced her method through Fortune Magazine. After this article, Madame Rungt conducted a daily half-hour television program. On this live program, women all over California saw almost "unbelievable" transformations take place in the facial contours of her mature models—and were able to duplicate these transformations, at the same time, in their own homes. Soon, she received testimonials from approximately 12,000 viewers. And how she has released this exact same FACE LIFTING BY EXERCISE method.

skin also benefits from the increased circulation." Consequently YOU MUST SEE INSTANT RESULTS FROM EVERY ISOMETRIC PERFORMANCE.

"With this technique, models removed wrinkles from under the eyes, crow's feet, smile and frown lines in just a few minutes right in front of the TV camera. "Puffiness in the upper and lower eyelids containing fluid cannot be removed surgically. For its remedy refer to the six exercises."

"A contour fault may be eliminated in a relatively short time. (After that) perhaps two or three times a week will be sufficient."

"The results are nothing short of amazing at any age. Most of my exercises if done correctly, produce instantaneous results, especially in areas where muscles are attached to the skin—as on the forehead, underneath the eyes, and in the crow's feet area. But we also get marvelous results on parts where the muscles lie deeper, as in the cheeks and jowls, which produce an immediate lift."

"You cannot help but see yourself looking younger, since each correctly applied exercise in this book has the power to turn your clock back regardless of age. And, if you can afford to eliminate 20 years from your appearance, this book can teach you how to do this in 1 to 4 months."

Your Personality—And Your Whole Future

By John E. Gibson

True or False? If your ambition is to be a comedian, you are more likely to succeed if you have certain personality traits. (See No. 4)

TRUE OR FALSE?

The thing that brings you the most satisfaction in life indicates which of three principal personality types you are.

Certain personalities are noted for their failure to pay their bills.

You can tell a lot about a person without even looking at him.

If your ambition is to be a comedian, you are more likely to succeed if you have certain personality traits.

ANSWERS

1. True. A team of Russian psychologists compared results of personality tests classifying men and women into three types according to their chief source of satisfaction in life: doing good (altruistic type), enjoying success in some practical endeavor (practical type) or learning something new about life or people (cognitive type). The altruistic type scored highest on social responsiveness and capacity for close interpersonal relationships. The practical type took top honors in industriousness, perseverance and ability to perform under pressure. And the cognitive type made the best scores on general intelligence.

2. True. Investigators at the University of Washington studied students who paid their bills as compared with those who didn't. They found interesting differences between men and women debtors. The women who turned the bill collector's dream into a nightmare had a marked tendency to seek thrills and excitement and to react with violent aversion to authority. The men who didn't pay tended to be chronic worriers, with easily bruised egos, and lacking in self-confidence; but they scored high on hostile and aggressive tendencies.

3. True. A phone conversation or voice recording will clue you in to a person's type. At the State University of New York, subjects heard the voices of various persons. Then the students were asked to judge the characteristics of each in terms of being kind or cruel, nice or unpleasant, calm or agitated, relaxed or tense, large or small, strong or weak. Results: the majority of character judgments were confirmed as correct by psychological tests.

4. True—as shown by psychiatrist Samuel S. Junes in a study of the intelligence, family background and personality of 55 nationally known comedians. Results indicated that comedians tended to be superior in intelligence, "ranging from bright-average to the genius level, with I.Q. scores running from 115 to 160." Their early lives seemed to be marked by suffering, isolation and feelings of deprivation. They used humor as a defense against anxiety and feelings of depression. Most were also found to be basically shy, sensitive and empathetic.

What the Constitution can tell you about buying an encyclopedia.

What keeps us free deserves more than just a few paragraphs.

As the nation's most important document, the Constitution should be of interest to everyone, especially in this Bicentennial/election year. And probably the best place to learn about the Constitution is in an encyclopedia.

But believe it or not, of the two leading encyclopedias, one gives its article on the Constitution of the United States just a few paragraphs and does not include the complete text of this historic document. While the other, World Book, devotes over 20 pages—including the full text with notes of explanation by a leading constitutional scholar.

And how thoroughly an encyclopedia covers something as important as the Constitution also gives you an idea of how well it covers other important American subjects.

So it should be no surprise when you don't find the full text of the Declaration of Independence or the Bill of Rights in the other encyclopedia as you do in World Book. And the other encyclopedia is just as brief when it comes to many other vital areas.

What the two leading encyclopedias can—and can't—tell you about the president.
If you want to be president

(or know someone who does), you'll want to read about that in World Book, too. Because we have a 13-page article on the nation's highest office, compared to a single-paragraph article in the other set.

There's no comparison when it comes to the vice-president, either. In fact, whether it's the White House, presidential succession, or even veto, you'll find more information under these titles in World Book.

Finding places to visit is easy in World Book, too.

Major differences between us don't stop at government, either. For example, World Book has beautiful, individual maps of each state and province. The other encyclopedia doesn't. And with America's growing love of the great outdoors, World Book has a 19½-page article on the National Park System, compared to a single-page article on National Parks in the other set.

Finding subjects is easy in World Book, too. Because we have an alphabetized, single-volume index.

Things aren't so simple with the other encyclopedia, because its complex indexing system is spread across 10 separate volumes. So even simple topics can mean a search through several different volumes to find the index entries you're looking for.

Easy reading makes for easy learning.

World Book not only tells you what you need to know, but does it in a simple, easy-to-understand style. And to help you even more, we also have over 29,000 illustrations, 10,000 in full color. Significantly more than the other encyclopedia claims to have.

What about cost?

You can buy World Book for only $309*. We offer a convenient monthly payment plan, too. Because World Book wants to make it as easy for you to learn as possible. Which is one of the reasons why we're the world's largest-selling encyclopedia.

So when you're ready to buy an encyclopedia, just remember—

There's a world of difference with World Book.

Two Hearty Call-of-the-Sea Chowders

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen makes a selection of delicious chowders. "One dish," says Marilyn, "you make from scratch with a fresh-from-the-catch flavor. The other, just as tempting, is from kitchen-shelf ingredients!"

FISH AND CLAM CHOWDER

- 1/4 lb. salt pork, diced
- 4 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 cups chopped onions
- 3 cups diced potatoes
- 4 dozen Little Neck Clams, scrubbed

Elizabeth Oes

Ready for hungry sailors: hearty (fresh-caught or fresh-bought) "Fish and Clam Chowder."

- 1 cup water
- 2 qts. milk
- 1 lb. fresh (or 1 pkg. [12 oz.] frozen) fish fillets, coarsely chopped
- 2 teaspoons salt
- 1/2 teaspoon celery salt
- 1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper
- 1/2 pt. heavy cream

1. In 6- to 8-qt. Dutch oven, fry salt pork at medium heat until crisp.
2. Add butter, onion and potatoes to salt pork and drippings. Cook, stirring occasionally for 8 minutes.
3. Place clams and water in large skillet and heat to boiling. Cover and allow to boil until clams open.
4. Reserving liquid, remove clams from shells and chop fine.
5. Add chopped clams and liquid from skillet to onion-potato mixture. Stir in milk, fish, salt, celery salt and black pepper. Heat to boiling, cover, reduce heat and simmer for about 30 minutes.
6. Stir in cream, then heat just until heated through.

Makes 4 1/2 qts.

QUICK SEAFARING CHOWDER

- 4 strips bacon, coarsely chopped
- 2 cans (1-lb. size) potatoes, drained and cubed
- 1/4 cup instant minced onion
- 2 cans (7-oz. size) tuna, drained
- 2 cans (10 1/2-oz. size) minced clams, undrained
- 2 qts. water
- 3 cups instant skim milk powder
- 1/2 cup non-dairy powdered creamer
- 3 teaspoons salt
- 1 teaspoon seasoned salt
- 1 teaspoon celery salt
- 1/2 teaspoon ground black pepper
- Few dashes Worcestershire sauce

1. In 6- to 8-qt. Dutch oven, cook bacon until crisp.
2. Stir in potatoes, onion, tuna, clams, water, skim milk powder, powdered creamer, salt, seasoned salt, celery salt, pepper and Worcestershire sauce. Stir to dissolve powders.
3. Heat to boiling and stir. Reduce heat, cover and simmer for 15 minutes.
4. Serve in large, deep soup bowls.

Makes 4 qts.

What's Smart: Both of these chowders are quick and easy to prepare and are especially welcome on rainy summer evenings or for weekend or holiday lunches. (Serve to that fisherman of yours who's been out all morning baiting his line!) Allowing for the cost and availability of fish in your neighborhood, select the chowder that suits you best.

ANGEL CORDERO JR.

"Nothing Serious Will Happen to Me"

On the morning after he won the 1976 Kentucky Derby, jockey Angel Cordero Jr. drove to a cemetery on Long Island, murmured a prayer and placed a string of red roses that had been given to him as a Derby victory bouquet on the grave of his father. "My father was a jockey and a trainer and taught me everything he knew," Cordero says. "He did not live to see me achieve the great success he dreamed I would have, but somewhere in heaven I am sure he is watching." Cordero, who earns $350,000 a year, is known for his close family ties and his warm and generous spirit. When critics rapped rival jockey Braulio Baeza, who rode the favored horse in the Derby but lost to Cordero's horse, Cordero publicly defended Baeza and gave one of the roses that symbolized his victory to his rival's wife. ... During his career, the 33-year-old Cordero has broken his collarbone, his ribs, his knees and his elbows, but he's always insisted with a smile, "I never worry about falls or being hurt. I'm sure nothing serious will happen to me." ... A native of Puerto Rico, Cordero says, "I do well because of my father's teachings and because I have such a great love for horses. I go to the track very early in the morning six days a week to work the horses I'm going to ride. The money I make is not as important as the satisfaction I get when I ride a winner. No matter how many races I win, each victory gives me a new thrill." ... Cordero won his first Derby aboard Cannondale in 1974; but this year's win had more significance for him because his mount, Bold Forbes (they won the Belmont together as well), was bred in Puerto Rico. The trainer was the man who gave him his first ride when he came to the States. ... Cordero has a wife and two children. "My wife didn't like me at first because she said I was too loud," he recalls. "Later, I quieted down, and she changed her mind."

A Few Wise Words About "Fever"

Did you know that 98.6 degrees F. is so normal for most people that thermometer manufacturers calibrate with that number in mind, but that your norm may differ? And your body temperature can vary up to two degrees on any day—the low point is in early morning during sleep, the high point in late afternoon when your metabolism is busiest. A hot shower or warm weather can raise your temperature a degree, and a plunge into icy waters can dangerously lower it. The rhythm system of birth control was made possible by the observation that women run body temperatures about one-half degree higher in the second half of the menstrual cycle than in the first. Is touch reliable in determining whether your child has fever? Not very. As fever mounts, skin circulation closes down. This keeps body heat—normally lost through the skin—inside, and skin may feel deceptively cool at the very moment that body temperature is rising. Conversely, skin may feel hot and sweaty at the very moment that the body is getting rid of fever. Special tip: To "sterilize" a thermometer, wash it in room-temperature water and detergent. You really don't have to worry about passing germs from one child to the next since thermometer glass is not a good medium for germs.

MoneyWise

Does Your Spending Hit "Emotional Roadblocks?"

Whenever Jim and Alice Harding are asked to dinner or a party, Alice complains that she has "nothing nice to wear." Jim agrees with her. Indeed, he often urges her to buy new clothes, but she rarely does. Her excuse is, "I just can't decide what looks best on me." Her real problem is being unable to make a decision to spend a substantial sum of money on herself. Many men and women faced with personal spending decisions are stymied by one or more "emotional roadblocks." According to psychiatrist Lewis Wolberg, persons whose parents were highly critical of them when they first began to make independent decisions still worry, even as adults, that something "bad" may happen if they act on their own judgment. Here are some of the subtle psychological factors that can interfere with money decision-making: 1) The fear of committing oneself. To some people, spending money is a negative act that locks them into what may prove to be an unwise situation. 2) The need to be "right" all the time. Some of us feel we have to be "perfect." Even a small goof—spending money on a movie that turns out to be dull or on a restaurant meal that's tasteless—is distressing to our self-image. 3) Excessive timidity. Spending money on yourself is an assertion of your own personality—your goals and desires. People who lack a normal amount of self-esteem often deny themselves even an inexpensive item because they think they aren't "worth it."

Does Your Spending Hit
"Emotional Roadblocks?"

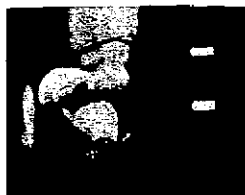

Whenever Jim and Alice Harding are asked to dinner or a party, Alice complains that she has "nothing nice to wear." Jim agrees with her. Indeed, he often urges her to buy new clothes, but she rarely does. Her excuse is, "I just can't decide what looks best on me." Her real problem is being unable to make a decision to spend a substantial sum of money on herself. Many men and women faced with personal spending decisions are stymied by one or more "emotional roadblocks." According to psychiatrist Lewis Wolberg, persons whose parents were highly critical of them when they first began to make independent decisions still worry, even as adults, that something "bad" may happen if they act on their own judgment. Here are some of the subtle psychological factors that can interfere with money decision-making: 1) The fear of committing oneself. To some people, spending money is a negative act that locks them into what may prove to be an unwise situation. 2) The need to be "right" all the time. Some of us feel we have to be "perfect." Even a small goof—spending money on a movie that turns out to be dull or on a restaurant meal that's tasteless—is distressing to our self-image. 3) Excessive timidity. Spending money on yourself is an assertion of your own personality—your goals and desires. People who lack a normal amount of self-esteem often deny themselves even an inexpensive item because they think they aren't "worth it."

Proof Of Temporary Relief From Minor Arthritic Pain

PHILADELPHIA—Tests at a Philadelphia nursing home have shown that Mentholatum Deep Heating Rub brings hours of temporary relief to minor arthritic pain, and can help improve mobility. The tests were conducted at The Presbyterian Home for Widows and Single Women, with an instrument designed to measure grip strength. Each woman first tested her grip; then applied Mentholatum Deep Heating Rub. Its greaseless, stainless formula warms deep, eases stiffness, soothes pain. Hours later when tested again, the grip strength of most of those tested had significantly improved.

Use as directed.

Mentholatum Deep Heating Rub and Extra-Strength Lotion.

NIKITA KHRUSHCHEV
"I'm afraid"

What terrible nuclear secret did former Russian premier Nikita Khrushchev learn before "retiring" unexpectedly from public life? "On September 6, 1964, Khrushchev seemed perfectly normal. All witnesses agree on that. He had not had one of his tantrums since that historic U.N. session in 1961, when he took off his shoe and beat the desk. He also probably had no idea that the official statement he was about to make was to be his last. That afternoon he was to astound a group of Japanese newspapermen. It was to be a routine interview—the press expected him to say that Japan was wrong to tie in so completely with the Americans. But something totally different happened. In an uncharacteristic dramatic tone of voice, Khrushchev said, 'Not far

At a beauty contest in England last month, young misses Suzanne, Emma and Fiona decided to dress up in fur wraps and bonnets and attend with their older sisters and cousin who were real contestants. When the girls' pet monkey, Fred, saw them putting on pretty clothes, he decided to do the same—and even smiled when one of the judges came by to ask for his name and age. Fred refused to answer any questions, and even though he didn't win the blue ribbon, he was unquestionably "queen" for the day.

JIMMY DEAN
A lot of bologna

Singer-broast-belted Jimmy Dean talks about his road up from poverty: "My father left home when I was 11, but my mother was a strong woman, and, because she didn't give up, neither did we. My brother and I picked cotton till dark most nights, in between cleaning out chicken houses and other odd jobs. We got in our fair share of scrapes—we had reputations as watermelon stealers in Texas—but we were proud enough so that we escaped being bad kids. My mother taught me to play the piano, and from there I went on to learn the accordion and the harmonica. I owe my musical success to her, along with a lot of other things. I'll never forget what I did with my first dollar," said Dean, who is today a wealthy man and owner, with his brother, of the largest breakfast sausage company, the Jimmy Dean Meat Company. "I bought six pounds of bologna and ate it plain in a matter of minutes. I'm a little bit more prudent with my money today, but I've still got a lust for life and a hunger for bologna." Jimmy's latest recording, "I.O.U.," has been at the top of the charts.

THE WHOLE TOOTH

I brush my teeth when I arise,
I brush them after eating,
I brush them ere I close my eyes
Each night. I swear, no cheating.

I brush my teeth between meals, too,
If I should crutch a cracker
Or something sweet should chance to chew,
For I'm a constant snacker.

I brush my teeth, thus, such a lot
humorous.

I'd laugh myself, in fact, were not

My cavities still quite numerous.
